This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

THE SECOND FRENCH PROTESTANT CHURCH, DU ST. ESPRIT, in New York

Erected on King, now Pine, Street, in 1704, of stone, plastered on the outside. It was 70 feet long and 50 wide, and was used till 1831. The view is from Queens, now Cedar, Street, showing the tower and church-yard, which were in the rear of the edifice: and is enlarged from a wood-cut by Anderson, after a drawing by Davis, in the New York Mirror of July 27, 1830.

INTRODUCTION.

The former Eglise françoise à la Nouvelle York, the records of which are here published for the first time, properly dates only from 1688. Back of this date there lies, however, an interesting chapter in the history of the Huguenots of New York, which cannot be passed over in silence. Long before 1688 many Walloon and Huguenot families had found their way to Manhattan Island, special divine services were at times held for them, and the influence of the French element was already widely felt throughout the province. In 1692 these separate services were merged with those of the more recently established French church, which thus became the representative Huguenot church of New York. As such it continued until 1804, when it became an Episcopal church, in which form it still exists in the present French Church Du Saint-Esprit.

A complete view of the history of the Huguenot church of New York may, therefore, be conveniently divided into four very nearly equal periods, the first of which extends from 1628, date of the first French service held at New Amsterdam, to 1688; the second, from 1688 to 1750; the third, from 1750 to 1804; and the fourth, from 1804 to the present time. The first period embraces the slow formation of the new society; during the second period the society reaches the highest point of its development, and the materials for its history are abundant; during the third period it declines rapidly, largely in consequence of the troubles caused by the revolution, until, at the beginning of the fourth period, it enters upon a new lease of life. As the first of these periods serves simply as a necessary introduction to the subsequent history, it will naturally be less fully treated than the second and third; and as the records here published stop at the end of the third period, the last period will not be treated at all.

Of the several Huguenot establishments founded in America, that of New York is the first in date, and, as will be seen, in most respects the first in importance. According to the Labadist travelers, who visited New York in 1679, Jean Vigné, whose parents were Protestants from Valenciennes, in French Flanders, was born on Manhattan Island as early as 1614 * ; and, although their names have not been preserved, it is probable that other Huguenots came here during the "obscure period" between 1614 and 1623. In the latter year the permanent colonization of New Netherland was begun under the auspices of the West India Company, which sent out a colony of thirty families, the majority of which were Walloon or French. † Some of these

* Mr. Henry C. Murphy, to whom we owe the discovery and translation of the Journal of the Labadists, remarks on this point : "This is an interesting statement, which may not only be compared with that hitherto received, attributing to Sarah de Rapalié, who was born on the 9th of June, 1625, the honor of having been the first born Christian child in New Netherland, but is to be considered in other respects. According to the data given by our travelers, who, writing in 1679, make Jean Vigné sixty-five years old at that time, he must have been born in the year 1614, eleven years before Sarah de Rapalié, and at the very earliest period compatible with the sojourn of any Hollanders upon our territory. . . . The first trading voyages to Hudson's river were made by the Dutch in 1613–14, and the first wintering or habitation there was in 1614–15. There must have been, therefore, one European woman at least in the country at that early period. Whether Jean Vigné's parents returned to Holland or remained here during the obscure period between the time of his birth and the occupation of the country by the West India Company, it is impossible to determine. Either may have been the case. If the statement, however, be correct, and there is nothing inconsistent in it, with the history of the colony as far as known, Jean Vigné was not only the first born of European parents in New Netherland, but, as far as known, in the whole United States north of Virginia."

† The Walloons are not here to be distinguished from the Huguenots. They originally belonged to the same general race, spoke the same language, and (those of them who became Protestants) professed, and suffered for, the same faith as the Huguenots.

families were sent to the Delaware, others to the Connecticut, and still others up the Hudson, where they formed the outposts of the new colony.

These exiles for conscience' sake, like those who followed them, were admirably adapted to lay the foundations of the future prosperity of the Empire State. They were noted for their courage and perseverance, their industry and skill in many arts, their frugality and love of home-life, their cheerfulness and politeness, and, above all, they understood and appreciated the value of a thorough education and a pure religion. It is a matter of regret that the names of these families have not been handed down to us. The only ones certainly known are those of George de Rapalié and of his wife, Catalina Trico, whose daughter Sarah, born in 1625, was the first female child of European parentage born in New Netherland. But it is probable, as has recently been suggested, that some at least of the remaining names are to be found among the signatures accompanying the petition which Jesse de Forest, of Leyden, addressed, in 1621, to the English Government for permission to lead a colony of Walloons and French into Virginia. *

Meanwhile these early colonists were from time to time reinforced by the arrival of other refugees, some of whom established themselves on Staten Island, which was destined to become an important Huguenot settlement, and on the opposite shore of Long Island. In 1625 there came out several Huguenot families with Verhulst; and, a year later, there arrived, among other notable accessions, Peter Minuit, the new Governor of the province, and Isaac de Rasières, his secretary, both of whom were Huguenots. Add to these new arrivals the families which were sent, in 1623, to the distant outposts of the colony, but which had nearly all returned at this time, and it will appear very likely, in the absence of definite figures, that the Walloons and French formed fully one-half of the 270 souls who then made up the population of New Amsterdam and its vicinity. But they lived scattered thorough several small settlements, doing work as the pioneers of the colony, so that any united action on their part was very difficult.

This was their condition in 1628, as we learn from the very interesting letter of the Rev. Jonas Michaëlius, the first Dutch minister of New Amsterdam. After mentioning the organization of a church, the writer says: "We have had at the first administration of the Lord's Supper full fifty communicants—not without great joy and comfort for so many—Walloons and Dutch; of whom a portion made their first confession of the faith before us, and others exhibited their church certificates. Others had forgotten to bring their certificates with them, not thinking that a church would be established here; and some, who brought them, had lost them unfortunately in a general conflagration; but they were admitted upon the satisfactory testimony of others to whom they were known, and also upon their daily good deportment, since we cannot observe strictly all the usual formalities in making a beginning under such circumstances. We administered the Holy Sacrament of the Lord once in four months, provisionally, until a larger number of people shall otherwise require. The Walloons and French have no service on Sundays, otherwise than in the Dutch language, of which they understand very little. A portion of the Walloons are going back to Fatherland, either because their years here are expired, or also because some are not very serviceable to the company. Some of them live far away and could not come on account of the heavy rains and storms, so that it was neither advisable, nor was it possible, to appoint any special service for so small a number with so much uncertainty. Nevertheless, the Lord's Supper was administered to them in the French language and according to the French mode, with a preceding discourse, which I had before me in writing, as I could not trust myself extemporaneously."*

The date of this important letter marks the foundation, not only of the Dutch, but also, in a sense, of the French, church of New York: for there can be no doubt but what the French services, thus begun, were continued during the remainder of Mr. Michaëlius' pastorate; and it is well known that the example of this noble Dutch minister, in preaching the Gospel in French to his Huguenot parishioners, was followed by some of his successors until the establishment of an independent French church. This was demanded, moreover, by the constantly growing importance of the Huguenot element. It is doubtful, in fact, notwithstanding the statement of Michaëlius, whether any considerable number of the Walloons ever permanently returned to Holland; and, on the other hand, the number of the new immigrants kept regularly increasing until it reached its highest point a few years after the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes. From 1628 to 1638, the arrivals were unexpectedly few, but quite important; during the next decade there was a notable increase, and, largely in consequence of the influence of the Bayards, a sort of French club, it is said, was organized, and the French became the fashionable language of the new community. From 1648 to 1658, the number of the refugees, among whom there were many Waldenses, was still greater, and the French element of the population of New Amsterdam had then become so important that, according to Bancroft, the public documents were issued in French as well as in Dutch and English. This rate of immigration continued until 1688, and it is probable that at that time fully two hundred Huguenot families had taken refuge in New York.*

Probably only a majority of these families established themselves within the limits of what was then New York City, and, allowing five members to each family, they constituted about one-fourth of its entire population. The others took up their abode for the most part in the neighborhood of the city, either strengthening older Huguenot settlements or founding new ones. As early as 1650, what is now Kingston received a few Walloon settlers; their number was largely increased ten years later, and this settlement finally led, under the leadership of Louis du Bois, to that of Le Nouveau Palatinat, or New Paltz. At about the same time a few families established themselves at New Castle, on the Delaware, where there may have existed at one time a French church. In 1661, Staten Island, which had

* In illustration of this remark it may be well to cite here the names of most of these families. A careful examination of the official documents relating to this period would reveal the names of many others: de Forest, de la Montagne, Bentyn, Melyn, Bout, Crégier, Moussart, Montfort, Provost, de Truy, Vincent, Blanc, Laurens, de Witt, Maryn, Brazier, Le Roy, Briel, Pennoyer, Martyn, Manuel, Parmentier, de Trieux, Hulet, Collet, d'Angole, Verlet, Bayard, Jaquet, Carpentier (Rev. been from the beginning a favorite abode for the refugees, received a considerable number of Waldenses and French. New Utrecht, on Long Island, where a few of the early Walloons had already made their homes, received other accessions in 1654, and again in 1666. In 1660, Bushwick was settled by "fourteen Frenchmen"; others went, at the same period, to Flushing, where they afterwards introduced the fine fruit culture which has ever since distinguished that place; and in 1670, several Huguenot families obtained a patent for the land in and about Bedford. In 1661, one-half of the inhabitants of Harlem, at the upper end of Manhattan Island, were Huguenots; and, not to mention other places of less importance, in 1677, a few families, led by David Demarest, formed a settlement near what is now Hackensack, in New Jersey.

There is a good deal of uncertainty as to the provision made at this time for the religious needs of so important a class of the population of New York. Many of them, having spent several years in Holland before coming here, probably understood Dutch sufficiently well to enable them to follow with profit divine service conducted in that language. But the majority of them were no doubt dependent upon the French language for their religious instruction; and if, in a case like this, one may judge of all by the example of one, all of them gladly availed themselves of any occasion to hear their own language spoken. Under date of October 13th, 1679, the Labadists, on the occasion of their visit to Pierre Cresson, who was then living on Staten Island, write thus in their Journal:* "This morning . . . . we came to the plantation of Pierre le Gardinier, who had been a gardener of the Prince of Orange, and had known him well. He had a large family of children and grandchildren. He was about seventy years of age, and was still as fresh and active as a young person. He was so glad to see strangers who conversed with him and his in the French language about the good, that he leaped for joy." It is, therefore, natural to suppose that, in a case like this, of exiles for conscience' sake, measures were taken from the first to sustain a French service; and such evidence as we have on the subject tends to establish that conclusion. Mr. Michaëlius seems to have left New Amsterdam in 1633. He was succeeded, in the same year, by the Rev. Everardus Bogardus, of whose special relations with the French nothing is known. The same is unfortunately also true of the Rev. Casper Carpentier, who died at New Castle in 1684. He was a brother-in-law of Commandant Jacquet, and may have arrived here during the pastorate of Mr. Bogardus. As he did not leave for New Castle until 1657, it is possible that he preached in the meantime to his countrymen settled in and about New Amsterdam. With the arrival of the Rev. Samuel Drisius, in 1652, we stand upon surer ground. Mr. Drisius, a German by birth, was called here as a colleague to the Rev. Joannes Megapolensis, of the Dutch Reformed Church, for the reason that he was able to preach in French and English as well as in Dutch. His ministry extended from 1652 to 1673; and during this entire period, with the exception of one or two years, French services were apparently maintained here. It has indeed been said that the services conducted in French by Mr. Drisius were confined to Staten Island. A simple comparison of dates will, however, show that this is a mistake. Under date of August 14th, 1664, Mr. Drisius writes as follows to the Classis of Amsterdam: "The French on Staten Island would also gladly have a preacher, but their families are few in number and poor, so that they cannot contribute much to the support of the gospel; and as our support here is unpunctual and small, there is no probability that they will settle a preacher. In the meantime, that they may not be wholly destitute, Governor Stuyvesant, at their request, has permitted me to go and preach there every two months and administer the Lord's Supper. This I have done for about a year. In the Winter season it is troublesome on account of the great water or bay, which must be crossed, and the showers and storms which occur." The date of this letter proves that Mr. Drisius began his services on Staten Island only in 1663, that is to say, eleven years after his arrival in New Amsterdam; and yet he had been specially called because he could preach in French! The conclusion would naturally seem to be that the French, to whom he had been engaged to minister, were not those of Staten Island, but those of New Amsterdam.

But, however this may be, it is certain that in the time of Governor Francis Lovelace the Huguenots of New York not only had a fully organized church, but also apparently a minister of their own nation. Indeed, as early as 1659, Mr. Michael Zyperus, a French licentiate, came here; and the following year his services were engaged by the Dutch church recently organized at Harlem. He preached there most probably in French and Dutch; but the congregation was too poor to support him, and he left in 1663 for Virginia, where he conformed to the Church of England and died after 1687. About 1672, however, when Mr. Drisius' infirmities prevented him from officiating any longer, the French of Harlem, and no doubt also those of other neighboring places, joined those of New York in sustaining regular French services. The evidence on which this fact rests is highly curious, and its discovery is due to Mr. James Riker, whose excellent history of Harlem is full of such interesting details. Two of the French inhabitants of Harlem, Demarest and Le Maistre, had for two or three years ceased to contribute to the support of the local Dutch "voorleser," who combined the functions of a schoolmaster with those of a reader and precentor. After repeated citations to appear, Le Maistre finally appeared before the Town Court on April 5th, 1677, to answer for his refusal to pay, and this is the plea he entered: "They of the French congregation, in the time of Governor Francis Lovelace, having received a preacher, the aforesaid Governor had said that 'the French of the Town of New Harlem should be free as to contributing to the Dutch voorleser.'"* The Court did not admit Le Maistre's plea, but the existence of an independent French church at the time spoken of is none the less proved by it. But who was the "preacher" referred to? Evidently not Mr. Drisius, for he did not come here during Lovelace's Governorship; besides, the language of the plea favors the idea that the minister was himself a Frenchman. If his name has been handed down, the choice would seem to lie between the Rev. Mr. Carpentier, who might have returned for a time from New Castle, and the Rev. Ezéchiel Carré, who was minister of the French church of Narragansett, R. I., in 1687. In the new edition of La France Protestante this Carré is, indeed, said to have left France only in 1686, and the dates given in that excellent work are generally exact. On the other hand, however, the name of Ezéchiel Carré occurs, on an old list of the earlier ministers of the Huguenot church of New York, as the first minister of that church. This document is preserved in the archives of the church, and appears to be in the handwriting of the Rev. Antoine Verren, D.D. Dr. Verren, having become rector of this church in 1828, had still access to sources of information which are now unfortunately extinct. There notably existed at that time, in the archives of the church, letters from several of the early Huguenot churches established in this country. This correspondence is now lost, and it is probable that, in the absence of other evidence, it was on proof furnished by such letters that Dr. Verren placed Mr. Carré's name on the list in question. But whatever the name of the pastor may have been, the church itself must have ceased to exist in 1678. At that date David Demarest and others were dismissed from the French church of New York to the Dutch church of Bergen, N. J., but a year later the Labadists, visiting New York, make no mention of a French church there, and some of the settlers on Staten Island told them that they then had "neither church nor minister."

This unfortunate state of affairs was remedied in 1682, by the arrival of the Rev. Pierre Daillé, who has been not inappropriately called the Apostle of the Huguenots in America. A kinsman of the great Jean Daillé, Pierre was born in France, probably at Châtelleraut, in 1649. At the early age of about thirty he became Professor in the Academy of Saumur, the foremost of the four Protestant schools of theology in France. There his zeal and learning soon attracted the attention of the Catholic party, and he was banished the kingdom. Accompanied by his wife he seems to have taken refuge in Holland, where, it has been hitherto supposed, a call from the consistory of the Dutch church of New York met him. It has recently been shown, however, that from Holland he proceeded to England, where he was episcopally ordained, and that it was under the auspices of the Lord Bishop of London that he came to America.* On his arrival here, he applied himself at once, and with characteristic energy, to the interesting but difficult and laborious task of preaching the gospel to his brethren scattered through the province of New York. He began his work by reorganizing the French church of New York, which continued to prosper under his diligent care till 1692. A number of Huguenot families, which had become members of the Dutch church, at once joined the French. Even Governor Andros, "understanding and speaking both Low Dutch and French," became an attendant at the French services, which were held, like the English services, in the Dutch church within the fort. Mr.

* See Dr. Baird's Huguenot Emigration to America, Vol. II., p. 236.

Daillé next revived the church on Staten Island, from the members of which we have a petition, dated January 15th, 1683, asking not to be obliged to contribute to the support of the English minister. Then this indefatigable missionary turned his attention to the more distant Huguenot settlements. In January, 1683, he visited New Paltz, and established a church in which the French language was used until 1733. A few years later he founded a church at Kinkachemeck, near Hackensack, N. J.; and there was probably not a single Huguenot establishment within reach which he did not repeatedly visit and encourage with the word of God. He was, in the language of Selyns, whose colleague he became on his arrival at New York, "full of fire, godliness and learning," and maintained "the cause of Jesus with untiring zeal."*

Meanwhile, on the 22d of October, 1685, the Edict of Nantes was finally revoked, and soon afterwards the refugees began to arrive in such numbers that the Huguenot church of New York entered upon a new period of its history. They came principally by way of Holland, England, the West Indies, South Carolina and Massachusetts; and, besides largely strengthening some of the already existing French settlements, they founded the important town of New Rochelle. In 1689 New York City alone sheltered some two hundred Huguenot families, and their number and importance were increased for some time by the accessions which they received in subsequent years. Nor did their strength prevent them from being everywhere cordially welcomed. As early as 1683 Governor Dongan was instructed to give them "all fitting encouragement, so far forth as may be consistent with his Majesty's service"; and this cordial disposition towards them on the part of the home Government was warmly seconded by all classes in the colony. Some of them had become British subjects during their sojourn in England; others, in order to become qualified to trade, applied here for letters of denization, which were freely granted. Accordingly they took an active interest in the affairs of the province, and many of them attained to the highest positions of trust and influence.

Among the refugees who came here in the latter part of 1687 was the Rev. Pierre Peiret, to whom belongs the honor of having been the immediate founder of the Huguenot church of New York. He came from the County of Foix,* in the extreme southern part of France, and was accompanied by his wife and, apparently, two children, Madeleine and Pierre. He arrived in New York not later than the 10th of November, 1687, at which date we have an affidavit by him and two of his companions, Pierre Reverdy and Michel Paré, in reference to the accidental death at sea of Richard Burt, the captain of the ship "Robert," in which they came from London. Immediately on his arrival he gathered around him a band of his fellow refugees, with whom he organized an independent church under the name of the Eglise françoise à la Nouvelle York; or, as it was sometimes called, Eglise des Réfugiés françois à la Nouvelle York; and in the following year he succeeded in erecting the first edifice exclusively devoted to French services. It was situated "in the Street commonly known by the name of Petty-Coat-Lane; butting northerly to the said Street, southerly to the ground of Jasper Nissepat, deceased, westerly to the ground of Isaac De Forest, deceased, and easterly to the ground of Henry Van Feurden; being in length Forty eight Foot nine inches, and in breadth in the Front Twenty-seven foot seven inches, and in the rear Twenty eight six inches; of which breadth on the west side from the front to the rear is taken off and reserved three foot and three inches, for a common alley." * Petticoat Lane was later known as Marketfield street, and the site of the church is now entirely covered by the Produce Exchange. The building, to which a gallery was added in 1692, may then have seated from three to four hundred persons. As it appears from Mr. Selyns' correspondence with the Classis of Amsterdam, the refugees were then rapidly increasing in number, and their church accommodations were not too many. Under date of October 10th, 1688, he writes: "Our French brethren are doing well, and their congregations increase remarkably by the daily arrival of French refugees." †

It must have been a memorable day for these noble exiles when they were permitted for the first time to worship in this humble church in Marketfield street! In France their churches, once so numerous and flourishing, had all been destroyed or put to other uses; and their brethren, who had remained firm in the faith, had either been dispersed, like themselves, among the nations of the earth, or were reduced to wander about from place to place among the mountains and deserts of France. Here, on the contrary, they had once more a church of their own; they again possessed the inestimable privilege, for which they had abandoned all, of worshipping God according to the dictates of their own conscience, and a bright future, full of radiant promise, opened up before them. One is not surprised, therefore, to learn that they joined with heart and voice in their simple but impressive service; that they usually filled their "temple" to overflowing; and that as often as their circumstances permitted it, their brethren of the neighboring villages came to join them in their solemn worship. "It was here," says Dr. King, "that every Sabbath day the people assembled, for twenty miles round, from Long Island, Staten Island, New Rochelle, &c., for public worship. Every street near was filled with wagons as early as Saturday evening, and in them they passed the night and ate their frugal Sunday repast, presenting a touching spectacle of purity and zeal." *

Heretofore the French services, as far as is known, had always been held in the Dutch church, in the fort. Since the English occupation they appeared to have been held during the interval between the Dutch service in the morning and the Church of England service in the afternoon. The hour was certainly inconvenient, and it is probable also that some of the Huguenots shared, though not for the same reason, the known repugnance of many of the Dutch at attending church in the English fort. Add to these two considerations the numerical strength of the Huguenots at that time, and the propriety of building an exclusively French church becomes sufficiently apparent. All the Huguenots of New York did not, however, at once support this church. For some reasons not well understood the congregation to which Mr. Daillé ministered continued to meet in the Dutch church till 1692, when it finally united with the congregation worshipping in the church in Marketfield street. Mr. Selyns, the Dutch minister, under date of October 12th, 1692, thus reports this event: "We must not omit to mention that the two French churches have been united, and that Dom. Peiret will perform service in the city for the most part, and Dom. Daillé in the country—all to be one church, and the income to be divided equally between them." † The immediate reasons for this action was no doubt the determination of the Dutch themselves to leave their church in the fort, which they surrendered to the English, and to build for themselves a new church in Garden street. This was done in 1692, and Mr. Daillé's people, practically left without any church, naturally found a home with their brethren in Marketfield street.

But there were evidently other causes at work as well. During the Leislerian troubles, the former happy relations existing between the different classes of the population were ruthlessly torn asunder. Leisler had always maintained the most friendly relations with the Huguenots. He cordially welcomed all those who came while he was in power, and he bought for them the township of New Rochelle, portions of which he continued to release to them while he was in prison. But, besides the more private services which he rendered them, his public role would very naturally have drawn to his party the great mass of the French. Their position under James the Second was far from being secure. Indeed, at that very time the reduction of New York was contemplated by the Count de Frontenac, who had received instructions to send back to France the refugees whom he might find there. The panic which this projected invasion of New York caused among the Huguenots may best be understood from an extract of a letter written by one of them, Pierre Reverdy, to the Bishop of London. Its broken English renders its appeal only the more touching. Under date of December 30th, 1689, Mr. Reverdy writes: "The two ministers Mr. Ware and Mr. Boiceau have been heer a great while waiting for a convoy for Virginia—heer are some now dutch and English bound fur the Canary's—we doe intend God willing to take the uportunite—(The French for certain have a designe upon New York) if your Lordship would be pleased to procure the Kings letter to Capt Jacob Leysler now Govrr there, untill the Kings Govr doth come to order him to secure all them that are against this King, and to incoredge him and the Councill to secure the place untill Col: Slawter cometh, it would be very necessary: there 200 French families about New York which will be put to the torture if the french takes itt. They came out of Caroline St Christophes and London. I hope your Honour will commisserate our condition my family being one of them,"* &c. Under such trying circumstances one can readily imagine with what profound gratitude the refugees returned thanks to Almighty God, on July 17th, 1689, only a few days after the arrival of the news, for the accession of William and Mary. But their public attitude, as well as that of others, was divided. A large number supported Leisler, and a large number strongly opposed him throughout his career. Both parties proclaimed the accession of their Majesties, and were certainly sincere in wishing to hold for them this province, against foreign as well as domestic foes. But Leisler's friends were by no means blind to his faults. Both Daillé and Peiret remonstrated with him against his excesses, for which he threatened them with imprisonment; and Peiret afterwards went so far as to sign, with some of the principal Huguenots of New York, the merchants' petition against Leisler. But Daillé, who in this matter represented accurately a part of the French element, stood by him to the end. "If our three Dutch ministers," write some members of the Dutch church to the Classis of Amsterdam, "had done the same as Dom. Daillé . . . was wont to do, who thinking that something more mild could have been done, went to Commander Leisler and exhorted him to meekness, and when he was in prison and condemned, did all his devoir to dissuade Governor Slaughter from the execution, urging him not to let Leisler die. Now, if these three had done their duty, who does not see that this murder could have been prevented?"† And when he failed in that, he induced a large number of the French in New York, Harlem, New Rochelle, &c., to join him in petitioning the Government for Leisler's pardon. For this humane act he was cited before the General Assembly, and narrowly escaped being imprisoned. This fact alone shows how high party spirit then ran. The rules of justice and mutual forbearance were forgotten by both sides; prejudice and passion held sway, and members of the same family were sometimes found arraigned against each other. Of course the French did not escape the general contagion; and from these troubles may be said to date some of the dissensions which from time to time broke out in the French church, and the difficulties which, as a body, the French occasionally experienced here.*

In 1696 Mr. Daillé resigned his position here to accept a call from the French church of Boston. He was, no doubt, largely influenced in this determination by his changed circumstances. As early as 1686 two-thirds of the congregation of Staten Island seceded from the church of New York. The secession was provoked by Laurent Vandenbosch, a Frenchman, who had been until recently pastor of the Boston church. Writing to Increase Mather, Mr. Daillé, speaking of Vandenbosch, says: "But to pass over other matters, he, contrary to pledges given, and to what is honorable and just, snatched away to himself two parts [two-thirds] of our Church (which reside in the country); so that our Church, which, before the arrival of the above mentioned

* Leisler is generally supposed to have been a German by birth, and probably he was; but it may not be amiss to quote here a reference to him found in the manuscript of M. du Simitière, now in possession of the Philadelphia Library Company. It is to this effect: "New York, May 31, 1769. I have been informed by Mr. Buvelot, who had it from old Mrs Bontecou's own mouth, that she came to New York from France during the time that Leisler had the Government; that she and her family were well received by him; that he spoke French; that he was a Swiss, and that mentioning a Swiss Colonel in the French service at that time of the same name, he said it was his brother. Mrs. Farmer, daughter of Abm Gouverneur, who married Milborne's widow, told Mr. Hastier, a few days after the above date, that Mr. Leisler had retired from France for the persecution, and was an elder of the French Church in New York; but if so, it must have been long before the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes, as Mr. Leisler is mentioned in the list of taxables in 1674." Vandenbosch, was intimately joined together, and, so to speak, one heart and one soul, now went off into [distinct] parts." Vandenbosch, who was evidently a troublesome character, had to leave Boston on account of some irregular practices, and in 1689 he was finally deposed from the ministry. The breach which he caused here was never perfectly healed; but it called forth two interesting Latin letters from Daillé, which, together with a few others, are all the literary remains of that learned and excellent man.* Meanwhile other country churches seem also to have fallen away or to have disappeared altogether. Mr. Daillé's last recorded semi-annual visit to New Paltz was in 1692; and with the death of David Demarest, in 1693, the projected colony of Kinkachemeck failed, and, with it, the church which Daillé had established there. Although he was succeeded in New Paltz and on Staten Island by the Rev. David de Bonrepos, it is possible that the Huguenots residing in the country then shared to some extent the feelings of the Dutch, of whom Selyns writes under date of October 12th, 1692: "Bergen, Hackensack, Staten Island and Harlem have fallen off, under the idea they can live without ministers and sacraments." † At the same time differences of views would, under the peculiar circumstances in which Mr. Daillé was placed, very naturally develop themselves between him and his parishioners. Mr. Rou, of whom we shall have occasion to speak later on, thus refers to the matter in his third memorial: "I know they have always been at war with them [their ministers], to begin from the time of Mr. Daillé; and that the late Mr. Pieret, who was a worthy Minister, lived in torment among them, as some very creditable Persons who were his friends, have assured me; I know that they have put their ministers out, and that they always pretended to a power to do it,"* &c. But, whatever the precise nature of these difficulties may have been, Mr. Daillé's position at New York had evidently become unsatisfactory; and he accepted the call from Boston, where his character and talents had freer scope, and where the little French church had recently received some accessions from New Oxford. And there, honored and respected by all, this eminent Huguenot pastor continued to labor until the end. After a lingering disease of some thirteen weeks, he died there, without issue, on May 20th, 1715, in the sixty-seventh year of his age. By his will he left, among other bequests, his books for the use of the church, one hundred pounds for the support of the ministers of the church, ten pounds for the erection of a church edifice, and five pounds to the French schoolmaster.

On the resignation of Mr. Daillé, Mr. Pieret again became sole pastor of the New York church. We have already seen what part he took during the Leislerian troubles. In this he was supported by such men as de Lancey, Barberie, Boudinot, Le Boyteulx, Mesnard, de Peyster, Minvielle, Bayard, de Forest and others, who were representative Huguenots, and who signed with him the petition against Leisler. But he had not in this matter the sympathy of the great number of his people; and it may have been largely due to this fact that, as Mr. Rou says, he "live in torment among them." But these were not the only difficulties he and his congregation had to contend with. The French had now become a very important factor in New York politics, and the success of an administration largely depended upon their attitude towards it. The administration of Bellomont offers a notable example of this fact. In common with the majority of the citizens of New York, many of them soon became opposed to Lord Bellomont, who was evidently much annoyed at their course. Under date of September 21st, 1698, he thus writes to the Board of Trade: "I must acquaint your Lordships that the French here are very factious, and their number considerable; how safe it is for this Province, which I take to be the key to all the rest upon the continent and the cheife frontier towards Canada, to incourage them, I submit to your Lordship's judgment. At the last election they ran in with the Jacobite party, and have been since so insolent as to boast they had turned the scale and could ballance the interests as they pleased." And then the noble Lord adds: "There came thirty-three French to me at one time to be denizized; they desired to be comprehended in one letter of denization without paying fees. I could have consented to that part but I thought it became me in prudence to delay the giving them such a letter till I should first know your Lordships' pleasure therein. Some French that passed for Protestants in this Province during the war have since been discovered to be Papists, and one would suspect their businesse was to give intelligence to Canada . . . . Where I met with a merchant amongst the French, and known to be a good Protestant, to such I grant letters of Denization. I heare the French have wrote to England for a letter of Denization for all these people that I have delayed till I know your Lordships' pleasure, and for ought I know a great many more, and they say they will have them denizized in spight of me." *

It is difficult to admit the sincerity of these representations; for, after having thus endeavored to defame the French of New York in the eyes of the Board of Trade, he did his utmost here to win them over to his side. To this end he invited to come to New York Mr. Gabriel Bernon, the leader of the Huguenot colony established at New Oxford, Mass., with whom he was on very intimate terms. The ostensible object of the interview, which took place in the latter part of March, 1699, was to confer with Mr. Bernon in regard to matters relating to the King; but the real object was evidently to use him as a tool to persuade his fellow refugees to act thereafter with the Governor's party. Mr. Bernon had, accordingly, several interviews with Mr. Peiret and the principal members of the French church, in which he apparently assured them of Bellomont's good will towards them, and of his deep regret that so much animosity should exist between the English, French and Dutch. But this disinterested intervention proved of no effect; to all such assurances they replied that they preferred "going to the Mississippi rather than submitting to Lord Bellomont."* It will be remembered that it was at this time that some four hundred Huguenot families, anxious to make a final effort to retain their nationality, sent a memorial to Bienville, the explorer, to be remitted to Louis XIV., asking to be permitted, under the sovereignty of the King of France, and in the enjoyment of freedom of conscience, to settle themselves on the banks of the Mississippi. It was probably to this noble project that the French of New York referred in their interviews with Mr. Bernon, and to which Pontchartrain, in the name of Louis XIV., made the unfeeling reply: "The King has not driven Protestants from France to make a republic of them in America."† But the matter did not rest here. Mr. Bernon evidently felt chagrined at the failure of his mission; and on returning to Boston he left a letter for the Consistory of the French church, in which he politely, but severely, lectures them, in the name of Bellomont, on the duties they owe to King William and to his representative here; and he insinuates that they were lacking in respect and loyalty to the authorities established. This letter, which he afterwards made public, is dated March 25th, 1699, and closes thus: "I have, with pain, seen some persons depart from the duty which we owe to my Lord, the Count of Bellomont. Do not think, that I am bold enough to erect myself into a censor, or to prescribe anything to you. But I thought it my duty, as a brother, to let you know my true sentiments. This difference of tastes, of constitution, prevents people from agreeing perfectly. You are for Mississippi. I am for Rhode Island. I offer you my services, there, and everywhere else."* On the receipt of this letter Mr. Peiret, accompanied by the chief members of the church, waited twice on Bellomont, requesting to be informed in what they had proven themselves either disloyal or disrespectful to the King or to him, and protesting their entire innocence of such charges. Bellomont, who had in reality no reasonable cause of complaint against them, as in all they had done, or had proposed to do, they had simply exercised their undeniable rights as free citizens, was obliged to disavow his agent;† but he revenged himself in a way scarcely worthy of one in his position: he at once suppressed the annual pension of twenty pounds which he had hitherto allowed Mr. Peiret. In a petition addressed to Governor Cornbury, for the purpose of obtaining redress in this matter, Mr. Peiret says: "Milord Bellomont in Concil taking in Consideration how little both Mr. Vezey and yor petioner did receive from their Congregations for their Annual maintenance did order that a sume should be paid to them both out of the revenues of this Province every year as a help to themselves and family to keep Fortunately, these difficulties with the Government did not impede the normal development of the church. The edifice in Marketfield street having become too small in the meantime, Mr. Peiret and the Consistory were authorized, in 1703, by an act of the Assembly, to sell that property and to apply the proceeds, and such other contributions as members and others might voluntarily make for that purpose, to the erection of a new and larger church, and, if they thought proper, to that of a dwelling house for the minister. The sale of the old church was soon effected; the sum realized was largely increased by special subscriptions; and on July 8th, 1704, Lord Cornbury laid the corner-stone of the new church, naming it Le Temple du Saint Esprit. This name does not seem, however, ever to have been used, the society continuing to be known as the Eglise françoise à la Nouvelle York. This was that unique church edifice which many of our older citizens of New York still remember, and which vaguely recalled the temple languedocien. It was erected on a lot of ground situated "on the North East side of King's [now Pine] Street and is in Breadth in the Front to the said Street Seventy Feet and in the Rear Seventy five Feet and in Length extending from the Front on both sides to Little Queen [now Cedar] Street on the Easterly Side one hundred and fifty four Feet and on the Northwesterly side one hundred and fifty Seven Feet and one Half Foot English Measure."* It was built "of stone, plain both within and without"; was "fenced from the Street," and had "a Steeple and a Bell,* the latter of which was the Gift of Sir Henry Asshurst."† It was fifty by seventy feet in size, and the rest of the ground was used as a church-yard. An idea of its appearance as first built may be formed from the engraving in this volume, made from a drawing by Mr. Davis, the architect, before it was taken down, where it is partially represented.‡ It was thoroughly repaired in 1741; and on Wednesday, August 24th, 1743, the anniversary of Saint Bartholomew's day, a stone, bearing the following inscription, was inserted in the front wall over one of the windows: "Aedes Sacra Gallor. Prot. Reform. Fund: A. 1704, penitus repar. 1741"; that is, Church of the French Reformed Protestants, founded in the year 1704, and entirely repaired in 1741. Mr. Rou, who caused this stone, with the inscription, to be erected, after recording the fact in the register of the church, added this note: "NB. Le nombre des lettres de l'Inscription denote précisement, mais obscurement l'année en laquelle cette pierre a eté posée, savoir en . . 43. La Pierre preparée, taillée et gravée par Jaques Coleman a couté 15 shillings, et la peinture faite par Romen le fils a couté 15 sols, que j'ai payés." It should be added here, for the sake of completeness, that in 1802 the cupola on the tower, which had become unsafe, was taken down, and the open space boarded over, as represented in the engraving which has been just spoken of, and which in a small form appeared in the New York Mirror for 1830. This church was used for divine worship until 1831, when the property was sold.

The church in Pine street was finished towards the end of 1704; but Mr. Peiret, who had been the prime mover in its erection as he had been in that of the church in Marketfield street, did not live to see its entire completion. He died on September 1st, 1704, in the sixtieth year of his age, and was buried on the following day in Trinity church-yard. He was a man, according to Mr. Selyns, of great learning; and from all that can be gathered of him, he was a noble example of the Huguenot pastor. There are several instances on record which show that he was deeply interested in the material as well as in the religious interests of his persecuted and exiled brethren. As a citizen, he took an active part, as we have seen, in the public affairs of his adopted country; and, although firmly attached to the particular polity of the church which he served so ably and so disinterestedly, he was always one of the first to join in any movement looking towards the suppression of sectarian feelings and influences. He died poor, and in recognition of his services both his congregation and the Government allowed his widow a year's extra salary. Of the four children born to him here, Susanne, Gabriel, Françoise and Elizabeth, one seems to have died in infancy; the others soon disappear from view. Of the two older ones, Madeleine married Mr. Bartholomew Fuerst, whose family had been established at New York for a number of years; and Pierre also married and removed to Milford, Conn. His tombstone, in Trinity church-yard, bears a double inscription, in French and Latin. The French is as follows: "Ci-git le reverend Mr. Pierre Peiret M. D. St. Ev. qui chassé de France pour la religion a preché la parole de Dieu dans l'Eglise Francoise de cette ville pendant environ 17 ans avec l'approbation generale et qui apres avoir vescu comme il avait preché jusques à l'age de 60 ans il remit avec une proffonde humilité son esprit entre les mains de Dieu le I Septembre 1704."

On the 10th of September following, the church extended a call to the Rev. Jacques Laborie, who was then preaching to some eight or ten French families established at New Oxford, Mass., and instructing the Indians, whose language he had learned for that purpose. He was a native of Cardaillac, now a small town in the Département du Lot, France, and received his theological training in the Academy of Geneva, where he graduated March 12th, 1688.* "He was ordained in Zurich, October 30th, 1688, and went to England, where he obtained a license from the Bishop of London for teaching grammar and catechising in the parish of Stepney. He officiated in several of the French churches of London for nine or ten years, and then, in 1698, came to America."† He married, while in England, Jeanne de Ressignier, and there, also, he was naturalized in 1688. His ministry in New York was of short duration, extending over not quite two years, from October 15th, 1704, to August 25th, 1706. His ecclesiastical views were not, apparently, satisfactory to his people, who "paid him his wages and discharged him."‡ He then joined the Church of England, "engaged in the practice of medicine and surgery, and as early as the year 1716 settled in Fairfield County, Connecticut, as a physician, occasionally assisting the Church of England missionary. He married a second wife, Abigail Blacklach, August 29th, 1716, and died in or before 1731, leaving two sons, James and John, both of whom embraced the medical profession." §

During Mr. Laborie's brief ministry, nothing of special note occurred in the New York church; but during the four years' vacancy which ensued, the French, and especially Captain Benjamin Faneuil, a person of standing among them, were accused for the second time of treason against their adopted country. A certain Morris Newenhuysen, master of the sloop "Constant Abigail," pretended to have found on board, during a voyage he made in the latter part of 1706, some letters written in French and directed to France, under cover, to some persons in England; that the contents of one of these letters were to this effect, that "if the French squadron which took Nevis, had come hither, they would have met with less resistance"; and that this letter, which was not signed, appeared to him to be in the handwriting of Captain Faneuil; but that in consequence of his sloop's having been taken by a French privateer, he took occasion to throw overboard all letters directed to France, to prevent them from falling into the hands of his captors. This story, industriously circulated, caused the French great harm; and they at once appointed a committee, composed of Etienne de Lancey, Augustus Jay, Elie Neau, Abraham Jouneau, Thomas Bayeux, Elie Nezereau, Paul Droilhet, Jean Cazals, Daniel Crommelin, Jean Auboyneau, Francis Vincent, Alexander Allaire and Benjamin Faneuil himself, to petition the authorities carefully to inquire into the whole matter. This was accordingly done at once, when it was conclusively shown that the whole story rested on the suspicious testimony of Newenhuysen, who, it was further shown, understood very little, if any, French; and could, therefore, not have read the letters which he claimed to have found. Lord Cornbury consequently issued an order, taken in Council, fully exonerating our refugees from the accusation brought against them; but not, of course, before their good name had greatly suffered from the wide circulation of so base and absurd a slander."*

Upon the departure of Mr. Laborie, the pastor of the French churches on Staten Island, the Rev. Mr. de Bonrepos served as supply until the arrival of the new minister. This was the Rev. Louis Rou, who officiated here for the first time on July 30th, 1710. He was the eldest son of the well-known Jean Rou, Councillor to the Parliament of Paris, who took refuge in Holland in 1683.

* For the papers relating to this subject, see Documentary History of New York, Vol. III., pp. 427–433.

He studied theology at Leyden, and was ordained by the Walloon Synod at Tertholen, August 31st, 1709, at the age of about twenty-six years. His acceptance of the call to New York may have been partly determined by his marriage with Marie Le Boyteulx, members of whose family were already established here. Zealous and talented, the young pastor looked forward, no doubt, to a useful and happy career in the New World. The last considerable body of refugees had arrived in the same year as Mr. Rou; and the French church of New York, by these accessions from abroad, and its own natural growth, was then in numbers and wealth inferior to none, except the Dutch.* Moreover, the most cordial relations then existed between this church and the remaining churches of New York. This was particularly shown in 1713, when the Consistory of the French church offered a reward of ten pounds for the discovery of the persons who had desecrated Trinity Church †; and when, at the close of the same year, Mr. Rou contracted a second marriage, it was the Rev. Mr. Du Bois, of the Dutch church, who performed the ceremony. But, unfortunately, these hopes and expectations were not realized. Mr. Rou's long pastorate of forty years was inaugurated by the death of his young wife and their little son, Louis; and the bereaved husband and father soon found himself involved in difficulties which finally attracted for a time the attention of the entire province, and threatened the very existence of the church of which he was pastor.

A year previous to Mr. Rou's arrival, the French church of New Rochelle, with the exception of two individuals, conformed to the Church of England.

* See, further on, the beginning of the extract from Smith's History of New York. John Fontaine, passing through New York in 1716, attended services twice at the French church. He likewise says of it: "The church is very large and beautiful, and within it there was a very great congregation." He also speaks of a French club existing in New York at that time.

† See Documentary History of New York, Vol. III., pp. 444–451.

This event made quite a stir in the French church of New York, and ultimately led to a schism in both churches. Mr. Rou, who was no doubt friendly towards the English church, "refused to go thither [to New Rochelle] either to preach or administer sacraments, being persuaded that they [the dissidents] were not without a lawful pastor of their own, on whom he would not intrude."* This conduct, so entirely correct under the circumstances,† raised up for him "enemies amongst the most zealous and considerable of his congregation," who, afraid probably of being absorbed in their turn, encouraged in every way the New Rochelle dissidents to hold out. Meanwhile the number of the latter naturally increased, and Mr. Rou persisting in his refusal to interfere in the matter, his opponents finally succeeded in giving him a colleague, "tractable to their warm disposition." This was the Rev. Jean Joseph Brumeau de Moulinars, and his first recorded official act is dated November 12th, 1718; but he had apparently come to New York long before that, as he is already mentioned in Colonel Hunter's letter, just referred to, and which is dated September 21st, 1710. He was probably the son of Jean Brumand, Sieur de Moulinars, who was pastor of the church of Châtellerant, France, in 1683. After the Recall, the family took refuge in Holland, where Jean Joseph appears as a candidate for orders in the Reformed Church.‡

Notwithstanding Mr. Rou's opposition to the call of an assistant, Mr. Moulinars and he lived and labored together on apparently excellent terms for a number of years. But their characters were entirely different, and their happy accord came to a violent end in 1724. "Rou," it is said, "was a Man of Learning, but proud, pleasurable§ and passionate;" whereas "Moulinars, his colleague, was more distinguished for his pacific Spirit, dull Parts, and unblamable Life and Conversation."* This portrait, although overdrawn, is no doubt substantially correct; and the same differences existed between the two men in regard to their ecclesiastical views. In a letter of May 12th, 1725, we read: "Mr. Moulinars has declared (as can be proved), that he finds our church [the Episcopal] and that of Rome as like one an other as two fishes can be; . . . . and one of the chiefest reasons of his violence against Mr. Rou has no other ground than his [Rou's] constant affection to the Church, and the public approbation he has at all times given to its ceremonies and doctrines."† The existing difficulties, envenomed by these differences of disposition and opinion, first formally broke out in the election for elders in 1724. Besides the official documents relating to this case, most of which have been published in the third volume of the "Documentary History of New York," there exist two independent and contemporary accounts of it, both of which it will be best to reproduce here. The first, evidently written in the interest of the Moulinars party, is found in the "History of the Province of New York," by William Smith, and is as follows: "About the latter End of the year 1724, an unfortunate Dispute commenced in the French church, of which, because it had no small Influence on the public Affairs of the Government, I shall lay before the Readers a short Account. The Persecutions in France, which ensued upon the Revocation of the Edict of Nantz, drove the Protestant subjects of Louis XIV. into the Territories of other Princes. Many of them fled even into this Province: the most opulent settled in the City of New York, others went into the Country and planted New Rochelle, and a few settled themselves at the New Paltz, in Ulster County.

Those who resided in New York soon erected a Church, upon the Principles and Model of that of Geneva; and by their Growth and foreign Accessions, formed a Congregation, for Numbers and Riches, superior to all but the Dutch. They had two ministers; Rou, the first called, was a Man of Learning, but proud, pleasurable, and passionate. Moulinars, his Colleague, was most distinguished for his pacific Spirit, dull Parts, and unblamable Life and Conversation. Rou despised his fellow Laborer, and, for a long Time, commanded the whole Congregation by the Superiority of his Talents for the Pulpit. The other, impatient under Affronts, raised a Party in his Favor, and succeeded in the Election of a set of Elders disposed to humble the Delinquent. Rou, being suspicious of the Design, refused to acknowledge them duly elected. Incensed at this Conduct, they entered an Act in their minutes, dismissing him from the pastoral Charge of the Church, and procured a Ratification of the Act by a Majority of the People.* Governor Burnet had, long before this Time, admitted Rou into his Familiarity, on the Score of his Learning; and that Consideration encouraged a Petition to him, from Rou's Adherents, complaining against the Elders. The Matter was then referred to a Committee of the Council, who advised that the Congregation should be admonished, to bring their differences to an amicable Conclusion. Some Overtures, to that End, were attempted; and the Elders offered to submit the Controversy to the Dutch ministers. But Rou, who knew that the French Church, in this Country, without a Synod, was unorganized, and could not restrain him, chose rather to bring his Bill in Chancery before the Governor. Mr. Alexander was his Council, and Mr. Smith, a young Lawyer, of the first Reputation as a Speaker, appeared for the Elders. He pleaded to the Jurisdiction of the Court, insisting that the matter was entirely ecclesiastical, and, in the Prosecution of his Argument, entered largely into an Examination of the Government of the Protestant Churches in France. According to which, he showed that the Consistory were the proper Judges of the Point in Dispute, in the first Instance; and that from thence an Appeal lay to a Collogue, next to a Provincial, and last of all to a national Synod.* Mr. Burnet nevertheless over-ruled the Plea, and the Defendants, being fearful of a Decree, that might expose their own Estates to the Payment of Rou's Salary, thought it advisable to drop their Debates, reinstate the Minister, and leave the Church."†

The second account, due to Mr. Cadwallader Colden, who had been officially connected with the case, happily rectifies and completes the first. In his "Letters on Smith's History of New York," Mr. Colden writes: "On reading Mr. Smith's account of this affair one would be apt to imagine that Mr. Burnet had set up a high commission court in ecclesiastical matters to the jurisdiction of which Mr. Smith's father had pleaded. Mr. Rou's case was this. When he came over to New York on the invitation of the French Protestants there, he and some gentlemen, trustees for the French congregation, entered into a mutual contract in writing, he to perform the duties of pastor of the French Protestant congregation of New York according to the rules which had been used by the French Protestants in France, and they, in consideration of his services, engaged yearly to pay to him a certain sum of money. Of this contract there was only one authentic copy, which was in the hands of the trustees. Mr. Rou had only a copy of it without any test of its being authentic. On some dispute which happened between Mr. Rou and some of his congregation, the trustees refused to pay him his salary. Mr. Rou insisted that he had done his duty and performed his part of the contract; but as he had no legal evidence of the contract, he was advised to sue in Chancery in order to oblige the trustees to produce the contract. Accordingly, Mr. Rou filed a Bill in Chancery wherein he demanded of the trustees whether they or any of them knew of a contract in writing entered into between them and Mr. Rou, and if they did, to discover the contents of that contract. The trustees answered on oath that they did not know of any such contract. It is to be observed that since the making of that contract some of the trustees had been changed. Mr. Rou's counsel objected to the sufficiency of the answer, alleging that they ought to answer that they nor any one of them knew, for all of them might not know, one or more of them did. I was at that time a Master in Chancery, and it was referred to me to judge whether the answer was sufficient. After a tedious hearing of counsel on both sides, I said that on supposition that some of the defendants were ignorant of the contract, while others knew of it, I could not conceive how they who did know could with a safe conscience join in the oath that they (meaning all of them) did not know, because in this case they must swear to the other's ignorance, which I thought a man who had a proper regard to an oath could not do, and all the defendants were men of good reputation. Upon which Mr. Alexander, who was counsel for Mr. Rou, replied: 'I do not wonder, Sir, that you should be of this opinion,' but, pulling out a paper from his pocket, he said: 'Here, Sir, is a copy of the contract in the handwriting of one of these gentlemen, tho' we cannot prove it.' On which I declared the answer insufficient and ordered that they should answer more particularly as demanded in the Bill. On which they answered: 'True it is we do not know, but such of us (naming the names) do know, and the contents of the contract are as follows.' This made so strong an impression on me at the time that I could never forget it, to see men who had left their native country and their all from a conscientious scrupulousness in religious matters prevaricating in this manner on solemn oath in a Court of justice. The truth of the fact I tell you will fully appear from the Bill and answers which I suppose still remain among the Chancery papers. After an authentic copy of the contract was obtained, Mr. Rou was left in quiet possession of his pulpit and had his salary paid him ; but, as Mr. Smith observes, some of the most considerable persons of his congregation left the church. We may observe here how likewise that some private resentment is even of greater force than that religious zeal which makes us leave our country and all that is dear to us. But before I leave this subject, I cannot with justice to Mr. Rou avoid taking notice of the character Mr. Smith gives him. Mr. Rou, he says, was a man of learning, but proud, pleasurable and passionate; he sets Mr. Moulinars' character in contrast, viz., that he was of pacific spirit, dull parts, and unblamable life and conversation. Were it not for the contrast, it might be difficult to say what Mr. Smith means by a pleasurable man, being a phrase seldom or never used in the English language; but, as it is set in contrast here with unblamable life and conversation, the reader may naturally think that it means a man of pleasure. I knew Mr. Rou, and I never heard him reproached with any immorality. He was bookish and, as such men frequently are, peevish and had nothing of the courtly polite Frenchman. The game of chess was the only amusement he took, and perhaps was too fond of it. It was said that he wrote a treatise on that game. From what has been said it will easily appear how proper and discreet like a lawyer the defence of the trustees was in setting up the jurisdiction of the Consistory, a Collegue and Synod of the French Protestants in France who at that time had no existence, in opposition of the King's Courts of Justice, and who, had they existed, could have given Mr. Rou no relief." *

It is unnecessary to add any comments to these statements; but, before taking up again the thread of the history of the church, it may be well to quote the example cited by Mr. Smith of the influence which these difficulties exercised upon the public affairs. "All those who opposed Mr. Rou," he says, "were disobliged with the Governor: among these Mr. [Etienne] De Lancey was the most considerable for his Wealth and popular Influence. He was very rigid in his religious profession, one of the first Builders, and by far the most generous Benefactor, of the French Church, and therefore left it with the utmost reluctance. Mr. Burnet, before this Time, had considered him as his Enemy, because he had opposed the Prohibition of the French Trade; and this led him into a Step, which, as it was a personal Indignity, Mr. De Lancey could never recollect without Resentment. This Gentleman was returned for the City of New York, in the Room of a deceased Member, at the meeting of the Assembly in September, 1725. When he offered himself for the Oaths, Mr. Burnet asked him how he became a Subject of the Crown? He answered, that he was denized in England, and his Excellency dismissed him, taking Time to consider the Matter. Mr. De Lancey then laid before the House an Act of a Notary Public, certifying that he was named in a Patent of Denization, granted in the Reign of James the Second . . . A Patent of the same kind, under the Great Seal of this Province, in 1686 . . . And two other certificates, one of his having taken the Oath of Allegiance, according to an Act passed here in 1683, and another of his serving in several former Assemblies. The Governor, in the mean Time, consulted the Chief Justice, and transmitted his Opinion to the House, who resolved in favor of Mr. De Lancey." *

Mr. Moulinars necessarily followed the example of his supporters in leaving the church, and in 1726 he retired to New Rochelle, where he died in 1741, ministering to the little congregation of French dissenters. Mr. Rou, thereupon, remained in peaceable possession of the New York church until his death, which occurred on December 25th, 1750. By his second wife, Renée Marie Goujeon, of New Rochelle, whom he married in 1713, he had fifteen children, five of whom died young. These five died within ten years, and there is something very sad in the way in which their deaths are recorded in the register of the church. Four of them at least died of small-pox, which then broke out so often in New York. Of the others, Marie Elizabeth married William Richard; Denise Marie married John Harrison; and Louis, the oldest son living, went early to Curaçao, in the West Indies. To him, in accordance with an almost constant Huguenot custom, Mr. Rou left by testament, dated August 14th, 1747, his "old French Bible in two large volumes in folio printed at Lyons in the year 1516 (?), which said Bible shall remain in my family and descend and go from heir to heir forever"; and to his wife he bequeathed, besides one-third of his real and personal property, his "Secretary with all the papers and writings therein," in which were probably included the MS. sermons, pieces of poetry, &c., which have been preserved, and which are now in the possession of Mr. Baily Meyers, of this city. These sermons are fair specimens of the réfugié style; some of them are, indeed, admirable, and fully justify the great reputation which Mr. Rou had acquired among his contemporaries for learning and eloquence. But he died quite poor, and the church granted his widow, in 1756, a pension for life of twelve pounds a year. In the New York Gazette, revived in the Weekly Post Boy of December 31st, 1750, appeared the following notice of his death: "Last Tuesday night departed this life, in the Sixty-seventh year of his age, the Rev. Mr. Louis Rou, Pastor of the French Protestant Reformed Church in this city, for upwards of forty years past: He was a gentleman of great learning, and unaffected piety, and has left a sorrowful widow, with a numerous hopeful issue; His character in the several capacities of Preacher, Husband and Father was unexceptionable; he is now gone to receive the reward of his labors; and is as universally lamented as known by all he has left behind: His remains were decently interred in the French Church, near the pulpit he had so long occupied, on Saturday evening last."

* See Smith's History, 168, and "Documents" in this vol.

With Mr. Rou's death closes the second and the most important period of the history of the Huguenot church of New York. At that time its membership was "reduced to an inconsiderable Handful";* and, although several small legacies had been received, special contributions had to be solicited for the support of the ministry. This state of things was of course largely due to the troubles which broke out in 1724, and it is from that year that the decline of the church really dates. But there were also other dissolving causes at work. The French language, which was used in all the services of the church, gradually fell into disuse; and the Huguenots of the second and third generations, understanding and speaking English better than French, naturally drifted into English-speaking churches. It is a matter of regret that an attempt, made by the Consistory in 1772, to secure a pastor able to preach in English as well as in French should have failed. If it had not, this church would probably still be one of the strongest churches in

* Smith's History of the Province of New York, p. 193.

New York. Another cause of decline, and perhaps the most important of all, was a strong disposition existing from the beginning among many members of the congregation to conform to the Church of England. This statement is particularly true of its ministers. Most of the earlier ones were episcopally ordained before coming here; and all of them, with few exceptions, regarded with favor the church which had received so generously their exiled brethren in England. As early as 1663, Zyperus, as we have already seen, went to Virginia, where he was afterwards chosen rector of what is now Kingston parish, in Mathew's County. The removal of Daillé to Boston had no doubt also something to do with the same cause. After Mr. Peiret's death, Governor Cornbury endeavored to have the church conform, and Mr. Laborie's dismissal was probably due to his sympathy with his protector's efforts in that direction. The same cause, as we have just seen, was at the root of the difficulties which arose during Mr. Rou's ministry; and, as we shall soon see, Mr. Carle, one of its most efficient pastors, finally resigned in 1764, because the church refused to conform. Nor was this predilection for the Church of England confined to the ministers of the church, as the registers of Trinity Church abundantly prove. Among many others that could be cited, the saintly Neau, whose self-denying work among the Negroes and the Indians should never be forgotten, was an elder in the French church before he became catechist of New York; De Lancey, a leading Huguenot representative, became early a vestryman in Trinity parish; and Desbrosses, also formerly an elder in the French church, left by will, in 1773, to Trinity Church, one thousand pounds in trust for the first French congregation of New York which should adopt the Anglican liturgy. The example of such representative men must have produced a deep influence, and it is rather surprising that, under the operation of the leading causes specified, the decline of the church, in the absence of few, if any, accessions from abroad, was not still more rapid and complete.

The Rev. J. L. Mayor acted as supply during the latter part of the interval between Mr. Rou's death and the arrival of his successor. This was the Rev. Jean Carle, probably a native of Nîmes,* France. From there he went to Holland, where his services were engaged for the church of New York, through the kind offices of the Consistory of the Walloon Church of Amsterdam. He arrived here on July 27th, 1754, and was installed pastor of the church on the 4th of August following. Smith, who wrote at least a part of his history of New York during Mr. Carle's pastorate, says of him: "He bears an irreproachable Character, is very intent upon his Studies, preaches moderate Calvinism, and speaks with Propriety both of Pronunciation and Gesture." He was very zealous and energetic, and the register which he kept indicates in him a high sense of his responsibility and calling. In addition to his services in New York, he preached and administered the sacraments four times a year at New Rochelle, the dissident congregation of which had become, since the death of Mr. Rou, a simple "annex" of the New York church; and in both these places he soon succeeded in winning the esteem and love of the people. It was evidently his purpose to regain, as far as it was still possible, the position which the church had lost, and he spared no effort to attain that laudable end. But it was too late to realize such a purpose, and Mr. Carle, no doubt discouraged at the unsatisfactory results which he had attained, tendered his resignation as pastor on May 23d, 1763. In his letter of resignation, he assigns two reasons for that step, namely, his desire to return to Europe and his apprehension that the Society would not be able to maintain itself in the future. Agreeably to the practice of the Huguenot churches, the Consistory referred the resignation, for definite action, to the "heads of families" comprising the congregation; and these, at a meeting held on May 29th, accepted it, on condition that it should not take effect until they could secure another minister from abroad. To this condition Mr. Carle finally assented, promising to remain till the following Spring; but when, a few days later, they urged him to reconsider his determination to leave them, he firmly declined. Severely disappointed, however, in the choice of a minister which had been meanwhile made for them, as will be seen presently, they again offered him, in December following, the position of pastor, promising at the same time to considerably increase his salary. At first he again absolutely declined their offer; but a few days afterwards, in a letter addressed to a committee of the church, he proposed to them, as the condition of his staying with them, the adoption of the episcopal form of government, adding that, in his opinion, such a step could alone save the church from utter disruption. The temptation to accept this proposition had perhaps never been greater in the history of the church. Other Huguenot churches, especially that of New Rochelle, had already led the way in that direction; social influences strongly tended in the same way, and the circumstances of the church then rendered the stay of Mr. Carle more desirable than ever. But the time for taking such a step had, after all, not yet come; and the elders and heads of families, declining to change the form of the church, wrote, under date of January 10th, 1764, to Mr. Carle, partly as follows: "The desire to retain you among us would not be the least reason for making the change which you propose. But we cannot change the form of government of our church. Not that we do not consider the Anglican Church a true church of Jesus Christ; but out of respect for our predecessors, who have founded and established this church, we desire to preserve and maintain it as it was handed down to us. We have, moreover, sought with regret for a successor to you; only remain with us, and our joy will be perfect." This ended the matter at last, and on the 8th of April following, Mr. Carle preached his farewell sermon in the New York church, and a week later in that of New Rochelle. Both churches accorded him a most honorable congé, and on April 17th, 1764, he set sail for London, where he served for many years as chaplain of the French Hospital.*

During Mr. Carle's pastorate, a few events took place which deserve to be more particularly noted. On March 29th, 1755, on the proposition of Mr. Carle, the consistory passed a resolution to discard the version of the Bible used till then in the church, and to replace it by "La Sainte Bible de Genève," with the "Réflexions" of Ostervald, for the reason that the latter "is of a more intelligible style than the former," and that the "said reflections are instructive and edifying for the flock"; and this resolution was afterwards unanimously approved by the heads of families. The old version set aside was most probably that of 1588, the first one published by the "Company of the Pastors and Professors of the Church of Geneva." It was a mere revision of what is usually regarded as the first French Bible issued, namely, that of Pierre Robert Olivetan, which appeared in 1535. It was an excellent translation for the time it was made. Since then, however, the French language had undergone important alterations, and the desire for a change, on that score alone, was no doubt well founded. The version of Ostervald, which was adopted in place of that of 1588, first appeared in 1724. Like that of 1588, it was a mere revision of its predecessor, and it is, indeed, mainly on that account that it, like that of Martin, was so readily accepted by the churches. But it is probable that the special edition here in view was that which was issued, greatly modified and improved, in 1744, just before its author's death. The "reflections," which followed each chapter, are now no longer printed with it. The old version of the Psalms was retained till 1763, when it also was changed "for the newest."

On April 30th, 1755, the church by a resolution of its consistory, adopted a seal, apparently the first one it had used. It was a gift from Mr. Jean Hastier, formerly an elder of the church, and was made of silver. The design consisted of an anchor surmounted by seven rays of the sun, over which, near the point where the rays meet, were engraved the sacred letters: יהוה; and around the whole, in an outer circle, the date of the adoption of the seal and the name of the church: "1755. Cachet de l'Eglise françoise reformée de la Nouvelle York." In 1796, when the society was reorganized under the laws of the State of New York, the same seal was apparently retained; but the original date of its adoption, 1755, was changed to 1796, and the name of the society was also slightly changed so as to read: "Cachet de l'Egl^e^ Ref^ee^ Prot^e^ Française de la Nouvelle York." It is engraved on the second title-page to this volume. In 1804, when the congregation conformed to the Episcopal Church, a resolution was passed by the vestry to simply alter the name of the church engraved on the seal of the corporation, so as to have it read: "Eglise protestante Episcopale francaise du St. Esprit." This resolution seems not, however, to have been carried out, and an entirely new seal was adopted. It consists of a cross in the centre of a sun, with the words, "St Esprit" above it, and "N. York" below it; and, around the edge, a part of the new name of the church: "Eglise P. Episcopale Française Du," with the street and number of the rectory. This seal is at present used in all the acts of the church and corporation du St. Esprit.

On March 6th, 1763, the Consistory proposed to the heads of families to apply to the Governor of the Province to be incorporated as a body politic. This seems to have been the first effort made by the church to obtain a charter. It should be observed that the act of the Legislature, by which Mr. Peiret and his Consistory were empowered, in 1703, to sell the property in Marketfield Street and to build a new and larger church on another site, did not enable them to hold other property in the name of the church, and to transmit it to their successors. In the meantime, however, the church became possessed, by legacies, of such property; and the main object of this application to the Governor was to enable the church to hold such property in perpetuity. In this inability to hold and transmit property, there was not only much inconvenience, but great danger to the temporal interests of the church. This will best be understood by quoting from the "Case of the Lutheran Church." * The Lutherans of New York, in common with several other denominations, had also applied at about this time for a charter, and in setting forth the reasons for their application, they say: "Whatever may have been the Case with other congregations, it is submitted to his Excellency [Sir Henry Moore], whether from the peculiar Circumstances of the Lutherans they do not stand in great need of the Indulgence they ask, upon these Accounts: 1st, Many years since a Member of their Church gave them two Houses and Lots in this City, which tho' of no geat Value, are the chief support of the Minister. The Deed is so inartificially drawn that had not that Statute of Mortmain which annulls all Gifts and Grants in favour of Churches, been in the way, it would not nevertheless have Vested the Fee in the Congregation; for it Conveys the Estate to the Elders and Deacons by name, and their successors; and they for want of Incorporation, have no legal Succession, and cannot Inherit. 2d, Some years since the Congregation sent two of their Members into Germany to

* See Documentary History of New York, Vol. III., p. 493.

Sollicit Contributions for their use among their Friends and Countrymen. This was attended with considerable Success: But the Persons intrusted, finding they could not be called to an Account, by reason of the Church's not being incorporated, Embezzled the Mony, never accounting for any part of it."

As the reasons here invoked evidently applied with equal force to the other dissenting churches, the heads of families unanimously agreed to the resolution proposed by the Consistory; and a petition, signed by Jean Carle, minister, Peter Vallade and Jacques Desbrosses, elders, and Daniel Bonnet and Charles Jandin, deacons, praying to be incorporated as a body politic, was on the following day presented to the Governor.* This petition was read in Council on Wednesday, March 16th, 1763, and was referred to a committee for further consideration.† The report of the Committee, to which the petition was referred, is not on record, but its ultimate fate was no doubt the same as that of several other similar petitions. The importance of this subject calls for a brief but comprehensive statement of the facts in the case. Of all the dissenting churches established at New York, the Dutch church only had a charter, as it was favored by one of the Articles of Capitulation of 1664. But in 1759 the Lutherans and Presbyterians also applied to the Governor to be incorporated. The Committee, appointed to report on the petition of the Lutherans, recommended that it be granted; but Lieutenant-Governor DeLancey refused to seal the charter until the King's pleasure in the matter should be known. In 1763 the Lutherans renewed their petition, and the Council advised Lieutenant-Governor Colden to refer both of them to the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations. This was accordingly done, and their Lordships replied, under date of July 15th, 1764, that "it does not appear to us from anything set forth in their petition, that such an Incorporation is at present Necessary or Expedient." Why it was neither "necessary nor expedient" will appear from the case of the Presbyterians. In 1766 they also renewed their petition for a charter; and, as in the case of the Lutheran church, it was referred to the Lords of Trade. This time their Lordships considered their application favorably, and requested Governor Moore, on July 29th, 1766, to inform them whether, in his opinion, "there are any objections, from any particular circumstance in the present State of the Province of New York, to Complying with a Request, which in the general and abstracted view of it appears to us to be noways Improper or unreasonable.' The Governor referred the matter to his Council, which, after having controverted several statements made in the petition, end their report by saying: "But it is asserted by the Petitioners, That 'the old English Statutes of Uniformity, do not extend to America.' Whether these Statutes, or that of the 5th Anne, Cap. 5, which is made an essential part of the Act of Union; do or do not extend to the Plantations; is a Question of which the Committee do not conceive themselves competent Judges; and which appears necessary to be determined on the highest authority, previous to any final Resolution on the Petition; lest such Incorporations might be considered as repugnant to the provisions of those Statutes." Here was evidently the great legal difficulty in the way of incorporating dissenting churches; and the Lords of Trade, to whom the report was transmitted, fully approved of it, adding that, independently of the objection arising out of the question of the establishment by law of the Church of England, "it is not expedient upon Principles of General Policy to comply with the Prayer of this Petition, or to give to the Presbyterian Church of New York, any other Privileges or Immunities than it is entitled to by the Laws of Toleration." This opinion was afterwards referred to the Privy Council, which fully endorsed it; whereupon the King ordered the petition to be dismissed, and the colonial authorities of New York were instructed to act accordingly.*

But the question was reopened, and if the Revolution had not broken out so soon, it would probably have been decided in a more satisfactory way. For we read that, at a meeting of the Council, held in New York, on July 1st, 1775, "His Excellency, [William Tryon] acquainted the Council that he had received an Instruction from the Earl of Dartmouth, one of his Majesty's principal Secretary's of State, dated the 4th Day of May last, informing him that the only Doubt or Difficulty, that had occurred upon the Request of the Reformed Dutch and Presbyterian Churches for Charters of Incorporation is, whether such Charters would not have the Effect of giving an Establishment inconsistent with the Principals of the Laws of England and that it is the more necessary to attend to this Difficulty, as it was first stated by the Council of New York in the Application made in 1766 by the Ministers, Elders and Deacons of the Presbyterian Church within the City of New York. That if however upon Consideration of the several Cases in which this Privilege is now requested, the Law Servants of the King in the Province and the Council, whom his Excellency is to consult upon them, shall be of opinion, that they are free from any difficulty of such a Nature, it is the Kings Pleasure that his Excellency do grant such Charters of Incorporation, conformable to what has been approved of by his Majesty in a like Case within the Province of New Jersey.

"Whereupon his Excellency laid before the Council a Petition from the Presbyterian Clergy in the Province of

Mr. Carle's resignation soon became the occasion of difficulties even more disastrous to the church than those of 1724. For several years the Society lived in consequence of them, in a constant state of uncertainty and excitement; the disorder and violence of which the church itself became the scene, brought vast discredit and contempt upon all concerned; a considerable portion of the membership withdrew, and financially the Society came out practically ruined. However distasteful the subject may be, these difficulties cannot, therefore, be passed over with a bare mention. Besides, the whole affair opens up a most interesting view of the great inconveniences which all foreign churches, and particularly the French churches, experienced at that time in securing new ministers.

To supply Mr. Carle's place, it was resolved, at a meeting held by the heads of families on May 24th, 1763, first, to apply for a new minister to the Venerable Consistory of the Walloon Church of Amsterdam, and in case no proper candidate could be secured from there, then to apply for one to the "Company of Pastors and Professors" of Geneva; secondly, to fix the salary of the person thus chosen at one hundred and forty pounds per year, and to pay his traveling expenses here; and, finally, to elect at once, out of their own number, twelve persons, who, with the Consistory, were to form a Committee to conduct all negotiations, on the basis laid down, relative to procuring another pastor. The Committee thus formed met, on the next day, to determine more particularly upon the terms of the letters to be addressed to the ecclesiastical bodies named; and it was further resolved, at the suggestion of Mr. Leroy, brother-in-law to the person in question, to write to Mr. Chabanel, a merchant of Amsterdam, and a member of the Walloon Consistory, requesting him to generally use his good offices in the furtherance of the purpose of the New York Consistory, and to advance the funds necessary to defray the traveling expenses of the minister to be chosen; and, a few days later, Mr. Pierre Vallade, one of the elders of the Church and secretary of the Consistory, wrote, in accordance with the instructions which he had received, to the Consistory of Amsterdam, to the Genevan Company of Pastors and Professors, and to Mr. Chabanel.

These letters contain incidentally some interesting items of information. We learn from them that the climate of New York is one of the finest in the world, the sky being serene, the air pure, and the heat and cold less extreme than at Geneva, so that persons born in France usually attain here to a greater age than there; that the minister of the French church is ex officio one of the governors of the King's College, which position procures him "the pleasure of being in company with the most distinguished society without involving any trouble on his part"; and that, in addition to his annual salary, he receives a small additional sum for administering the sacraments four times a year to the members of the dissident Huguenot Church of New Rochelle. Such advantages ought, in the judgment of the committee, procure them an able man; and hence they demand of the candidate, besides the usual qualities of heart and mind necessary to an acceptable pastor, the ability to preach with eloquence—a condition essential not only to increasing the membership of the church, but even to maintaining it in its present condition: because nearly all the members of the Society understood English, and the English churches are generally supplied with good preachers. Finally, as to the duties of the minister, he was to "give them a sermon" every Sunday morning; in the afternoon, "a second sermon on Calvin's Catechism"; on Wednesdays, "a prayer"; and to preach every year four preparatory sermons for Holy Communion; to preach on the church festivals which they celebrated, namely, at Christmas, New Year's Day, Monday after Easter, Ascension Day and Pentecost; and, finally, to preach on all days of fasting and thanksgiving appointed by the the Government.

These letters, after having been read in a meeting of the heads of families, were duly approved and signed by all present; but before they were sent an attempt was made, as has already been related, to induce Mr. Carle to withdraw his resignation. He declining to do so, a call was similarly made out to the Rev. Jean Pierre Têtard; on condition, however, that, according to Huguenot custom, he would preach extemporaneously, and generally conduct the services in the same way as Mr. Carle had done. Mr. Têtard, a Swiss by birth, had recently come to New York from Charleston, S. C., where he had charge for some time of the Huguenot church. It seems that the climate of South Carolina did not agree with him, and that an illness, contracted there, had seriously impaired the use of his memory. He was, in consequence, obliged to read his sermons, and, for that reason, also declined the call which was extended to him.

The letters of application were, therefore, dispatched in haste; and, on the second of December following, a reply was received from the Consistory of Amsterdam, informing the committee that, in accordance with the full power given them to that effect, they had elected, by a majority vote, the Rev. Paul Daniel Menauteau minister of their church. The letter further bore testimony to the zeal, purity of doctrine and good character of the candidate; and it ended by reminding the Consistory of New York that, in accordance with its desire, Mr. Menauteau would be ordained at once; but as that required a special convocation of the Classis, the expenses of such convocation, as is always the custom, would have to be borne by the church of New York. But on December 27th a letter was received from Mr. Chabanel, which represented the action of the Consistory of Amsterdam in the most unfavorable light. It appears that when Mr. Chabanel presented the application of the New York Society, he met with two difficulties: first, the unwillingness at that time of men of talent to settle at New York; and, secondly, the insufficiency of the salary offered, as compared with the services required of the pastor. Under these circumstances he proposed, in accordance with the instructions received from New York, to forward the letter of application addressed to the Company of Pastors and Professors of Geneva. This motion was, however, effectually opposed by another member of the Consistory, who favored the election of Mr. Menauteau. The objection to this candidate had solely reference to his known incapacity. He had, in fact, been insane at one time, and he was then preaching to "empty pews." Mr. Chabanel strongly opposed his election, declaring that if he were elected he would not advance the money for his traveling expenses. Notwithstanding this opposition, on the day appointed for the election Mr. Menauteau received a majority of the votes cast. This second letter became the starting point of a long and, at times, very acrimonious correspondence between the church in New York and that in Amsterdam and Mr. Chabanel. The New York Consistory naturally refused, not only to receive Mr. Menauteau, but even to assume the expenses incurred by his election. Nevertheless, on March 30th, 1764, the pastor-elect arrived in New York, where his conduct soon proved that he was really of unsound mind, and he was sent back on the first convenient occasion that presented itself.

Meanwhile, however, the date of Mr. Carle's departure drew near, and the committee of the church accepted Mr. Têtard's offer of his services until they could get a new minister from Geneva. So far, and as late as the following Autumn, entire harmony seems to have prevailed in the council of the church. But at this time Mr. Pierre Vallade, who united the offices of elder, treasurer and secretary, was strongly opposed by an influential party in the church, one of the leaders of which was Mr. Daniel Bontecou. The grounds of this opposition are not clearly stated, but the sequel of the quarrel would seem to indicate that the grievance against Mr. Vallade had reference to his management of the finances of the church; and although he was warmly sustained by the acting minister, Mr. Têtard, and by a large majority of the Consistory and of the members of the church, he resigned his triple office on December 13th, 1764, "moved thereto," as the records say, "by delicate scruples." Soon after this an incident occurred which enabled the two parties to measure themselves, and which greatly precipitated the final issue. By a letter, dated January 6th, 1765, a Rev. Jacob Daller, who seemed to have recently arrived at New York, invited the Consistory to decide whether they would receive him as minister or not; and he threatened them, if they would not so receive him, with carrying the matter into court. This person was a young French-Swiss, and seems to have had no other claim upon the church than a letter of recommendation from Mr. Chabanel; at the same time there did not appear to exist any personal objections to him.

Summoned thus to take definite action, the Consistory ruled that Mr. Daller had no legitimate claim upon the church, but that being present they would receive him as their minister, provided he would consent to be installed according to the discipline of the Reformed Church of France, and that he would be bound by such other conditions as the then state of the church seemed to render necessary. This conditional acceptance Mr. Daller rejected, and now, if indeed he had not already done so, openly joined the party of Mr. Bontecou, which hereafter warmly sustained his supposed claims. On January 20th, Mr. Vallade, who, although occupying no longer any official position, was evidently the head of the party in power, presented to the Consistory a memorandum consisting of four articles, which clearly reveals to what extent the hostility of the two parties had progressed. The first article affirms the present necessity on the part of the Consistory of exercising its disciplinary powers; and singles out Daniel Bontecou, Jean Hastier, Jacques Buvelot, François Basset and Pierre Vergereau, whom it accuses of spreading scandalous reports, especially against Mr. Vallade, as worthy of severe discipline. Article 2 reproaches Mr. Daller with trying to enter the church by underhanded means, and proposes that the conditional offer made to him should in consequence be withdrawn. Article 3 declares the meeting held on the 16th of January, 1765, by the Bontecou party, at the house of Mr. Daniel Bonnet, a member of the Consistory, to be contrary to the rules of the church, and hence illegal and of no authority; and Article 4 is a vindication of the acts of Mr. Vallade. These articles were duly voted on and accepted by the Consistory on the 24th of January.

In this same meeting of the Consistory was read a letter from Messrs. Smith & Scott, two eminent New York lawyers at that time, in which they informed the Consistory that they had been retained by Mr. Daller, and that they had advised him to submit his differences with the church to arbitration, as a lawsuit would be ruinous to all concerned. To this letter the Consistory replied on the same day, thanking the counsel for their friendly letter, and offering to convince them of the regularity of its proceedings, if they would appoint a time for an interview.

While this matter was pending, Mr. Bontecou and his associates, on the 2d of February, addressed a letter to Mr. Têtard, minister of the church, requesting him to allow Mr. Daller to occupy the pulpit on the following day, which was Sunday, and intimated that if he would do so they would return to the church. To this letter Mr. Têtard at once replied, stating that after consultation with the Consistory, he felt obliged to deny the request of the petitioners as incompatible with the resolutions of the Consistory excluding Mr. Daller from the church, which resolutions were largely based upon the fact that he (Mr. Daller) openly joined them in their opposition to the authority of the Consistory. On February 7th, the interview with Messrs. Smith & Scott took place in the room of the Consistory. The church was represented by the Rev. Mr. Têtard and Mr. Vallade; and Messrs. Buvelot and Vergereau attended the Rev. Mr. Daller. Mr. Vallade gave a circumstantial account of all that the church had done since the resignation of Mr. Carle, read the different letters written to Amsterdam and Geneva, and claimed that Mr. Daller had no manner of claim upon it. This the lawyers freely admitted, but advised that in the interest of peace the church should receive Mr. Daller as its minister, on condition of his obtaining from abroad the certificates which, they owned, he still lacked. To this the representatives of the church opposed their rules of government, which forbade their taking such a step. The lawyers answered that those rules were here impracticable. Unable to come to an agreement, Mr. Buvelot arose and read a most scandalous protest, signed by Mr. Bonnet and addressed to the elders of the church. On the 17th, Mr. Daller presented to the Consistory, through Mr. Vergereau, a written statement of what he considered his claims upon the church. This statement was signed by Messrs. Smith & Scott, and bore, furthermore, the written approbation of the Rev. Messrs. Ritzema and Laidley, of the Dutch Church, that of the Rev. Mr. Treat of the Presbyterian Church, and the qualified approbation of the Rev. Mr. Ronde, another Dutch minister. In this statement Mr. Daller offers again to obtain from abroad the necessary papers which he lacked, and concludes by renewing his menace of a suit at law if his proposals are rejected. The examination of this document was postponed by the Consistory to the 23d of February, when the claims therein set forth were finally and definitely set aside. The state of things had now become exceedingly critical. Frequent meetings of the Bontecou party—who assumed more and more to be the true representatives of the church—were held. Mr. Bonnet, at whose house these meetings were usually held, had by this and other acts excluded himself from the Consistory, and Mr. Louis Pintard, who had succeeded Mr. Vallade as elder and secretary, left the church and joined Trinity Church: this reduced the Consistory to a very small number, and that body, according to the usual custom, nominated elders and deacons to fill the vacant places,—viz., Messrs François Blanchard, Etienne des Brosses and Isaac Noble. The election of these gentlemen—all, of course, opposed to Mr. Daller and his adherents—brought matters to a climax. According to custom, the names of the new elders and deacons were published from the pulpit without opposition, on the morning of the following Sunday, July 21st, prior to their official installation a few days later: but when Mr. Têtard came to church in the afternoon, he saw in the audience Daniel Bontecou and his friends, who had not appeared there for six months. Foreboding trouble, he repeated before the benediction what he had said in the morning; namely, that if any one had any objections to make to the installation of the new elders and deacons, he must reduce them to writing and present them to the Consistory. He then implored every one to leave the church quietly, after which he pronounced the benediction. This was the signal for an an attack. Making their way to the chancel, Daniel Bontecou and his party violently stopped Mr. Têtard as he was coming down from the pulpit, loudly protested against the election of the new elders, and created such a tumult that those who had already left the church came back, and even strangers who were passing by came in. Some of the latter took part in the quarrel; but the majority endeavored to separate the two factions, who were coming to blows, and finally, but with great difficulty, succeeded. This unfortunate occurrence only confirmed the Consistory in its course, and its authors were threatened with a judicial pursuit; which threat, however, seems never to have been carried out.

But in the meantime the unseemly strife went on. Mr. Vallade, who wished to retire to his farm at New Rochelle, asked to be entirely relieved of his duties as treasurer, with which he still remained charged, although he had nominally resigned his office long before.

This was done on the 17th of February, 1766, when Mr. Jacques Desbrosses was chosen treasurer of the Poor Fund; but in view of the unsettled state of public affairs, and the bad administration of justice, the Consistory refused to elect a treasurer for the remaining funds of the church, and confided them for safe-keeping to Mr. Elie Desbrosses, a member of Trinity Church. In reality this action seems to have been taken in consequence of an anonymous letter signed "Liberty Boys," which had been thrown the preceding Saturday into Mr. Vallade's house, by a person who fled immediately afterward. This letter threatened Mr. Vallade with "great evils," unless he would hand over the funds of the church to the "real elders" by the following Monday. In the same letter the acting minister, Mr. Têtard, is treated most indecently, and the opinion is expressed that the church ought to be given to Mr. Daller. Suspecting its origin, the Consistory ordered that all those who claimed to be elders of the church should declare under oath whether or not they had anything to do with it, and that these declarations should be published in the Gazette. The legitimate elders at once complied, declaring that they knew nothing about the matter. The only other persons that responded were Mr. Bonnet, who claimed to be an elder, but whose declaration was a very equivocal one, and Daniel Bontecou, who made affidavit that he had nothing to do with it. On the 31st of March, 1766, each member of the Consistory received a letter signed by D. Bontecou, J. Buvelot, J. Hastier, and D. Bonnet, inviting them as legal representatives of Mr. Vallade to meet the signers on the following Monday at the house of Mrs. Brock, there to make answer to such demands as they, the signers, had to make against Mr. Vallade; and adding that if their request were denied, they should consider it a refusal to give them satisfaction, and take such measures as they considered necessary. The Consistory only saw a snare in this communication, and declined the invitation to meet the signers at Mrs. Brock's—which was a tavern—on the very proper ground that church business ought to be transacted, and according to their custom usually was transacted, in the room of the Consistory. It must now have been evident to the Bonteron party that the party in possession of the church was too strongly intrenched in its positions to be legally dislodged, and too wary to be entrapped into any voluntary surrender. Accordingly, at a meeting held on June 27th, 1788, it was resolved by Messrs. Bonteron, Bonnet, Vergereau, Basset, Garnier, &c., to take forcibly possession of the church on the following Sunday morning. This plan was duly carried out. The regular elders and deacons were not allowed to occupy their respective seats. Mr. Tétard was prevented from going into the pulpit, and new locks were affixed to all the doors, so that the church could be effectually locked against its legal occupants. On the following Sunday, Mr. Tétard, accompanied by Messrs. Noble, Blanchard, Clajon, &c., and by Alderman Brewerton, some constables and witnesses, went to the church and, after having spoken to those who occupied the steps leading into the pulpit, said in English: "I demand in my name, and in the name of the elders of the church, that you allow me to enter the pulpit, so that I may perform the functions of my ministry." But Mr. Hastier denied that Messrs. Noble and Blanchard were elders of the church, and Mr. Tétard and his friends withdrew. A week later, they made a similar attempt to gain admittance to the pulpit, but again failed. On the following Sunday they revenged themselves for this want of success by causing to be posted on one of the doors of the church a paper containing the following words: "It is written, my house shall be a house of prayer, but ye have made it a den of thieves"; and, "Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that entereth not by the door into the fold of the sheep, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber"; and by removing, on the following Saturday, the clapper of the bell. Finally, after having thus tried in vain various means for regaining possession of the church, on October 17th, 1767, Mr. Têtard petitioned the Governor of the Province for redress, which petition* was read in Council and referred for further consideration.

And here, it would seem, the matter was allowed to rest. Mr. Têtard, failing to get the redress asked for, abandoned the contest. His party had evidently been reduced to a minority, and he deemed it wisest to withdraw. His last official act, a baptism, bears date May 10th, 1767. After that he seems to have served for a time as minister of the Dutch church at Fordham, living at the same time on his farm at King's Bridge. He is mentioned again on August 4th, 1775, when he was appointed chaplain and interpreter in the army. On his return from the Canadian service, where he held the rank of major, he found his house burnt down, his farm ruined, and thirteen of his slaves gone. Soon after that he was appointed Professor of French in Columbia College, which position he held till his death. In "The Independent Journal" of Saturday, February 10th, 1787, is found the following obituary notice of him: "Died on Tuesday last, in the sixty-sixth year of his age, after a long illness, the Rev. [John Peter] Têtard, Professor of the French language in Columbia College, and late chaplain to the army under General Montgomery. This gentleman was a native of Switzerland, and came out to this country as pastor to the French Protestant church [of Charleston, S. C., and later became pastor of the French church] in this city, which office he filled with great dignity and reputation till the decline of the Society. His remains were on Thursday evening interred in the family vault in the Trinity church-yard, attended by the different Professors and Students of the College, and a number of the most respectable inhabitants of this city."

Mr. Daller did not remain to await the issue of the difficulties in which he played so prominent a part. For some reason not stated, he left for London on June 22d, 1766, just one week before his party got forcible possession of the church. After his departure, Mr. Garnier, the lecteur, or precentor, of the church, simply read the service until a regular minister could be secured. Meanwhile, the Rev. Mr. Abraham Keteltas, an American, was engaged as supply, and he officiated in the church for the first time on September 14th, 1766. Mr. Jacques Buvelot, who was then treasurer of the church, thus recorded, in his account book, the impression which this first service caused him:

"Mr. Abraham Kettletas, minister, gave us a sermon in our church in French, which edified the congregation, on these words of our Lord Jesus Christ, Saint Matthew, Chap. VI., 33: 'But seek ye first his Kingdom, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.' What is surprising, and what surprised all the members of the church, is that he, being born here, should have expressed himself so well in French; for nearly everything he said in French was understood, and he expressed himself almost as well as in his maternal language. . . . . He promised us that from this day in three weeks he would administer to us the Holy Communion, and give us on the [preceding] Friday a preparatory sermon." On the day appointed Mr. Keteltas was on hand, and Mr. Buvelot, who seems to have been a great admirer of him, again writes in his account book: "Mr. Abraham Kettletas, minister, gave us on Sunday morning a sermon, which he had composed, and wherein he showed and declared his belief that our Lord Jesus Christ is God eternal, that the Father is God eternal, and that the Holy Spirit is God eternal; one only God in three distinct persons; nevertheless, one only God from all eternity. In the afternoon he read us a printed sermon." Mr. Keteltas was born, in this city, on December 26th, 1732, of Dutch parentage. He was educated at Yale College, but acquired a knowledge of the French language during a long residence, in early life, at New Rochelle. He preached in Dutch, English and French. He seems to have preached in the French church only every third Sunday; and his temporary connection with the church, interrupted for a time at the beginning of 1770, definitely ceased on the 21st of April, 1776. He died on the 30th of September, 1798.

On February 4th, 1770, appears for the first time the name of the Rev. Jacques Adam de Martel. He seems then to have but recently come over from London, and his connection with the church was very brief, and rather of the nature of a simple supply. His last official act is dated August 11th, 1771, when Mr. Keteltas resumed his services. The membership of the Society had, at this time, evidently been reduced to a very small number; and the Consistory, no doubt, felt that, unless the younger members were retained by having services in English as well as in French, the congregation would steadily continue to decline. Accordingly, on November 23d, 1772, Messrs. Jacques Desbrosses, Jacques Buvelot, Frédéric Basset, Jean-Pierre Chapelle, Jean Aymar, Jean Girault and François Carré, who seem to have been appointed a committee for that purpose, applied to the French Church of London for a minister who could officiate in both French and English. The approaching political troubles had, probably, something to do with the failure of this plan, and less than four years later, when Mr. Keteltas finally ceased his occasional services, the church was closed for a period of twenty years. Many of the remaining members were, no doubt, dispersed in consequence of the war, Mr. Keteltas was in exile in New England, and it was probably as useless as it was impracticable to keep the church open. On March 15th, 1780, Major-General Pattison caused the following order to be issued to Francis Stephens, Esq.:

"Major-General Pattison having allotted the French Church in King Street for the reception of Ordnance Stores, he desires you will immediately order the Sea Horse and Lord Townsend Ordnance Transports to be unloaded and the several Stores depozited there, all of which you are to take into your Charge, except such as come under the Denomination of Field and Battering Train, which you will deliver to Mr. Commissary Grant." *

The injury done to the church in this and other ways during the Revolution was so great that it had to be virtually rebuilt. But this was not done till 1796, and the honor of it is due to the Rev. J. Louis Duby, of Geneva, Switzerland. Mr. Duby, who belonged to an excellent Genevan family, came here towards the end of the preceding year, and at once began to gather together the remaining fragments of the church. Evening services were held in the German Reformed Church, which was kindly offered for that purpose; and in a short time sufficient interest was aroused to warrant the reorganization of the church. Accordingly, Mr. Frédéric Basset, the only surviving officer of the church, and who had charge of its temporalities during the Revolution, called together a meeting of all such persons as desired to unite in realizing that purpose. It was resolved in this meeting that the church should be reorganized under the law of the State of New York, passed April 16th, 1784; that on the evening of January 26th, 1796, an election for six trustees should be held in the German Reformed Church; and that the said trustees should be known in law as "The Trustees of the Reformed Protestant French Church in the City of New York." The election resulted in the choice of the following persons as trustees of the church: Messrs. François Basset, Jean Aymar, Jean Logiar, Jacques Blanchard, Renée Jean Van den Broek and Frédéric Basset. A certificate of the election, signed and sealed by the inspectors in the presence of witnesses, was acknowledged before Judge Benson and recorded in the office of the Clerk of the County of New York conformably to law; and at a meeting held February 15th, 1796, the Board of Trustees was formally organized by the election of Mr. Frédéric Basset, as president, and by that of Mr. Van den Broek, as secretary.

One of the first subjects to engage the attention of the Board of Trustees was a permanent minister. Mr. Duby, who had endeared himself to every one, had hitherto simply acted as supply. Unfortunately, his family recalled him to Geneva, and he was finally obliged to decline the call which the trustees extended to him. He left New York at the beginning of the following Summer, bearing a letter to the Rev. Prof. Levade, of Lausanne, Switzerland, wherein the trustees requested Mr. Levade to select for them another minister in case Mr. Duby could really not return. Mr. Duby having definitely declined to return to New York, Mr. Levade's choice fell upon the Rev. Pierre Antoine Samuel Albert, who was destined to become the first rector of the French Church du Saint Esprit. Mr. Albert, who had already acquired the reputation of an eloquent preacher, was a native of Lausanne, and was then only thirty years of age. In a letter preserved in the archives of the church, Mr. Levade further says of him: "He has manifested on all occasions a great zeal for the holy vocation which he professes, a wise attachment for the pure doctrine of the Gospel, great purity of character, and a conduct proper to conciliate him the esteem and attachment of all those who have been called to live with him or near him."

Mr. Albert arrived at New York during the Summer of 1797, and he soon fully redeemed the excellent reputation which had preceded him. His ministrations in the pulpit gave general satisfaction, and his self-sacrificing spirit, which was soon put to the test, won the admiration of all. And for a time, indeed, the church seemed to regain life; but as in the time of Mr. Carle, it was too late to resuscitate it altogether. Many of the old members, who had not removed to other places, had permanently united with other churches, and the accessions upon which the church counted from abroad did not realize the expectations which had been entertained. This diminution in the membership of the society largely reduced its income, which soon became wholly inadequate to meet the current expenses; and as if its financial condition were not already deplorable enough, Mrs. Margaret McLaren attempted to deprive it of the little income it had left. Mrs. McLaren was the heir and executrix of her father, Mr. Frédéric Basset, who was president of the Board of Trustees and treasurer of the church. Upon the death of her father, she refused, apparently on the pretext that he had neglected to transfer the property of the church to the surviving trustees, to give it up; and such "notices" as the following, dated July 2d, 1802, appeared in the Mercantile Advertiser: "The Rev. Mr. Albert, minister of the French Protestant Church in this city, with much grief and reluctance is compelled to announce to his congregation, by the subscriber, that the holy communion cannot be administered according to the proclamation of Sunday last. The disappointment is owing to the imperious refusal of widow McLaren to deliver the sacramental vases to the minister, who keeps them unjustly in her possession, as likewise all the property belonging to the said congregation, since the death of her father, Frédéric Basset, formerly treasurer to said church. S. Hugget." Counsel were engaged on both sides, and the affair dragged along for about two years, when Mrs. McLaren finally decided, in August, 1802, to make restitution of the property, books, documents, &c., belonging to the society. On examination it was then found that the total income of the church was reduced to five hundred and twelve dollars and fifty cents! Evidently the finances of the society had been very poorly managed, especially during the revolutionary period; besides, no pew rents were then paid, nor is there any mention of voluntary contributions. The salaries paid by the church, already so inconsiderable, had, therefore, to be further diminished, that of Mr. Albert being fixed at five hundred dollars a year.

It was under these circumstances that, on September 30th, 1802, the society took the first step towards conforming to the Episcopal Church. The trustees then consisted of Messrs. Sigismond Hugget, president, John Pintard, Stephen Richard, Peter Lacour, Thomas Hamersly, and John G. Tardy, secretary, several of whom, on the day named, proposed, as the sole and unique means of preventing the church from falling into a state of complete nullity, to adopt the Episcopal liturgy. After mature deliberation this proposition was unanimously adopted; and it was further resolved to immediately inform Mr. Albert of the nature of the action taken. At the following meeting of the trustees, held October 6th, 1802, a letter was received from Mr. Albert, in which he expresses himself thus in regard to the proposed change in the government of the church: "As to your determination concerning the Anglican liturgy, I can see nothing in the way of its adoption by us, since the religion is the same, differing, I believe, only in the ceremonies. It would, nevertheless, be well to know exactly the conditions on which the English would consent to let us have the legacy bequeathed to us; for if they are onerous or tend to deprive us of our independence, I could not subscribe to them. If, on the contrary, it is only a question of the simple adoption of the liturgy, I unite with you, gentlemen, in adopting it; and I do so all the more willingly as I am convinced that that is perhaps the only means we have to at last draw our congregation out of that state of nullity where it is at present. As to the latter purpose, I am, likewise, fully disposed to concur with you in the execution of a plan which can only turn out to the advantage of all." The legacy here alluded to is that left by Mr. Elias Desbrosses, to whom the Consistory of the church confided a part of their funds in 1766. By his will, made in 1773, he left "the sum of one thousand pounds lawful money of New York unto the Rector and Inhabitants of the City of New York in communion of the Church of England as by law established in trust to be placed at Interest by the Vestry of said Corporation for the Maintenance of a French Clergyman who shall perform Divine Service in the French language in this City, according to the liturgy of the Church of England as by law established and should it be any considerable time before such establishment is effected then the interest arising from the said one thousand pounds shall become principal for the same use.*

After the reading of Mr. Albert's letter, which gave general satisfaction, a committee, consisting of Messrs. Pintard and Hamersly, was appointed to take all measures, not inconsistent with the independence of the church, to carry into effect the resolution of conformity previously adopted; and Mr. Albert was requested to announce to the congregation, on the following two Sundays, that there would be held, on the 24th of October next, at the close of the morning service, a public meeting, at which this action of the trustees would be made known to the members of the church. On the day named one of the trustees, after having explained to the congregation the unfavorable condition in which the church found itself financially, said that under these unfortunate circumstances the trustees had resolved, after ample deliberation, to take the necessary measures to put the church in possession of the legacy left to it by the late Elias Desbrosses, of one thousand pounds; that, in order to conform themselves to the will of the testator, they had further resolved that in the future the Anglican liturgy should be used in the service of this church; that they had previously convinced themselves that such a measure would contribute, not only to increase the revenues of the church, but also to considerably enlarge its membership; that they considered, in any case, the adoption of the English liturgy as absolutely necessary to the future existence of the church; and that they had, moreover, assured themselves that this innovation, if it really was one, consisted only in the simple addition of certain ceremonies; that the doctrines of their religion, as well as the independence of their church, would in all respects remain the same; and that, in consequence, they, the trustees, animated with an ardent desire to maintain that harmony which is indispensable in a Christian assembly, wished to know whether the congregation likewise approved, if necessary, the action which they, by virtue of their office, had taken in the premises. Each member of the church was then separately consulted, and they unanimously gave their consent to the proposed change. It was therefore again resolved that the Episcopal liturgy should be used in all the services of the church as soon as the necessary French prayer books could be obtained.

The absence of a French translation of the American Book of Common Prayer was one of the principal difficulties in the way of an immediate conformity to the Episcopal Church. Probably no one then thought of making an entirely new translation of the American book. Even if there had been sufficient time in which to do it, it would have been difficult to find a competent translator. Mr. Albert, upon whom this task would naturally have devolved, does not seem to have had any special acquaintance with French liturgical language; nor does he seem to have sufficiently understood, for such a purpose, the English language. It was therefore resolved to simply adapt the Prayer Book used in the French Episcopal churches of London, Jersey and Guernsey, to American use. A simple comparison of the two books will put this fact beyond dispute. But a curious proof of it occurs in the translation of the Te Deum. The English Book of Common Prayer says: "Thine venerable, true and only Son"; the American Book says: "Thine adorable, true and only Son"; The English French Book says: "Ton fils unique, vrai et vénérable"; the American French Book says: "Ton fils unique vrai et vénérable." Here the adapter evidently betrays himself. The changes made in the French translation of London, in order to make it conform to the American Prayer Book, as well as some other merely verbal changes, are no doubt due to Mr. Albert, assisted, in the English part of his work, by Mr. John Pintard.* The printing of the work began in December, 1802, and it seems to have been finished in June, 1803. It is a handsome octavo volume of 503 pages, printed on excellent paper, and bearing the impress of Robert Wilson, New York. All the arrangements for its publication were made, at the request of the vestry, by Mr. Pintard, and it cost from eight hundred to one thousand dollars.

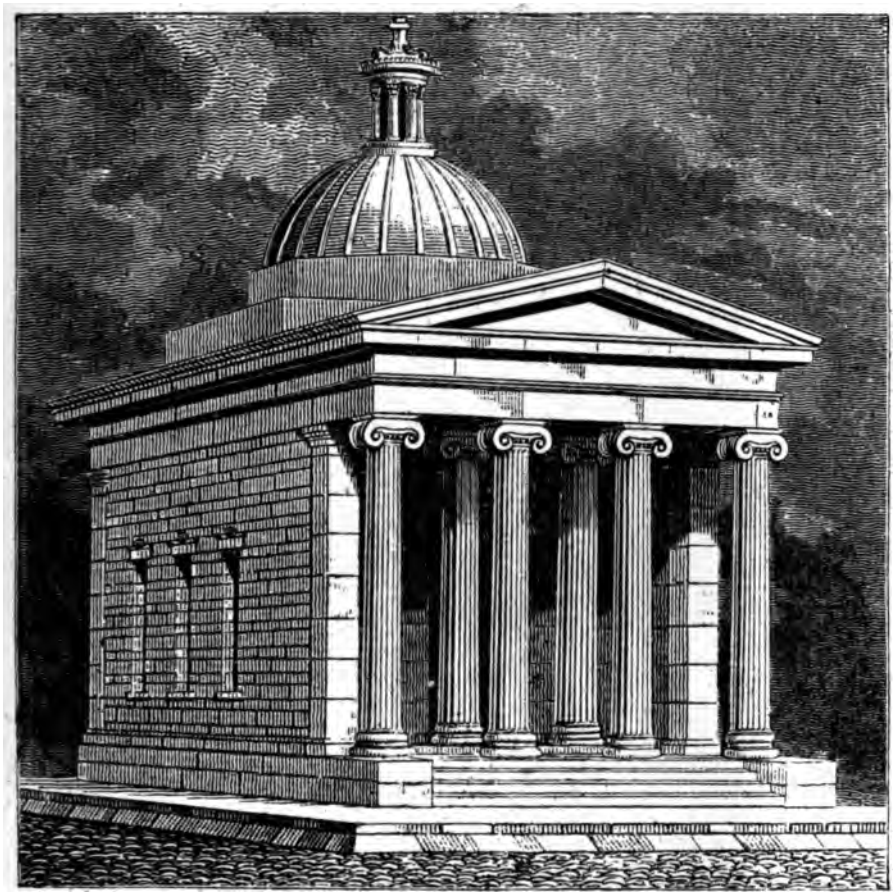
* For a statement of the facts relating to the first Prayer Book used in the French Church of New York, see The New York Leader, of Dec. 28th, 1861, Jan. 4th and 25th, and Feb. 8th, 1862.

In the meantime the work of conformity went on. After having been suitably repaired and altered, the church was consecrated to the service of Almighty God, on May 30th, 1803, according to the rites and ceremonies of the Episcopal Church, by the Right Rev. Benjamin Moore, D.D., Bishop of the Diocese of New York, under the corporate name of The French Church du Saint-Esprit. The prayers were said in French by the Rev. Mr. Ireland, and the sermon was preached by the Rev. Mr. Hobart. On the following day Mr. Albert was ordained deacon in the French Church, and the clergy, with Mr. John Pintard, dined at the Bishop's. With Mr. Albert there was also ordained Mr. Edmond Barry, who, as Mr. Albert's assistant, was to preach every Sunday afternoon in English. On Trinity Sunday, June 5th, divine service was celebrated for the first time in the church according to the usuage of the Episcopal Church. Mr. Albert preached in the morning, and Mr. Barry in the afternoon; and at both services, notwithstanding the unfavorable weather, there was present a large attendance. On June 24th, 1803, Mr. Albert was admitted to priest's orders in Trinity Church; and on this occasion Mr. Hugget gave a dinner at which were present Bishop Moore, Mr. Albert, Mr. Hobart, Mr. Pintard and Dr. Kemp. It now only remained, to perfect the union with the Episcopal Church, to elect wardens and vestrymen. This was done on May 14th, 1804, when the following persons were duly elected: Wardens, Messrs. Sigismond Hugget and Richard Harrison; vestrymen, Messrs. John Pintard, Thomas Hamersly, Stephen Richard, John G. Tardy, Dr. John Kemp, Jacob Schieffelin, John B. Prevoost and Thomas Randall. And at a subsequent meeting of the vestry, Messrs. Harrison and Kemp were chosen delegates to the diocesan convention.

The immediate result of this action was an almost unparalleled increase in the number of the pewholders.



THE THIRD FRENCH PROTESTANT CHURCH, DU ST. ESPRIT, in New York.
Erected of Sing Sing marble, in 1832, on the corner of Franklin and Church Streets.
Length, 100 feet; width, 50; height also 50. It was injured and the dome destroyed by the burning of Palmo's Opera House, which adjoined it, on 23d September, 1839. Repaired, without rebuilding the dome, it was used till 1863. The view is enlarged from a wood-cut by Adams, after a drawing by Davis, in the New York Mirror of Nov. 29, 1834.

On March 27th, 1804, the pews were sold by Messrs. Griffen & Glass, and the following persons are named as purchasers: John Polens, W. W. Rodman, Peter Kemble, Dr. W. Post, John R. Livingston, C. Low, S. Hugget, Jacob Schieffelin, John Seaman, Griffen & Glass, Wm. Jepson, R. M. Woodhull, John J. Astor, J. B. Prevost, Judge Ogleby, S. Richard, Henry Aaron, Frederick de Peyster, Dudley, Dr. Blenor, C. W. Le Brun, Dashé, Dr. Bradhurst, Fleming, J. Hawland, Judge Pendleton, Richard Harrison, John Pintard, John B. Coles, J. Jones, Patterson, King, Turcot, Rande, Garniyea (Correja?), J. Hatton, Dr. Kemp, Raineteau (?), James Fairlie, Wm. Wilmording, John G. Tardy, Cawford & Sands, Gulian Verplank, Ezra Sargent, Joseph Sands, W. Lawrence, William Swing, John Sutter and T. R. Smith.

Here properly ends the history of the Huguenot church of New York. A few words will suffice to indicate its subsequent history. Both French and English services were held in the church until the death of Mr. Albert, which occurred in 1806. His successor, the Rev. Henri Péneveyre, entered upon the discharge of his duties only in 1816. He returned to Switzerland in 1825, and was succeeded, in 1828, by the Rev. Antoine Verren. During the long pastorate of Mr. Verren, the property in Pine Street was sold, in 1834, for fifty thousand dollars; a new church and a rectory were built in Franklin street, on corner of Church street; and the remains of the dead, buried in the Pine street church-yard, were removed to a vault in Saint Mark's Church, in the Bowery. From Franklin street the church was removed, in 1863, to West Twenty-second street, where it still stands. Mr. Verren died in 1874, and his successor, the Rev. Léon Pons, was chosen the same year. He resigned in 1879, when the present rector succeeded him.

The records here published comprise only the still existing baptismal, marriage and death records of the Huguenot church of New York from 1688 to 1804, together with a few other records belonging to the New Rochelle "Annex." Even as such, however, they are far from being entirely complete. Not only do they not contain any of the records of the church established by Mr. Daillé in 1682, nor, of course, any of those of the church which existed in the time of Governor Lovelace; but they are incomplete even for the period which they professedly cover. This is more particularly true of the marriage and death records. During the forty years of Mr. Rou's pastorate there is, with the exception of the deaths recorded of five of his own children, only a single death record to be found; and towards the end of this same period, when Mr. Rou had become infirm, records of all kinds are very scanty. Other lacunæ occur during the vacancies occasioned by the death or resignation of the pastors, and during the revolutionary period, when the church was closed for many years. Others, finally, seem to be wholly due to negligence. The latter, so far as they can be detected by the blanks left in the registers, are all marked. Many of the records of this church must therefore be sought in the registers of other New York churches, especially in those of Trinity Church and of the Dutch Church. But, incomplete as they are, these records form a mine of inestimable value for genealogists; and it is to be hoped that similar publications of other churches will soon complete them.

To render this publication as reliable and as valuable as possible, the records are here printed verbatim et literatim. Nothing has been added, nothing has been taken away, from them. Not only has the old French, such as it is found in the originals, been everywhere preserved; but even evident mistakes in punctuation, accentuation, orthography, and, in a few instances, in single words and dates, have been scrupulously followed. But in the latter case, as in the case of evident omissions of records, attention is called to the fact by occasional notes. In the same way, the order of the signatures, which is sometimes helpful in determining the relationship of the signers, has been strictly maintained. A little inspection will show, for example, that the relatives and friends of a couple usually sign the record of the marriage in two separate columns. And this literal exactitude has been carried so far as to reproduce, as nearly as possible, the exact "marks" of those who could not write their own names. At first these are very few, and this fact speaks well for the quality of the refugees who came here; but later on, when the means of education were scarcer and more difficult to obtain, they become more numerous.

Nor has it been deemed best to translate the records into English. The language in which they are couched is generally so simple that even those who do not read French can understand it without any serious difficulty. The formula for a baptism, for example, which, with slight variations, constantly recurs, is as follows: "Baptesme—Le dimanche quatriesme nouembre mil six cent quatre vingt huit madelayne fille denbroise Sicard et de jeanne perron ses peres et mere a esté presentéé au baptesme par andré Jolin parin et madelayne Vincent marenne et baptisse par mons^r peiret nostre ministre, la ditte madelayne néé le lundy vingt deux d'octobre der^r." That is: "Baptism—On Sunday, the 4th of November, one thousand six hundred and eighty-eight, Magdalena, daughter of Ambrose Sicard and Jane Perron, her father and mother, was presented for baptism by Andrew Jolin, godfather, and Magdalena Vincent, godmother, and baptised by Mr. Pieret, our minister. The said Magdalena born on Monday, the twenty-second of October last."—And so of the formulas for marriages and burials.—Besides, wherever an unusual term or expression occurs, which happens very seldom, they are explained in foot notes.

But it will be well in this connection to caution the reader against a special difficulty caused by the orthography of the proper names. It is very seldom that a name, which occurs often in the records, is always spelled alike. A striking example of this fact is furnished by the name of Mr. Peiret, who was nevertheless one of the principal ministers of the church. Besides the form of Peiret, which is no doubt the ordinary form, it is found also as Pairet, Payret and Perret. The index, which may serve as a guide in this matter, reveals still greater differences in writing the names of persons. The fact can be readily explained. At that time the spelling of proper names, like the spelling of words in general, was far from being as definitely fixed as it is now. Not only so, but the members of the church consisted of "Normands, Picards, Rochelers, Poitevins, Lanquedocians, Xaintongers, Gascons, Bretons, Angoumoisins, Béarnois, Dauphinois,"* &c., and all these provinces then still retained some of their peculiarities of speech and writing. In identifying the names of persons, too much stress must not, therefore, be laid upon exact correspondence in the spelling.

It would have been very interesting, and in many instances very easy, to add other notes, indicating, wherever it could be done, the places of origin of the families mentioned in these records, the special circumstances of their emigration and their subsequent history. But such a course would scarcely have answered the object of the present publication, which is simply to preserve these records forever, as materials for future historians and genealogists. Besides, much of this work has already been done, especially by the Rev. Dr. Charles W. Baird; and, thanks to the tardy interest which the Huguenots are now exciting almost everywhere, new matter of this kind is constantly coming to light; so that this part of this work, which could now be done only partially, can soon be done much more exactly and completely. Instead of such notes, it will be better, therefore, to offer here a few concluding observations on the organization and ceremonies of the church.

The principal services of the church consisted of a Sunday morning service, followed by a second service in the afternoon or evening. The sermon in the afternoon was mainly catechetical, and the service largely took the place of our present Sunday-school system. On Wednesday evenings was held a service of prayer. A precentor, who frequently combined these functions with those of the parish schoolmaster, or with those of a teacher of French, usually read the Scripture lesson, later followed by the reflections of Ostervald; and he led the singing. Only the Psalms of David were sung in the public worship, and this practice continued in the church until about four years ago. In the order of the service the liturgy of Calvin, or, more usually, a shortened form of it, was followed. Some of the ministers, at least, wore the black gown. The Holy Communion was administered four times a year, namely, on Christmas, Easter, Whitsunday, and in the month of September; and, besides, all days of fasting and thanksgiving appointed by the Government, several church festivals, like New Year's Day, Easter Monday, Ascension Day, &c., were regularly celebrated.

The government of the church was in the hands of the pastor and the consistory. The latter was ordinarily composed of two elders and two deacons, elected by the people for a term of years; and, in token of their office, they occupied special seats in the church. They were particularly charged with the care of the temporal interests of the Society; but they had also, in conjunction with the pastor, the oversight of the members of the congregation. Nothing of special importance could, however, be done without the public sanction of the "heads of families." The acceptance of the resignation of a pastor, the calling of a new one, the choice of a new version of the Bible or of the psalter, all the more important financial transactions, &c., were generally first submitted to their approval. This is one of the features which, during the earlier periods of the Reformation in France, secured for the Reformed churches so much popular favor.

But it is evident that, in respect to the real exercise of any discipline, the position of this church, as that of all other Huguenot churches here, was very anomalous. Its effect could evidently go no further than went the good will of the accused party. The Reformed churches having then no legal existence in France, no appeal could lie to any higher ecclesiastical body. Nor did there exist any external bond of union between the several Huguenot churches established in this country. Accordingly, the ministers of these churches usually depended in spirituals only on the Synods which ordained them. All other matters, if any occasion presented itself, had to be finally referred, as was done in the celebrated case of Rou vs. Moulinars, to the local courts of justice. Nevertheless, within the limits stated, this church frequently exercised its disciplinary powers. We have a curious example of this in the case of Mr. Têtard, which it will be best to give in the language of the original entry. "Mr. Jean Pierre Têtard, formerly pastor of the French Reformed Church of Charlestown, South Carolina, in America, having left his church and retired to this city, intimated to us that he would like to administer the Holy Communion with us, pastor of the French Reformed Church of this city, as he had done during his sojourn in 1756, when he came here for the purpose of restoring his health. But his circumstances having subsequently changed, we considered it our duty, in order to quiet our conscience and to conform ourselves to the canons of the church, and in particular to the rules of our 'discipline,' as also to edify the flock which the Lord has confided to us, to take the following precautions:—We invited him to come to our study, where, in presence of Messrs. Desbrosses and Vallade, elders of the French Reformed Church of New York, in America, we asked him, first, whether he had definitely left the ministry. He answered 'No; I have not even had the intention of leaving it.' I then asked him why he had left his church in Charlestown. He answered that the principal reason why he had left it was his health, which had been greatly injured by the deadly climate. I asked him again:—'Did you not leave your church in order to be able to marry the widow Dupuy?' He answered that that had only induced him to leave his church a little sooner than he would otherwise have done; but that even if he had never known her, he would still have left the said church on account of his health. Finally I asked him whether he would solemnly promise to take charge of a church on the first favorable occasion. He answered 'Yes.' On the strength of these declarations, solemnly made in the presence of the two elders above named, I told him that I thought I could allow him to administer the communion with me."*

The marriage ceremony was another very interesting ceremony of the church. It generally took place on Sundays, and the bans were usually published three consecutive Sundays in advance, according to the law. But when a special license was obtained from the Governor, a course also in accordance with the law, the publication of bans became unnecessary. In either way the marriage was legal. Sometimes, also, on the occasion of a marriage a contract was made a few days before the ceremony by the couple, which they signed and sealed in the presence of witnesses. One of these contracts, which has been happily preserved, and which is, perhaps, the only one that has been so preserved, is as follows. The marriage in question was celebrated by Mr. Peiret on Sunday, May 9th, 1703:

"MARRIAGE CONTRACT.

Saturday, the seventeenth day of April, 1703, we, the subscribers, Daniel Ayrault and Mary Robineau, do certify, in presence of the undersigned witnesses, that we are promised and do mutually engage to each other the faith of Holy matrimony. And to that we engage all that we have and hope to have in this world, for the performance of our promise; desiring that God Almighty will give his blessing on our design, which is for his glory and the edification of our neighbors. Wherefore we are determined to consummate our marriage as soon as possible according to the order of holy discipline, and to be published the first time to-morrow, in our church, according to custom, that all the congregation may be witnesses of the promise which we have made in the presence of Elias Neau, Mary Paré, Judith Robineau, the mother and daughter, Susannah Neau and Ezekiel Grazielleu, the day and year above written.

Still another interesting feature of the inner life of the church were the numerous abjurations recorded in its registers. They were most numerous after 1750, and were made in part by Roman Catholics, but mostly, it would seem, by children of Protestant parents brought up in the Romish faith. They forcibly remind the reader of the cruel persecutions which these exiles for conscience' sake had suffered at home; of the dragonnades, the bagnes, the galleys, of children torn from their mother's breast and brought up in convents, &c. The earliest one recorded is dated May 7th, 1693, and reads as follows: "Francis Le Comte, native of Pont Levêque, in Normandie, Kingdom of France, born and brought up in the Romish religion, having asked at different times to be allowed to abjure popery, God having given him grace, by the reading of the Holy Scriptures and other books, to recognize its errors, and to embrace the Protestant religion, of which he has similarly recognized the truth after different examinations, has been finally received to-day in presence of this church, where he declared that he sincerely rejected all the errors and all the false worship of said popery, and that he desires with all his heart to profess all the doctrines of the Protestant religion. In faith of which," &c.

The regular support of the church was derived from pew rents, voluntary contributions, church collections, the sale of burial places in the church-yard, and, after the decline of the Society, from the ringing of the bell at funerals, &c. In the archives of the church there is still a printed receipt for pew rent, of November 16th, 1713, and reading thus: "Nous sousignez, anciens de l'Eglize des Réfugiés François à la Nouvelle York avons donné possession à mon^r Abraham Jouneau due banc No. 59 pour sa Personne et Famille pour autant de temps qu'il payra luy ou ses heritiers par quartier au tresorier ou Receveur de cett' Eglise la somme de trois pistolles dix shelings par an monoye courante de la ditte New York fait audit lien le 16 de novembre 1713.

The voluntary gifts were numerous, and, particularly in the earlier history of the church, very generous. And such contributions were liberally given by the members, not only to this church, but also to other churches, especially to Trinity Church, when it was built in 1696. Collections were regularly taken up at each service, and the church still possesses the accounts which the different treasurers kept of the moneys which they thus received. The receipts varied, according to times and circumstances, from a shilling to several pounds; the average receipt was probably a little less than a pound. The funds derived from this source, together with the interest received from certain legacies, were generally consecrated to the support of the poor, who were always a special object of care to the church. In this respect, indeed, this church has always given an admirable example. In the accounts of its treasurers, to which reference has just been had, are also found the disbursements made by them; and a brief inspection of them will show that the poor of the church could scarcely have had a legitimate need which their more favored brethren did not regularly supply. Mr. John Pintard, in his "Recollection," says on this subject: "The church [in Pine street] had two doors, behind which boxes were placed to receive the contributions of the congregation. At the conclusion of the services, the minister never failed to add, souvenez-vous des pauvres, remember the poor; upon which every person, old and young, dropped a copper into the box. The money collected in this manner was divided next morning among the poor, who came regularly at nine to receive it."* The church even employed for years a physician, who visited regularly the sick poor, and whom it paid "six pistolles par an, tant pour ses visites que pour ses remedes." The first one of these physicians, whose name is on record, was Dr. Jean du Puy, well known in New York medical history.

But a special source of income, dating back in part to almost the beginning of the church, and forming at times almost its only means of support, consists in legacies which its wealthier members left to it by testament. The great number of these legacies were quite small, and were exhausted as fast as they were received; but others, the interest of which only could be used, were happily more important. Some of the latter were given for the exclusive use of the poor, and are now so applied; the rest were given for the maintenance of the ministry. Among the more important benefactors of the church stand prominently Jean Cottin, Louis Sacombe, Elie Desbrosses and, when the church conformed, Trinity Church, of this city.

NOTE.—The archives of the French church of New York are comparatively rich. The present publication is limited to the two earlier registers and to a part of the third. The first register, extending from November 4th, 1688, to October 18th, 1768, forms an extra large octavo volume, made of beautiful Holland paper, nearly one-half of which is still blank. The second register, extending from May 10th, 1767, to April 20th, 1796, is a small quarto, less than one-half of which is full. The third register, beginning with the arrival of the Rev. Mr. Albert, is a large ordinary blank book. But, besides these registers, the church possesses valuable minute books, the first one of which begins, however, only in 1723; an almost unbroken series of account books, and numerous deeds, letters, reports, receipts, &c., &c.

* In order not to interrupt too much the order of the dates, these records are given here, instead of being relegated to the end of the volume. A few leaves of the original register of the New Rochelle "annexe" are now in the library of the New York Historical Society. They begin with the baptism of April 16th, 1762, and end with that of July 7th, 1764—the latter entry, and the two immediately preceding it, not being contained in the register of the mother church. The several duplicate records which thus exist serve to show that the transcription was accurately made.

HISTORICAL DOCUMENTS

RELATING TO THE

French Protestants

IN NEW YORK.

PREFATORY NOTE.

This collection of illustrative Historical Documents has been gathered by the Committee on Publications, from different sources, but chiefly from the Archives of the Province of New York, preserved at Albany, and from the Journals of the Provincial, Legislative Council, and General Assembly. Many of them are scattered through the published volumes of the Documentary History, and the Colonial History of New York, together, nineteen in number; others are here printed for the first time. The object has been to print all in a single volume for the convenience of the Society, and of readers and students of history. The very few notes to them have been added by the Chairman of the Committee.

ABSTRACT OF M. DE DENONVILLE'S LETTERS AND OF THE MINISTER'S ANSWERS THERETO.

Council of Canada.

Summary of letters written in 1686.

Monsieur DE DENONVILLE. Answers.

There is no inhabitant of the Pretended Reformed Religion.

There were only a few soldiers, the most of whom have made an act of abjuration. Were some small gratuity bestowed on them, it would have a good effect.

50 or 60 Huguenots of the islands of Saint Xtopher and Martinique have taken refuge at Manatte.* Some have also arrived at Boston from France.

His Majesty is very glad to learn that there are no Protestants in Canada and that the soldiers who were still of the P. R. R. have been converted.†

Petition of the French Protestants in New-York to Gov. Dongan to be Permitted to Trade Freely in America, 1687.

[Translated from the French.]

To Mylord,

Mylord Dongan, Govr for the King in the Countries of America,

The French Protestants humbly supplicate and represent, that they are infinitely obliged to the King for having so much goodness for them and for consenting, as you have taken the trouble to testify, that those who will repair to this Province should enjoy some special advantages. Therefore the Petitioners hope from his Majesty's Clemency that he will not refuse them the favour they ask with all possible respect—that is, that Merchants Masters of Vessels and Others who will settle in this Country, may have the privilege of trading, going and coming in & to all places in America, Islands and Mainland that are under the Kings dominion without the Governors of said Countries giving them any trouble, disturbing their Commerce, and treating them otherwise than as his Majesty's Natural Subjects; inasmuch as the Petitioners swear inviolable obedience to the King, acknowledging him for their Sovereign Lord, Protector and Benefactor, to whom they will take an Oath of Fidelity which they shall observe to the last breath of their lives.

The Petitioners, My Lord, apply to your Lordship as to a Channel through which the King's favours flow to them, beseeching you to be pleased to write to his Majesty that he may have the Charity to order said Governors of the places subject to him, duly to receive the Petitioners who shall have your passports and to act towards them as towards His Majesty's Subjects which is necessary in order that the Petitioners may subsist in this Province. That will encourage them to establish themselves there, and to attract others who eventually will greatly enhance and augment these countries. What will afford you My Lord satisfaction the Petitioners shall accomplish with all their power, being your Excellency's

* PETER REVERDY. He was a French Protestant, and is mentioned in "The Revolution in New England Justified," p. 41, (republished in Force's Historical Tracts, IV., as having been the author of Memoirs concerning Sir Edmund Andros.—ED.

† Reverend PETER DAILLE was one of the earliest ministers connected with the French Protestants of the city of New York. He incurred Leisler's displeasure in 1690, and had subsequently some difference with his congregation (New York Documentary History, 800; II., 432; III., 678, 1167), which caused him to remove to Boston, where he is mentioned in 1696 as having charge of a society of French refugees. Mather's Magnalia, 27. He continued pastor of that church until his death, which occurred in 1715, in the 67th year of his age. He and his wife, who preceded him by nine years, were interred in the Granary burying ground, Boston. He was a person of great piety and charity; of affable and courteous behaviour, and of an exemplary life and conversation. He was much lamented, especially by his flock. 3 Massachusetts Historical Society's Collections, II., 52.—ED.

French Account of New York in 1692.

From Memoir on Acadia, New England, New York and Virginia, 1692.

Extracts from the Memoirs of M. Lamothe-Cadillac respecting New Netherland.

Manatte, so called when in the possession of the Dutch, is properly speaking an island, three leagues long and one wide. The fort is situate on a triangular point of land, and on the banks of two rivers, one called the South River and the other the North River. It has four Bastions, and is faced with stone and terraced on three sides; on the North, South and East. Some barracks and the gate are on the west side; the ditch is but a miserable affair, and is almost filled up on the East and North. There is a very fine armory which is in good order; good muskets, fusils, pistols, halberts, pikes, swords, cuirasses. There are 27 pieces of iron cannon around the fort, and four small brass pieces at its gate. It is surrounded by houses on all sides except the South. The roadstead cannot be cannonaded without razing and throwing down almost one entire street. The same is the case on the side of the town which is build of brick and stands on the banks of the two rivers. It is not inclosed either by walls or palisades. There is one wooden wharf but smaller than that at Boston. The Vessels enter the port and are aground at low water. There may be in the town five hundred men capable of bearing arms, but they could [muster] 3,000 men in a short time. Here it must be remarked that there are a great many Quakers or Tremblers who are non-combatants. The Dutch church is in the fort. The garrison consists of 60 men. The population is composed of Calvinists, Lutherans, Anabaptists, Jews, Quakers, Abadiens, French Protestants and some Catholics. Each sect has its Church and freedom of religion. Their trade is made up of beaver and peltries which they buy from the Iroquois; whale oil, pork, staves, horses and tobacco. The people are almost all Dutch; there are about forty English families, and a great many French. This Island is almost entirely cleared. They have Negroes as in Boston. East Northeast, within 120 rods of the fort, lies an Island, on which cannon can be planted to batter the fort or the town. It is clear of wood, and easy of access. This town is much richer in money than Boston. Its principal currency consists of Spanish coin. They have considerable merchandise there also.

On the other side of the South River is a small town called Newiazze. * People pass there to Albany. It is no great things. Orange is thirty-five leagues from New York. It is a little fort, utterly defenceless. It has a few guns in very bad order and perhaps sixty men bearing arms.†

The Humble Petition of some of the French Protestant Refugees Inhabiting in the City of New-York, in behalf of themselves and others.

Humbly sheweth unto your Excellency:

That there is lately arrived in this city one Morris Newinhuysen, who, in the year 1706, being Mate on board a Vessel bound from hence to England, was taken by the French and made a Prisoner of War.

That since his arrival a very infamous, pernicious, and detestable Report is clandestinely and industriously spread abroad amongst the Inhabitants of this City and Province, of a certain Correspondence said to be maintained by some of the French Protestants here, with the Inhabitants of France, tending to the taking and destruction of this City by her Majesties declared Enemies, which has been discovered by the said Newenhuysen by Letters which were found (as is said) on board the said Vessel, and were by him seen, opened, and read after his being taken. Which your Excellencys Petitioners are in great hopes will prove altogether false and untrue. It being a crime of so high a nature in it self, and so much abhorred by your Excellencys Petitioners, and being as yet unable, by legal Proof, to fix this slander and Infamy on any particular Person, and so very uneasie under so general an Accusation, and having good reason to believe that it takes its original and rise from the said Morris Newinhuysen,

They therefore make their humble Application to your Excellency to cause the said Morris Newinhuysen, and all others who may appear concerned, to be strictly examined upon the same

Report, that if any such Offenders, in this respect, be found out, they may be punished according to the nature of their Crime, and the innocent be protected and secured from the great Damage and hurt of the infamy of so vile and great a Crime, in such Methods as shall seem most agreeable to your Excellencys great Prudence and Justice. And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, shall ever pray, &c.

Morris Newinhuysen of the City of New-York, Marriner, being Sworn on the Holy Evangelists, saith, That being Master of the Sloop Constant Abigail, whereof John Van Brugh was Capt. he was taken in the said Sloop the 9th of November, 1706, about fifty Leagues of Scilly, by a French Privateer. That after he was taken, one John Thompson Boatswain of the Sloop, & one of the Frenchmen belonging to the Privateer, were together in the Cabbin of the Sloop, opening the Letters, in hopes to find a piece of Money, for he could not read. That the said Thompson called this Deponent to come into the Cabbin to him, where there was a Candle burning. That Thompson told this Deponent there was some Letters directed for France, which he desired the Deponent to read, because, perhaps, they might find some Bills of Exchange in them; whereupon the Deponent looking on the Letters he found some of them were not signed, and said, he believed there was Roguery in them, because they were not signed. That amongst those Letters there was one pretty near three sides, wherein was something mentioned, according to the best of this Deponents understanding, to this effect, That if the French Squadron that took Nevis, had come hither, they would have met with less Resistance. That the Letter being writ in French, and the Deponent understanding very little of that Language, he could not make out the whole sence of the Letter. That this Deponent told Thompson what he understood of the Letter, and said he believed there was more to the like effect, but Thompson telling him the Frenchmen were coming into the Cabbin, the said Thompson threw the Letters over board for fear there might be something in them that might be prejudicial to New-York. That the said Letter was directed to Rochell, but does not remember to whom. That the writing of the said Letter was like the handwriting of Capt. Benjamin Faneuil, which this Deponent has several times seen, before he saw the said Letter, but cannot say that he wrote it. That this Deponent likewise saw at the same time several other Letters directed to France, which seemed by the character to be writ by several, persons, two of which said Letters were signed by Piere Bontecou but that he read neither of the said Letters signed by the said Bontecou. This Deponent further saith, That by the said Capt. van Brugh's direction, he lookt over the Letters sent from this place, on board the said Sloop, for England, and put them into a Bag, and the Bag into the said van Brugh's Chest, but that he did not then perceive any Letters directed to France.—That this Deponent, about about a day or two after he saw the said van Brughen in France, he acquainted him with what he had discovered in the aforesaid letter. And further this Deponent saith not. M. VAN NIEWENHUYSEN

John van Brugh of the City of New-York, Marriner, being duly sworn upon the holy Evangelists, saith, That he sailed from this Port of New-York in the year 1706, Master of the Sloop Constant Abigail, That he was taken by a French Privateer about 50 Leagues from the Lands end of England, on or about the 9th day of November, 1706, Morris Niewenhuysen being at that time his Mate. That the first time the Deponent saw the said Morris Niewenhuysen, after they were carried to France, the said Niewenhuysen told him that one John Thompson (who was Boatswain of the said Sloop) found some Letters on board the said Sloop directed to France, under cover to some persons in England. That he likewise told him, the Contents of the said Letters were to this effect, That if the French would come to New-York, the place lay in disorder. That the said John Thompson likewise informed him to the same effect, but that not understanding French, he told this Deponent, he had his information from the said Morris Niewenhuysen. This Deponent further saith, That he then askt the said Morris Niewenhuysen if he knew whose writing the said Letters were? To which he answered, They were very like the handwriting of Capt. Faneuil, but there being no Name subscribed to the Letters, he could not certainly tell whose hand-writing they were. That the said Morris Niewenhuysen and John Thompson also told this Deponent, that they threw the Letters over board for fear they should fall into the hands of the French.

Report of the Committee of the Council

May it please your Excellency:

In obedience to your Excellency's Order in Council of the 12th instant, Referring to us the Examination of and into a Report lately spread about, concerning some Letter or Letters lately sent to France, giving an account of the condition of this place, We have taken the Deposition of John van Brugh and Maurice Niewenhuysen, which we have hereunto annixt, and whereto we refer.

We likewise Report to your Excellency, that we showed to the said Maurice Niewenhuysen a Letter writ in French, and a French Book, and that he understood very little or nothing of either of them.

Present—His Excellency Edward Viscount Cornbury.

Rip Van Dam, Thomas Wenham, } Esqrs. John Barbarie Adolph Phillipse, } Esqrs.

His Excellency and Council having considered the Depositions of Maurice Niewenhuysen and John van Brugh concerning a Letter writ from hence to France, and taken in the Sloop Constant Abigal, giving some account (as is said) of the condition of this place, do declare unanimously, That they do not think that there is any ground to suspect Capt. Faneuil of holding a Corresponding with France, nor to prosecute him here on the aforesaid Depositions.

By Order of His Excellency in Council,

GEO. CLARKE.

Petition for leave to print the proceedings and exhoneration

To His Excellency Edward Viscount Cornbury, Captain General of New-York, New-Jersey, and the Territories depending thereon in America, and Vice-Admiral of the same.

The humble Petition of some the French Protestant Refugees Inhabiting in the City of New-York, in behalf of themselves and the rest of like Circumstances in the Province.

Humbly Sheweth unto your Excellency,

That upon their former petition on this behalf, your Excellency was graciously pleased to search out the bottom and foundation of a certain false Rumour, in clandestine manner spread abroad, of some of the Inhabitants, Petitioners, having held and maintained a Correspondence with some of the Inhabitants of the kingdom of France, discovering the weekness of the strength and Fortifications of this Province, and how easily it might be made a Conquest to the French, her Majestys declared Enemies, (a Crime so detestible in its nature, and so much abhorred by your Excellency's Petitioners,) and having found the same to prove false and abortive, your Excellency was also graciously pleased to communicate the same to the honourable, the Gentlemen of Her Majestys Privy Council for this Province, in Council, for their Opinion thereupon; For which your Excellencys Petitioners do return to your Excellency their most humble and hearty Thanks.

But so it is, may it please your Excellency, that the Rumour thereof, by process of time, and other means, has, in a strange manner, overspread the whole Province. And altho' it be variously Reported, and with great Uncertainty, yet it is of pernicious Consequence to all the French Refugees in general, and disturbs their peace and quiet, and obstructs that affection and familiarity which they had formerly enjoyed with the other Inhabitants of this Province, to their just Grief and Resentment.

They therefore humbly Pray, May it please your Excellency, To give direction to the Secretary to let them have the Copys of all Minits and Entries made relating to that Search and Inquiry, with the Opinion of your Excellency and Council thereupon, or so much thereof as to your Excellency, in your great Prudence, shall seem meet, together with a Lisence to the Printer to imprint the same, in order to be published for the clearing and vindicating of their Reputation in this Respect. To his Excellency WILLIAM BURNET Esqr Captain General and Gouernor in Chiefe of the Provinces of New York New Jerses and Territories Thereon Depending in America and Vice Admiral of the same &^c^ In Council.—

The humble Petition of Several of the members of the French reformed Protestant Church in the City of New York in Behalf of themselves and others of their Brethren—

SHEWETH

That the said Church is unhappyly divided by the fatal consequences of a certain Instrument or writing made and agreed vpon the 20th of September last by the present Consistory thereof who vpon groundless assertions therein set forth haue discharged our worthy Minister Mr Louis Rou from the Exercise of his Ministerial function in the said Church and deprived him of all the benefits he should reap thereby—

That your Pet^{rs} and several others of their Brethren never consented to such their Proceedings tho some few were led into it by surprise being told by the said Consistory that the Act they offer'd them to sign was for the Peace of the said Church, and indeed they know no otherwise the contents thereof not Being Read to them, but on the reverse we look vpon all the steps they haue taken against the said Mr Rou to be without the least Colour of Justice whatsoever and contrary to the Rules and Discipline of the said Church of which your Pet^{rs} dont doubt but to make appear to your Excellency when the same shall haue the happyness To fall vnder your Excellencys consideration

That your Pet^{rs} are too sencebly touch^{d} with the disadvantages they lye under from the Misfortunes of their want of his Pastoral care ouer them whose Exemplary Piety and Instruction for upwards of fourteen years haue rendred him exceedingly estimable to all who knows him and which cant but be acknowledged even by those who are now the occasion of your Pet^{rs} giving Your Excellency this Trouble and, who side with his assistant Mr Moulinar, from whom both as a Brother and a Christian better offices might haue been expected then to haue found him the Pen man of such Instrument which are the Present motive of all our troubles that your Pet^{rs} begg leiuve to [say] to your Excellency that (if occasion should require) they can make appear to your Excellency that the first right to the ministry of the said Church, and euen to the Church itself is wholy lodged in the said Mr Rou as well as from the call of the said Consistory by the Act of General Assembly as by the Majority of the members of the said Church as appears by the Acts of opposition and protestation made in that behalf whereof a Copy is hereunto annexed.

That in order to put an End to these vnhappy Differences and that your Pet^{rs} may Enjoy those Spiritual Comforts they haue hitherto received from the Doctrine of the said Mr Rou your Petirs apply to your Excellency for relief in the premises and—

Therefore they most humbly pray you Excellency In your great Wisdom to take such measures for the protecting and reestablishing the said Mr Rou to the free and peaceable Exercise of his ministerial function in the said Church and to the benefit thereof as may seem most Expedients to your Excellency, and that your Excellency Endeavours therein may be successfull and your administratien long and prosperious, is the Earnest prayers of your Excellency Petitrs

An Act

Of Opposition to that which was past on Sunday last the 20th of September 1724 in the french reformed church of the City of New York, and signed afterwards by some members of the said Church.

We underwritten Members of the french Church in the City of New York, do hereby freely and sincerely declare that we disallow and reject that rash Act which was past on Sunday last the 20th of this month in church in the presence of some Heads of Families there met together and afterwards sign'd by some others, by virtue whereof they have pretended to dismiss & exclude Mr Lewis Rou our Minister out of his office, that is to say, as it was verbally intimated to him the next day, to acknowledge him no longer as a Minister of our church, to discharge him of all functions to suppress his Salary, and to pay him nothing thereof for the future &c. We also hereby declare that we in no ways whatsoever consent to those proceedings which are contrary to the Rules of our Discipline, to the word of God and Equity &c. that we oppose ourselves to the said Act, as much as lyes in our power and that notwithstanding the same, we acknowledge always the said Mr Rou for our true and lawful minister, who hath preached and officiated amongst us during more than fourteen years that he hath been here, with edification always leading an exemplary life. In witness whereof we have hereunto set our hands and names. Done in New York September 24th 1724.

I the vnderwritten Lewis Rou, Minister of ye holy Gospel in ye city of New York, do also protest in my particular against the Act of the Consistory here mentioned, as being an unjust, violent and irregular proceeding, done against all manner of form, without any lawful reason, without a sufficient and competent Authority, and even without having heard me; in short as being contrary to our discipline, and to the Word of God and equity. Done at New York the 31th of December 1724.

ORDER OF COUNCIL ON THE PRECEDING.

Read and ordered ye Consistory of this French Church be served with a copy and to make answer to the allegations this day fortnight.

ANSWER OF Mr MOULINARS

AND THE REST OF THE FRENCH CONSISTORY OF THE FRENCH PROTESTANT CHURCH IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK IN THE PROVINCE OF NEW YORK IN AMERICA.

May it Please Your Excellency and Honourable the Gent of his Majesties Councel for the same Province.

We the Minister and Consistory of the French Reformed Protestant Church in the City of New York being deeply sensible of the favour which Your Excellency and the Honourable Councel have been pleased to conferr on us in ordering that Mr Moulinar and the rest of the Consistory of said Church should be served with a Copy of the Peticon of severall of the Members of the said Church in behalf of themselves and others of their brethren as also a Certain instrument in writing under the hands of some French inhabitants Termed an act of opposition to which is subjoined a Protestacon under the hand of the Reverend Mr Lewis Rou against the act of the Consistory therein menconed as being an unjust violent and irregular proceeding Done against all manner of form without any Lawfull reason without a sufficient and Competent authority and even without having heard him, in short as being contrary to their Disciplin and word of God and Equity Done at New York the 31th of December 1724. signed Lewis Rou Minister of the ffrench Church.

Whereupon a fortnights time is granted to make answer to the allegacons thereof by the order of this Honourable Board We being now and at all times willing and Ready to give all dutiful respect and obedience to Your Excellencys orders in Council in return to this favour have perused and Considered of Your Excellencys said order and the Copys thereunto prefixed by protestacon saving and Reserving to our selves now and at all times the free use and Exercise of that liberty of Conscience belonging and appertaining to the French Reformed protestant Churches under the protection of the Crown of Great Britain and the Dominions thereunto belonging And the advantage and benefit of Exception to the manifold untruths uncertaintys Errours and imperfections in the same Peticon act of opposition and protestacon of the same Lewis Rou Conteined and not acknowledging any Jurisdiction in any Civil Court within this Province in and over the private affairs of our Church meerly Consistoriall and amongst ourselves in answer thereunto or unto so much thereof as we are advised is material for us to answer We do answer and Say That we are very heartily sorry for the unhappy differences which have lately happened amongst our Congregacon which is made up of Members altogether free and voluntary and under no manner of Compulsion or Restraint And we are humbly of Opinion that the measures We have lately taken to remove the Cause thereof has in a great measure given occasion of this Complaint now laid before Your Excellency in Council It is not unknown to your Excellency that the French Protestants in the Kingdom of ffrance now a Considerable body of people who for many years have subsisted in that Kingdom and have had used and enjoyed amongst themselves a particular and peculiar form of worship doctrin disciplin and Church Government without being maintained and Supported therein as the national Church which in ffrance is Roman Catholick but by way of Dispensation or toleracon so that it was not in their power even to Compell any of the ffrench Subjects to Submitt unto their disciplin and Government nor to restrain or punish any of their number who had submitted to their form of worship Doctrin Disciplin & Government who were minded to forsake them and alter their Profession untill Their King was pleased to Revoak the Edict commonly Called the Edict of Nantz; And those ffrench Protestants were by all nationall protestant Churches in Europe received and treated as if they had been a nationall Protestant Sister Church however depressed or oppressed by the violent Counsels and practices of the Roman Catholicks, In the Enjoyment of that liberty or rather dispensation or toleracon their method and rule was to make an agreement with their Pastors and Ministers (that is to say) each Consistory for every Particular Congregacon voluntarily and freely united together and entered into an agreement with their Pastor & Minister upon a Certain speciall mutuall Contract, which when either party failed in performance of their part of the Contract the other was at liberty and freed therefrom on the other part; and this no wayes regarded by the Civil Government, who took care only to preserve and Support the Nationall Church and that the protestants as well as others should submitt to and pay all Parochial Duties Such a Special Contract We made with Mr Rou before he came over from England to us, and since he has been amongst us whilst he behaved himself Conformable to his agreement and for his encouragement so to continue did come to a second agreement with him and did Considerably enlarge his annnal Salary from what it was by our first agreement to be paid him in Quarterly Payments, and as our Congregacon increased We did likewise send for another Minister and provide for his support & Maintenance without diminishing or impairing Mr Rou's Stipend; And this lasted untill We come to find Mr Rou to flagg in his Duty and broach innovacons amongst us Contrary to the said Contract and the Constitution of our Church and altho We often in a friendly manner Requested him to Return to his Duty and perform his Contract with the Consistory he still persisted notwithstanding to pursue his own humour and put us to Defiance with many opprobrious and vile expressions not fit to be Repeated; Whereupon We thought ourselves dissolved & discharged from our part of the Contract with respect to him and left him to provide for himself If Mr Rou will desert the Consistory when met and refuse or neglect to come when sent for, how are we to blame that he has not been heard, (as he is pleased to say) We are not unsensible of the methods which Mr Rou has taken to get a number of Subscriptions in his favour and his Contrivances to remove the Jurisdictions of this Matter to another Judicature nor of the heat and violence of his Temper, our foundacon is laid upon freedom and liberty of Conscience and is of such sort that if Mr Rou and his Subscribers are minded to sett up another ffrench Congregacon in New York by themselves or to go over to the Church of England as by Law Established or the presbeterian Profession, We do not pretend to have use or Exercise any Coersive power to restrain or punish them for it, much less to Compell them to Return to us, We should be much better pleased the peticoners should return to and Continue in our Commission and Christian fellowship of their own free will and Choice The ffrench protestants in City have for the Term and Space of upwards fourty years held used and enjoyed this freedom and liberty by the indulgency and favour of the Succeeding Governours Grounded upon their instructions for that purpose (as We have reason to believe)—They also passed the like Censure formerly against other ffrench Protestant Ministers for their offences which being particular to themselves the Government (for the time being) was never made privy to it by either party, and altho no doubt the then Governours Might have heard thereof yet did they never interpose nor meddle therein; We find that in St Peters time such Corruption of manners had crept into that set of mankind devoted to the preaching of the Gospell of Jesus Christ that in his first Epistle the 5th 2d & 3d v. Caution was given by this Apostle against this evil as it was likewise reproved under the law by the holy Prophet see the 34th of the Prophet Ezekiel v. 4.

We do not mean to affirm the act of Toleracon made in the first year of King William the 3d in favour of Dissenters in England to be in force in this Colony being advised to the Contrary however We begg leave humbly to offer that as we cannot be called dissenters from the Church of England as by law Established Yet as We contribute and pay towards the maintenance and Support of the Minister of Trinity Church which is Established in this City for the nationall worship of the Church of England as by law and are in all other respects ameanable to the laws of this province We humbly presume We are in great measure (from a parity of reason) intituled to all that favour here which is granted by that law to the dissenters in England. We cannot be forgetfull of that most Gracious Declaracon or saying of our most Gracious Soveraign Lord King George upon his accession to the Throne of Great Britain, "that the indulgence "and Toleracon Granted by law to Scrupulous Con-"sciences was by noways inconsistant with the civil and "Religious Constitution of the Kingdom." We are not indebted unto Mr Rou one farthing for all the time he hath served us And if any person or persons amongst us have done him any personall Injury the laws of England and of this Colony are open there are Courts of law and Justice and there are Deputys who may call them to account We therefore in all humble manner Do presume that Your Excellency and the honourable Board will Reject the Peticoners said Peticon and Complaint and retain a favourable Opinion of these Respondents who most humbly Pray &c.

The Committee being met in order to consider of the s^{d} affair of Mr Rou and the consistory of the French reformed Protestant Church of the City of New-York.

The question was put for the choice of a Chairman.

Then the Committee chose Doctor Colden for their Chairman who took his place at the Board accordingly.

Then was ordered to be Read the Petition of Mr Rou and the Answer of the said Consistory thereto which were Read, & all partys attending were call'd in They accordingly attending.

Mr. Murray Council for Mr. Rou mov'd that the question might be put to the Consistory whether they adher'd to the Rules and Discipline of their Church.

Mr Barbarie for ye Consistory reply'd that they cou'd give no answer to the question but left to their Council who was present to speak for them.

Then Mr Jamisson their Council went on with a long discourse in writing shewing the nature of Courts of Judicature and what matters are cognizable in the said Courts according to their several degrees after which he endeavour'd to shew that as Mr Rou had not comply'd wth ye Cons: they had a just right to discharge him and repeating what is set forth in their answer and jnsisting upon what they concluded with in their answer.

Concludes with praying ye Pett may be dismist

Then Mr Vernon open'd himself with desiring that the prayer of the Petion might be read wch was Then he observ'd as ye F: C: was not a National Church and yt theirfore that no Court in the Civil or Ec. had any Jurisdiction os it, and pray'd ye Petionr may be dismist.

After all partys were withdrawn Mr Harrison observ'd to the Board. [Mr Harrison's observations not found.]

May it please yor Excellency

In Obedience to your Excellencys Commands in Council referring to us the Petition of several members of the French congregation praying relief against a Power or authority which they say the present Consistory of the said Congregation have Illegally and unwarrantablie usurped over them and exercised against all Equity and Justice in depriving them of their Minister, As likewise the answer of the said Consistory to the said Petition.

We have considered of the same that Whereas the Respondents do not in their answer deny the Facts complain'd of but justifie them by their being done by the Authority of their Consistory and decline the Jurisdiction of any Civil Power over them and the Council for the said Respondents did in their pleadings before us call the said Consistory a Court who's Jurisdiction is not Subject to any Power either Civil or Ecclesiastick within this Province. And Whereas all Courts within this Province that we know derive their Authority from his Majesty and are immediately under the Inspection of your Excellency and this his Majestys Council of this Province.

We are therefore humbly of opinion that the said Respondents be ordered to appear and shew by what authority they are a Court and have suspended their minister which is submitted to your Excellency by

The Committee being met upon the affairs of Mr Rou and the French Church

Doctor Colden observ'd to the Board that as he had already been Chairman upon that affair, thereupon desired they would be pleased to put the Question for a new Choice

Whereupon the Question was put and Doctor Colden chose Chairman

Then it was unanimously resolved that the Council for the Respondents should make Answer to the following Questions viz[t]

1st By what Authority they are a Court.

2[dly] By what Authority they suspended their minister.

Which are agreeable to a Report made to his Excellency in Council and Confirm'd by that Board y[e] 18th of February last.

Then all the partys attending without were called in.

The Council appearing for the Respondants—

The Report and Order of the Council thereupon of the 18th of February last were Read—

Then the Chairman observ'd to the Council for y[e] Respondants that the Board expected and required they should answer and Shew by what authority they are a Court and by what authority they suspended their minister.

M[r] Jamison Replyd they were no Court neither had they any coercive Power of suspending their Minister.

The Chairman required them to answer from whence they deriv'd y[e] Power.

M[r] Jamison By y[e] Indulgence of the Government and own'd they were not Independent of the Government here.

The Chairman Insisted that it was the pleasure of the Board they should shew that Indulgence by which they had authority to suspend their Minister and required them to shew it Immediately.

M[r] Jamison Not by any Commission but by the Sufferance and Tolleration of the Government.

M[r] Barbarie Say'd they discharged him, but did not Shew by what authority or Power.

The Chairman observ'd to them that he thought it very easy for them to shew their Power if they had any and expected their answer to it jmmediately.

Mr Vernon Say'd that by the same Power they had to call a Minister they had to suspend their Minister.

The Ch: Man jnsisted they should shew it.

Mr Jamison Sayd yt when their Minister refuses to serve them according to Contract and the Rules and Discipline of the French Churches in Fran. they may suspend him and have Power by the Toleration of ye Governmt.

The Chairman Desired them to shew that Power and whether they had acted according to the discipline of ye French Church.

Mr Jamison Repeated by ye Indulgence of ye Government.

Mr Harison desired them to Shew yt Indulgence whether it was by act of Parliament, whether by usage or custom or according the Rules and Discipline of the French Churches in France.

Mr Jamison—Say'd they were under the jnspection of the Governmt that they are no Court but only an Assembly of men and have no greater Power or Authority than a Master over his Family or a School Master over his Scholar and were accountable to the Governmt for what they should act and doe.

That they have ye same Power to turn him out as to take him in.

The Chairman observed to them yt they had not yet answer'd ye question so often required of them which obliged him to repeat the same. To know by what authority they have suspended their minister.

Mr Jamison By usage.

Chairman Shew that usage.

Mr Barbarie Say'd they had nothing but usage or Custom that when they discharged any of their Ministers they did not draw up any thing in writing but paid him his wages and discharged him and jnstanced one Monsr Daille and Laborie.

NB. This has been observ'd to by ye Pet^{r} that those Gent. were not discharg'd from their Funtions in ye French Church.

The partys withdrew—

The partys ordered to come in—

The Respondents were gone, yet the Ch. M. mentioned to ye other side that the Board had considered that ye Respond^{ts} cou'd not shew any authority for suspending their Minister, and shou'd report it accordingly.

Then adjourn'd till morrow at 3 in ye afternon at Bonticow in order to draw a Report.

May it please your Excellency

In obedience to your Excellencys order in Council of the 18th of February last, The Respondents to the Peticon of several of the Members of the French Protestant Congregation, did appear before us did disclaim all Authority of a Court or any Coersive Power but did affirm that they had a power to suspend their Minister, and being required to show by what Authority they did exercise the said Power, whether by Custom usage discipline of their Church or any other Authority, They could not shew any such Custom usage Permission discipline or Authority. We are therefore of Opinion that they have no such Authority; But in regard to the French Protestant Church which has suffered so much and is at this time suffering in France on Account of their Religion, and in regard to the great Numbers of the French Congregation that live in good repute and credit in this place. We are of Opinion that the said Congregation be admonished, that every person in it doe all in his Power to preserve peace and unanimity in their Congregation, for this End that they Endeavour to bring this present unhappy Difference to an amicable conclusion.

That if this desireable End cannot be Effected the partys who shall think themselves agriev'd ought to apply to the Courts of Justice in this Government for Redress, with that meekness and charity to each other which may Encourage the Government to continue towards them the generous protection under which they have been long easy, and that there may be no reason now to think that they grow wanton under the abundance of Liberty and Plenty which they Enjoy here, and that the Ministers of the French Congregation who shall officiate next Sunday be ordered to Read Publickly the said Opinion and Admonition jmmediately after Divine Service in the forenoon, which is submitted to your Excellency by

By order of the Committee

Mr. Lewis Rou's Third Memorial,*

Containing some short Remarks upon the Answer of the Gentlemen of the French Consistory, to the Petition presented to his Excellency in Council, by several Heads of Families of the French Church in New-York.

It is impossible to take notice of all the Absurdities, Untruths, Mistakes, Shifts, Evasions and things foreign to the purpose, with the other Defects and Imperfections which are obvious in the Answer made by Mr. Moulinars and the rest of his Consistory to the Petition presented to his Excellency and the honourable Council of this Province, by several Heads of families of our Church. Whoever would undertake to answer every thing exactly which that long Writing containeth, must compose a large Volume, and in so doing, would only draw this matter needlessly into length, which is perhaps the design of the Answerers. For which Reason it will be sufficient to make some particular observations.

The 1st, and principal is, That all what they alledge in favour of their Rights and extraordinary Priviledges, and all that they object against me for to blacken me, and misrepresent me to his Excellency and the Council, all the venomous strokes scattered here and there in their Answer; all this, I say, is nothing to the purpose, and doth not in the least relate to the true Point in dispute between us; all this doth in no sort justify their irregular and unjust Proceeding against me, nor shew how they have been sufficiently authorized, or what

* From Doc. Hist. N. Y., Vol. III., pp. 1160 to 1177, 8vo ed.

This memorial and the subjoined papers are extracts from a pamphlet without title, of 34 pages, small 4to, printed by Wm. Bradford in New York, now in the State Library.

The foregoing papers and documents were printed from the MSS. in the Secretary of State's office. Both appear in the 3d volume of the Documentary History of N. Y., but in different parts of that volume.

Reason and lawful Power they had to turn me out of my office, and to refuse to pay me my Salary. In short, all this doth not at all, or very little concern the Petition presented by the heads of Families to the Governour in Council, nor the acts of Opposition and Protestation annexed to it; nor even that invidious Act which those Gentlemen passed in the Consistory against me, on the 20th of September last.

Since then the Artifice of the Answerers hath been to turn off the attention of his Excellency and his Council from the true state of the Question, to run upon considerations foreign and remote from the Subject, and into Cavils on matters which have not given occasion to our last Difference; I think therefore that it is proper and necessary to bring them back to an enquiry into the matter of Fact itself, which we are about, and which is expressed in the Petition of the heads of Families of our Church, and in the two Papers thereto annexed. This Petition was presented on account of a certain Instrument passed and signed against me, on the 20th of last September, and on account of the unhappy Consequences, which it hath since had with Relation to our Church. Now as this Instrument, according to the Copy which it hath been thought fit to give me of it, containeth the Reasons and Motives which have engaged the present Consistory to undertake to turn me out of my office, and to take all the Steps which those Gentlemen have taken in pursuance thereof; it would have been right to have produced this Instrument, such as it is, genuin or not, before his Excellency and the honourable Council, that they might the better judge of the bottom of the Dispute, and not suffer themselves to be amused by the subtle Evasions of the Answerers, who will often attempt to impose upon them, if they are not upon their guard, as it may be expected from persons of their Wisdom and Justice.

As this hath not yet been done, and is necessary to explain thro'ly, I desire earnestly, & before anything else, that this Instrument may be produced, with the Answers that I have already prepared, and put into the hands of Mr Alexander my Attorney.

2. My second observation is on what they alledge, p. 2, in order to declare the Jurisdiction of his Excellency and the Council, in this affair, or to divert them from taking the trouble of interposing & intermeddling in our Differences, That "they acknowledge no Jurisdiction in "any Civil Court within this Province, over the private "Affairs of their Church, merely Consistorial, and "amongst themselves, &c." Indeed! this is astonishing, and what could not have been expected. Here are, if I am not mistaken, the true Principles of the Independents, (b) so expressly condemned in our Discipline of France (See among the Observations upon the 6th Chap. the Regulation, made at the Synod of Clarenton, in 1644, against those Sectaries, pag. 199 and 200, of the Editio in duocim. & p. 118. in 4to) and Tom. 2. in folio, p. 467.

Here is a Principle capable of throwing us into Confusion and Disorder, as we see already by experience. Here is what openeth a door to all sorts of Irregularities and Extravagancies, and absolutely takes away all means of applying a Remedy. Here is a Maxim, not only very prejudicial to God's Church, but likewise very dangerous to the State, since it is easie to conceive the dreadful Consequences that will follow from it, if it took place. In fine, Here is a Principle which makes the Lot and Condition of a Minister persecuted among us, and in these Countries not only unhappy and dangerous, but even desperate, and without Relief. To Refute this abominable Principle, and to shew how false it is, and how contrary to the true Principles of Religion and the Constitution of our Churches, I need only Refer to the (b) Yea, of the Papists themselves, see Fascicul, Epist. pag. 181 et 30. and Syn. Purior. Theol. p. m. 754, n. 21, &c., and Tur. Theol. Elen. T. 3, p. 353. 4. n. 2.

46 Article of the first Chapter of our Discipline, compared with the 39 & 40 Articles of our Confession of Faith, & especially with all our Books of Divinity, as for instance, that of Mr Pictet, Professor at Geneva, see his 2d Tom. p. 476, 477, 488, where he treats this Question at length. Here also we may add the Scripture itself, see Rom. 13. v. 1, 2. 1 Pet. 2, 13, 14, 15, etc.

My Third Observation is not what they are continually alledging concerning their Freedom and Liberty Saving and Reserving to our selves now and at all times, the free use and exercise of that Liberty of Conscience belonging and appertaining to the French Reformed Churches, &c. Our Congregation which is made up of Members altogether free and voluntary, and under no manner of Compulsion and Restraint, &c., p. 2. Our Foundation is laid upon Freedom and Liberty of Conscience, &c. pag. 4. But what? Is not this Privilege of Freedom and Liberty which they brag of, as much for Us as for Them? Have not we the same Right with them? And if 20 or 30 Persons, as they are, have a Title to it, Hath not the rest of the Church, which makes up, by much, the Majority, the same Title, with more Reason? And why then would they deprive the others of it? Why would they make use of that Liberty, which they enjoy only by the Bounty and Permission of the Government, under which we live, to oppress their Ministers and Brothers, without Cause, to the great Scandal of the Inhabitants of different nations who surround us, and even of the Jews, who shew more humanity, in this Case, than they? Why will they make use of it, to give the Law to the whole Church, and to govern it Arbitrarily, as if they were Lords over God's Heritage? See their passage out of the first Epistle St. Peter, Chap. 5. v. 3. Why did they make use of it to shut up the Church, as they did, on the 23d of September last, and to deny me the Liberty of performing there the ordinary Service of Prayer, and to deny the rest of the People the Liberty of assembling themselves there? Why do they make use of it still, with Obstinacy, to deprive above sixty or eighty Families, who think themselves edified by my ministry, to deprive them, I say, of the Instructions and spiritual Comforts, and, in short, of all the Service of a Minister, whose Return they demand, and who belongs to them, as well as to the others, and whom they can Re-estate when they please? I know these gentlemen are free, but only let them take care not to use their Liberty for a Cloak of Maliciousness. It is St. Peter to whom they refer me, I don't know why, who gives them this warning, see 1 Epist. ch. 2. v. 16.

4. Among their pretences to Liberty and Freedom, they lay a stress particularly on this, That "in the "enjoyment of that Liberty, or rather dispensation or "Toleration, their method and Rule (meaning the French "Refugees) was to make an Agreement with their Pas- "tors and Ministers (that is to say) each Consistory for "every particular Congregation, voluntarily and freely "united together, and entred into an Agreement with "their Pastor and Minister upon a certain special mutual "Contract, which when either Party failed in Per- "formance of their part of that Contract, the other was "was at Liberty, and freed there-from on the other "other part, and this no ways regarded by the Civil "Government, who took care only, &c."

This is what I absolutely deny, and what they cannot prove. There is not one word said of it in any of the Agreements or Contracts which have been made with me and Mr. Moulinars, nor in those of any of our Churches with their Ministers. If, however they pretend that such a Clause ought to be pre-supposed, I say, that this can't be, unless with such large Restrictions and Limitations as would be no ways of Service to them in the Affair between us. The first of these Limitations is, That if such a Principle ought to be admitted in some sort, it must be supposed likewise, that there is a competent and unsuspected Judge, who may determine between the two Parties, which hath failed and neglected to perform their part of the Contract; For if it is left to each Party to have a Right to decide who is in the Wrong, and so be both Judge and Party in their own Cause, this will bring Confusion and Disorder into the Church, and abolish that Justice and Equity which ought to be the Rule of all Agreements.

The second Limitation, is That in case of failure in either Party, regard should be had to the nature and circumstances of such Failure, to judge if they are of sufficient Importance to deserve, that a breach of Contract should follow. For if Pretence is taken from the least failure, or any sort of failure whatsoever, to break a Bargain made between Persons who are bound to one another forever thereby, at this rate, (taking every thing in the utmost strictness) we should open the Door to all sorts of Breaches: All Marriages will be dissolved, all Engagements between Parents and Children, and between Masters & Servants, would be annulled; and to confine my self to the subject which we are upon, there would not be one Minister who could remain six Months peaceably in his Church. For either the Church might complain that the Minister had failed in his Duty, or the Minister might alledge, that the Church had not furnished him with necessaries, or had failed either in Respect or Affection, or Obedience or Submission to him, or had acted contrary to some Article of the Contract made between them, or to some point of Discipline which the Church was engaged to observe, as well as he, and so on, &c. (for I have now touch'd upon the present Case) And hereupon each of the Parties might imagine themselves respectively to have a Right to annul their Bargain, and to provide themselves otherwise; whence a Thousand ill Consequences would follow, easie to be imagined, and very prejudicial to the Quiet, Peace, Edification and Preservation of the Church.

Besides, we might by this means abolish the Exercise of Charity, of Christian Toleration, of mutual Forbearance, and of the Forgiveness of Injuries and Faults, &c. We might thus introduce the manner of Turks and Barbarians, and even worse, into all Christian Churches. I should think it would be much better to follow herein charitable Counsels, and to remember what the Apostle St. James tells us, That he shall have Judgment without Mercy, that hath shewed no Mercy, ch. 2. v. 13.

The Third and last Restriction or Limitation which must be applyed to the Principle here advanced by the Answerers, is, That the Cognizance of all these Differences, which often have an Influence on Civil and Temporal Concerns belongeth either to Ecclesiastical Judges, or to Civil and Lay Judges. So that where the Ecclesiastical Judges, to whom generally the Determination belongeth, are too remote, as hath been often said upon this occasion, the Cognizance thereof naturally devolveth upon the Civil and Lay Judges, who have likewise some Right, Power and Inspection over Ecclesiastical Affairs, according to our Discipline and Books of Divinity, as appears by the Passages which I have already cited. And how then can the Answerers tell us, That this is no way regarded by the Civil Government? They will excuse me if I tell them, that they do not well understand the matter.

5. And now, what shall I answer to so many loose, general and indetermined Accusations and Reproaches, with which they fill up their Answers against me? 'Tis their part to explain themselves more fully herein, and to specifie the particular Facts; for otherwise it is impossible for me to justifie myself as my Lawyers inform me. For instance, they insinuate, pag. 4 That I have not performed my Engagement, and that I flaged in my Duty. But it belongs to them to shew in what I have failed in performance of our Agreements: I have endeavored to fulfill them according to my weak Ability, and if every thing were examined in a strict equitable sence, I may one day let them see, that I have done more than I had obliged myself to do, as well by the first as by the third of our Agreements, for as to the second, it relates only to the Salary.

They say, I have broached Innovations amongst them, contrary to the said Contract and the Constitution of our Church. But it belongs to them to shew what these Innovations are, and how they are contrary either to my Engagements, or to the Constitution of our Churches, or to the Principles received among us, and whether their dear Moulinars may not be as much, or more justly accused of them than I.

They say, That I have put them at Defiance, with many opprobrious and vile Expressions, &c. But it belongs to them to make good Proofs of the Facts, and by credible Witnesses. And besides, who has ever heard that a Minister was deposed, and the payment of his Salary refused him, on account of ill grounded Suspicions, or words hastily spoken, and perhaps wrongfully reported, and to which themselves may have given just occasion? Don't they fall thereby under the Censure which God hath declared by the Prophet Isaiah against those that make a Man an offender for a Word, and lay a snare for him that Reproveth in the Gate, and turn aside the Just for a thing of Nought?—ch. 29, v. 21.

In order to support these fine Suspicions, which, without Reason, they have taken of me, and the Defiance to which (they say) I have put them, they would insinuate, as it seems, "That I and my Subscribers are minded to set up another French Congregation in New-York by ourselves, or to go over to the Church of England, as by Law Established, or the Presbyterian - - - - Profession [Here is something which their Malice hath thought of, but they have not thought fit to express it.] And all this they advance or suggest without ground and against this some of our Subscribers have already prepared an authentic Declaration. I find them very extraordinary in telling us, That in such case they do not pretend to have, use or exercise any Coercive Power to Restrain or Punish us for it, much less to Compel us to Return to them, &c. We know that very well, and we think it the interest of the English, both Episcopalians and Presbyterians to make their Reflections hereupon, and to judge of the Impertinence and Silliness of such an Allegation.

But they have still more Assurance when they tell us, That they are not insensible of the Methods I have taken to get a number of Subscriptions in my favour. It was not possible to take a fairer and more direct Method than I have done, to make all the members of the Church explain themselves as fully as I could upon the Important Affair now in question. But these Gentlemen ought to blush at the unworthy and fraudulent manner which they have used to bring in People to sign against me, making them believe that it was for the peace and good of the Church; and thus abusing the sacred name of Peace, and covering themselves with the Cloak of Hypocrisie, without shewing this poor People, or at least without reading to several of them the Writing which they would have them sign.

"They were not ignorant either (they say) of my Con"trivances to remove the Jurisdiction of this matter to "another Judicature." What is this Jurisdiction that I would decline? If they mean their own, they are in the right of it, and I am not in the wrong, since they are my Adverse Party, and I hope no body will blame me for this. What is that other Judicature whither I would carry the affair? One may see plainly that they have here his Excellency in view, who cannot be obliged to them for thus disputing his Right of Judicature. For why shall not any one apply to him, in case the affair be proper for him to take notice of? And why should not

I apply myself to him, if there is occasion, because it may be thought he has entertain'd some favourable Dispositions towards me? especially since I ask him no Favour, but only Justice?

They Reproach me afterwards, being prompted by their own Passion and Hatred against me, with having Heat, and a violent Temper; I will not make any Apology for my own Temper, which I think needless, and indecent in any man to do. But I advise them rather to look back upon themselves, and consider their own Faults more than those of their Neighbours, that they may not incur the Censure which our Saviour Jesus Christ pronounceth in the Gospel against all proud Reprovers of others. Math. 7., 3, 4, 5.

They boast p. 5. That they also passed the like Censure formerly against other French Protestant Ministers for their offences, which being particular to themselves the Government for the time being was never made privy to it, &c., and although the then Governours might have heard thereof, yet did they never interpose or meddle therein, &c. There is a great deal of difference, with their leave, between these Cases and the present one. And on this occasion many things might be observed, which would not do them a great deal of honour, and which would revive some scandalous particulars, which it is convenient for them, should remain buried in oblivion; wherefore they would have done better to have said nothing of it, since likewise it hath nothing in common with the Affair we are now upon. For my part, I shall not trouble my self with what they have done with relation to others, I believe they never did any thing that was right with their Ministers, chiefly when they have been at variance with them. I know they have always been at war with them, to begin from the time Mr. Daille; and that the late Mr. Peiret, who was a worthy Minister, lived in torment among them, as some very credible Persons who were his friends, have assured me; I know that they have. put their Ministers out, and that they always pretended to a Power to do it, and that they will always attempt it, as often as the Fancy takes them. But the time is come, when they must learn, that they have not this Power and Authority, according, to our Discipline, and that as for me, (Saving always his Majesty's Authority over me, who am his Naturalized Subject) I depend only in Spirituals on the Synod of the Walloon Churches of Holland, who alone can suspend or deprive me. If Governours formerly have not interposed or intermeddled in their Affairs, it was, I suppose, because no body applyed to them to represent their Complaints and Grievances, and perhaps, because no person belonging to the Church, concerned or declared themselves in favour of the Ministers whom they would speak of. But that is not the Case at present, since there is a Majority of the Church, who have declared themselves in my favour, or who desire earnestly that I may be Re-established, and who do not approve what the Consistory hath done.

What do they mean by those Passages of St. Peter and Ezekiel, which they quote with an affectation of Piety, tho' at the same time they discover an insolent Contempt and bitter Malice against all the Body of the Ministers of Jesus Christ, devoted to the preaching of his holy Gospel? whom they call that set of Mankind devoted, &c. As for the passage of St. Peter (1 Epist. ch. 5. v. 2, 3.) which instructs us all in our duty, and ought to make us think with humility of our own weaknesses and failings, their malicious Reflections will not hinder us Ministers from finding our Comfort in this Passage, while we find nothing in it, but what we study to do by the grace of God, according to our ability, and what we incessantly ask of him in our prayers. As to the passage of the Prophet Ezekiel, (if I did not fear to lay open in too strong a light the Infirmities of some of my flock, over which it is proper to draw a vail) I could call out of the Crowd these Diseased Sheep, whom I have strengthened, and the broken whom I have bound up, &c. (Ezek. 34. v. 4.) And who can testifie whether this Passage hath been well applyed by them; or no; But I should be imprudent in glorying, 2 Cor. XII. 11. tho' I am compell'd in my defence, it is better to wait for that time, when, if any of us have done well, every man shall have praise of God, 1 Cor. 4. 5. Instead of stopping at that verse of Ezekiel, and at the first part of the Chapter, where they have maliciously been searching, wherewithal to sting their Minister, and wherein M: . . . . . turns his own Accuser, they had better have read on what follows from the 16th & 17th verses, to the 22d. inclusive, and to take good heed to what God saith by his Prophet, now no longer to bad Shepherds, but to bad Sheep, to Sheep that rebel, that will not bear Teaching, and that are stubborn and headstrong, that are fat and strong, &c. v. 16. confer Amos 4. v. 1. Which Characters are so well described by the Prophet, that one would think that he had carried his Views as far as to our Times and Circumstances.

While they cite these passages, they talk of the Corruption of Manners which had crept into that set of Mankind devoted to the preaching of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. But not to speak of the Clergy, I say, that this general Complaint of the Corruption of Manners, cannot be better applyed than to the horrible Scandals which we have seen all along break out in this Church, and to the Disorders, Divisions, and other sins, against which I have so often cryed aloud, Esa. 58. 1. and which have, no doubt, drawn upon her the displeasure of God Almighty, through which she is now threatened with an entire Ruin and Dissipation, or at least with an unhappy Schism and Rent.

To obtain the favour of the English, they begg leave humbly to offer (c) that they cannot be called Dissenters from the Church of England, as by Law established.

(c) Fistula dulce canit volucrem dum decipit auceps.

But who, do they think to impose upon by this empty Compliment, so meanly expressed? Not surely those of the English, who are Affectionate to their own Church, and who cannot be so easily catched. The Society and all the Episcopal Ministers hereabouts know them too well, to suffer themselves to be blinded by such smooth Expressions. They have always been Enemys of the Church of England as by Law established, they have always railed at her Liturgy, her Service, her Church Government, and her Ceremonies. It is long ago that the late Bishop of London, Doctor Henry Compton conveyed his Complaints to them on this subject, by the Consistory of the Walloon Church in London, for that they shewed themselves worse than the Dissenters in England themselves. In opposition to this National Church they have entertained and fomented for several years a scandalous schism at New-Rochel, where the incapacity of providing for a Minister, obliged the Inhabitants to establish an Episcopal Church, thro' the Bounty and Protection of the Society in England, and they would still support this schism, if their M . . . . was not taken up in the Custody of our Church, of which he keeps the keys, in order to keep me out unjustly. In short, they have always looked upon my Inclination, Esteem and Respect for the Church of England as a Crime in me. They have conceived at length such Mistrust and Suspicion thereof, that they have not been able to dissemble it in the last Meeting of the heads of Families, on the 20th of September, so that it is I, and several of my Subscribers who have a Right to say, that We cannot be called Dissenters from the Church of England, no more than were our Ministers in France, and all the wisest and most moderate among the Refugees in England, and all over the Protestant world.

They say at last, That they are not indebted unto me one Farthing for all the time that I have served them. But this must be examined and enquired into in due time. In the mean while, I give them notice, that they own me One Quarters Salary, which is past, and that at Easter they will owe me Two. If I have not served them during all this time, it is they who have hindred my doing it, by discharging me from my Functions, as they have done, and which they now dissemble through deep Malice. They add to this, "That if any Person or Persons amongst them have "done me any personal Injury, the Laws of England "and of this Colony are open, and that there are "Courts of Law and Justice, and that there are "Deputies, who may call them to account." Tis well, I am glad to hear it, I accept their Invitation, and I am of opinion, according to their advice, if I cannot obtain satisfaction otherways, to call them into Court, on account of the Injustice and Injury which they do me, and particularly of that which their Treasurer Mr. Barberie doth me, in refusing me my payment, when at the same time he has Money of mine in his hands: and besides of that which Mr. Moulinars doth me, in detaining my Church from me, by keeping the keys and by taking possession of my place, which is a remarkable Usurpation, for which I will demand Restitution and Reparation from him.

They end with signifying, "They presume that his Excellency and the Honourable Board will Reject the Petitioners said Petition and Complaint, &c. But we hope that this honourable Body will act otherwise, and that in their great Prudence they will judge better than we can, that our Request is both just, lawful and well grounded.

LEWIS ROU,
Minister of the French Church.

New York, Febr. 18. 1724, 5.

Postscript, containing some further Observations
On the same Answer of Mr. Moulinars.

Speaking of the French Protestants in the Kingdom of France, they say, "So that it was not in their Power

" ever to Compel any of the French Subjects to submit " unto their Discipline and Government, nor to Restrain " or Punish any of their Number who had submitted to " their Form of Worship, Doctrine, Discipline and " Government, who were minded to forsake them, and " alter their Profession, &c.

I don't know to what purpose, nor to what end they tell us all this, neither do I know what Consequence they will draw from it, nor what Advantage they pretend to get by it, this seeming rather to be against themselves, since they pretend now to a Power to Compel me and to Force me to sign what they will, against all Reason and Equity.

But leaving there what they mean by it, I say, that this is not true. Let any one read the Preface of our Discipline, and look on the 16, 17, and 31, 32 Articles of the 5th Chapter of the same, besides a great many others, and he'll see what great Power our Protestants had in France, to Compel and Restrain or Punish any of their Number, who had submitted to their form of Worship, &c. by means of their Ecclesiastical Censures, Excommunication, Suspension, &c.

Speaking of me, they say, "Such Contract we made " with Mr. Rou &c. and since he has been amongst us, " whilst he behaved himself conformable to his Agree- " ment, and for his Encouragement so to continue, did " come to a second Agreement, &c." Here they would insinuate that I have not always performed my Agreement, and that there has been one time when I behaved myself conformable to it, and another time when I did not so. But this is entirely false; I have always performed my agreement in the same manner, and there has been but little difference: So that if I have failed in the Performance of it in those last times, it must be supposed and said, that I have also failed in the beginning, and that, if I have behaved my self conformable to it at one time, viz. in the beginning, the same must be said of the last times with more reason. They have also been always very well satisfied of my Service in the Church when they had no particular occasion of Anger against me; And they have shewn to all People in the Town a great satisfaction of it, &c. So that it is their Passion and their Fancy that makes them content or discontent about that, without reason in the last point, and we may apply to them what Horace says of himself, Ep. I. lib. I.

> Rides: quid, mea quum pugnat sententia secum;
> Quod petiit spernit; repetit quod nuper omisit:
> Æstuat, et vitæ disconvenit ordine toto,
> Diruit, ædificat, mutat quadrata rotundis?

"And as our Congregation encreased, we did likewise "send for another Minister, &c. pag. 3.

Their Congregation was not Increased, but rather diminished when they sent for another Minister, but their ill Humour and Malice against me was much increased at that time, by some particular occasions that we know; they sent for this Minister only to vex me, and plague me, as it appears, and Brigadier Hunter, who saw this very well, warned and foretold Mr. D. L. of all the Divisions and Troubles that we now see in our Church.

And this lasted until we came to find Mr. Rou to flag in his Duty &c. pag. 4. Since when they have found me to flagg in my Duty? if you will believe me, it is since this Governour has been here, and they have found that he did me the honour of granting me part in his friendship and Familiarity tho' I have no less performed my Duty in preaching since that time, than I did before; So that it is their Malice, Envy and Jealousie that has made them find out what they could not see otherwise. Observe the Circumstances and the Context of their Answer in this place, and you'll find it as I say.

And altho' we often in a friendly manner requested him to Return to his Duty and perform his Contract, &c. p. 4.

They have never requested me any thing in a friendly manner towards my Duty, and they had no occasion nor reason of doing it, but they have often scoled, railed and grumbled in an unfriendly manner about a few Sermons, when they had some particular occasions of being angry or fretful against me. What they say here, is meer Malice and Hypocrisy.

6. He still persisted notwithstanding to pursue his own humour, &c. p. 4. What humour, or whose humour must I pursue then, if I have not the liberty of my own, as they seem to pretend? Must I follow or pursue their Humour, or those of the Normands, of the Picards, of the Rochelers, of the Poitevins, of the Languedocians, of the Xaintongers, of the Gascons, of the Bretoons, of the Angoumoisins, of the Bearnois, or of the Dauphinois? But I have never been in these Provinces, and I find a great many faults in their Inhabitants, so that I think it better for me to pursue my own Humour, that is to say, those of a right Frenchman of no Province at all, but who was born in Holland and Naturalized an *English-man.

7. "If Mr. Rou will desert the Consistory, when met, "and refuse to come, when sent for, how are we to blame "that he has not been heard (as he is pleased to say) p. 4. I have already answered to this Allegation at large, in my second Memorial, and that is the reason why I have said nothing of it in this Reply. I shall only add here, That since they have found the way to my House, after they had passed this unjust sentence against me (of which I complain) to declare it to me in my face, why did they not take the same Method before they passed the same, to read it to me, or to send me,

* This fact, that he was not a Frenchman born, and the other fact, that Mr. Rou expressly says, "I depend only in Spirituals on the Synod of the Walloon Churches of Holland who alone can suspend or deprive me," and consequently, not on the French or Geneva churches, was probably at the root of these unfortunate "difficulties."

at least, those Papers which they had prepared to Condemn me, in order that I might have been able to defend myself, &c. ?

"They cannot be forgetful (they say afterwards) "of "that most gracious Declaration or Saying of our most "Sovereign Lord King George upon his Accession to the "Throne of Great Britain, That the Indulgence and "Toleration granted by Law to Scrupulous Consciences "was no ways inconsistent with the Civil & Religious "Constitution of the Kingdom, &c." What shall I answer to this impertinent and Sycophantick Discourse ?

Vltra sauromatas fugere hinc libet et glacialem Oceanum, &c. Juven. sat. 2.

Pray, What has the Indulgence and Toleration granted by Law to Scrupulous Consciences in common, with the Persecution and Oppression of which I add my Subscribers complain ? What Scruple of Conscience can perswade them to depose or deprive their own Minister, and to take away his Living, without Reason, without the least cause or colour of Justice, for a Bickering, for a thing of nought, and that without the Authority and Power they should have for what they do ? What scrupulous Conscience can perswade them to deprive the Congregation who think (as I have said) themselves Edified by my Ministry, of the Pastoral Cares and Service of a Minister who belongs to them, whom they have called here from Europe, and have made perpetual Pastor of the Church ? We know that the Indulgence and Toleration granted by Law to scrupulous Consciences, is no ways inconsistent with the Civil and Religious Constitution of the Kingdom. But we know at the same time, that nothing is more inconsistent with the Civil and Religious Constitution of the Kingdom than Persecution, Oppression, Violence, Tyranny, Injustice, Uncharity, Usurpation of others rights, &c. of all which they given a scandalous Example, in his Majesty's Dominions not to be suffer'd ; & we do therefore, in all humble manner presume, That if our most gracious King GEORGE could hear of it, he would not be much obliged to them for thus their intermeddling with his sacred Majesty, and mis-using his most gracious Declaration upon his accession to the Throne of Great Britain, in order to support & authorize their Barbarous Proceedings, and thus for giving a just cause of Complaining of the same to his Reformed Subjects, or perhaps an occasion to his Enemies and Adversaries of eluding or retorting the Complaints and Christian Representations He has been pleased to make, in favour of other Protestants, to some Popish Princes, upon the like Matters.

The last Discourse presented to the Consistory from Mr. Rou's part, in order for an amicable Agreement.

As much as I can apprehend by the Answer which the Gentlemen of the Consistory have lately given to the Deputies who presented themselves before them, on my behalf, as well as on behalf of our Flock (which answer has been only verbally communicated to me, the Consistory not having thought fit to give it in writing, as in reason and justice they ought to have done) it appears to me, That though these gentlemen have so expresly profess'd their Disposition to Peace, and to enter into an Amicable Agreement about our Differences yet they will make none at all, except upon such Conditions as have been disputed already so much these six Months past, and upon which we shall always dispute, till there comes a Decision to put an end to these Debates.

These Conditions (according to what has been reported to me) are, 1st. That before anything else, I shall acknowledge the Elders lately elected in our Church, to be duly and lawfully elected.

2dly. That I shall subscribe the Act of their Confirmation or Reception incerted in the Registers.

3dly. That I shall likewise Promise to hold myself inviolably attached or addict to the Discipline and Constitution of our Churches.

4thly. That I shall likewise promise to submit my self, for the future, on the Decisions of the Consistory.

To which they have added, for the 5*th Article*, That if I would not accept of these Conditions, They'll refer the Judgment of this Affair to the Consistory of the Dutch Church in this City.

To answer precisely and in a few words, to every one of these Articles, I say upon the first, what I have already repeated several times, viz. That I acknowledge these Gentlemen, as I have always done, and according to the manner by which they have been elected, that is to say, for Elders elected by the majority of the Votes, and with my Opposition. I cannot say any more of it, since there is nothing more in the truth of the fact itself; and since it shall always remain true till the end of the World, That they have been elected in this manner, and not otherwise. But as for the Question, Whether they have been duly and lawfully Elected, that is another matter, and they should do very well to say nothing of it, lest they should give me occasion to reveal the whole mystery and secret practice, which yet lies silent. As for my part, I don't believe they have been duly and lawfully elected, & I have laid the Reasons of it in two long Memorials that I have prepared upon this, and which, perhaps, will be produced one day or another. This being supposed, it is not just nor reasonable that I should be forced and constrained in my Opinion, or that I should declare any thing contrary to what I think of it. Nay suppose it was an Error or Obstinacy in me, they ought to let the People alone in their Error or Obstinacy, without pretending to constrain or compel them, or Tyranize them for their Thoughts.

Upon the second Article, I say, That tho' I have desired, by Letter, a Copy of that Act of the Confirmation or Reception of the Elders, yet I have not had the favour of it. Wherefore, to say, that I will sign it before I see it, cannot be expected: But if it contains nothing But Truth, I am ready to sign it; or if it should contain what is not, I am ready to testifie, by my Subscription, all that I know to be Truth concerning that Affair, the chief of which is, That the Elders were chosen by the Majority of the Voices of the Consistory, and with my Opposition.

Upon the Third Article, I consent to hold my self inviolably attached to the Discipline and to the Constitution of our Churches, which I have always here-to-fore been, and as much as can be in this Country, where we have not the means which we have in France, to Regulate our Affairs. But I hope, that they themselves will hold them also attached to this Discipline and this Constitution; for if they don't, they have no reason to hold another to it.

Upon the Fourth, I have to answer, as I have here-to-fore answered on the same Subject, That willingly I will submit my self to the Decisions of the Consistory, so far as the Constitution and Discipline of our Churches require, and in all other things that are Just and Reasonable, and agreeable to the Word of God, to Truth, to Charity, and to Equity; and I don't believe that a Reformed Protestant ought to engage himself otherwise to Submit to the Decision of any Body in the World, since he cannot submit himself blindly and without Examination, as I have shewed in my second Memorial. They must not ask here, Who shall judge of what is Just and Reasonable? For this is speaking as the Papists do, and I shall answer as a Calvinist, That the Word of God shall be Judge That Reason shall be Judge, That Charity shall be Judge, That Justice and Equity shall be Judge, &c. provided that People are Just, and Equitable, and Reasonable lovers of Truth, &c.

Fifthly. As for Referring the Decision of all this Affair to the Consistory of the Dutch Church, I have already signified in the precedent Discourse, (which has been delivered to the Gentlemen of the Consistory) the Inconveniences which I found therein, and it is easie to perceive several others. I shall only add here, That to refer the Judgment of a Sentence Consistorial to another Consistory, who are not of our Body, and who have no Authority over us, to decide our Affairs and Differences, and even to whom we cannot commodiously explain our selves, to understand one another, This doth not at all seem to me an Equivalent of an Appeal to a Colloquy, and much less to a Provincial or National Synod, it is however of National Equity, and no doubt, of the Spirit of our Discipline (as the Gentlemen of the Walloon Church in London do express themselves in their letter) that this Equivalent should be managed and reserved for Me. As to which I pray God there may be no further need of searching for, and that this my Answer to the Propositions may give Satisfaction to all.

"Capt. Jansen reported to this House, that (according to Order) Alderman Kipp and he had waited on his Excellency with Mr. De Lancey, in order to take the Oaths, &c., and his Excellency asked him, How he became a Subject of the Crown? Mr. De Lancey made answer, he was denizened in England, and that his Excellency being doubtful whether this was a sufficient Qualification to sit as a Member of this House, said he would consider of the same before he rendered him the Oaths; and then Mr. De Lancey withdrew.

"Mr. De Lancey returning, produced to this House, the following Papers and Testimonials, viz:

"An Act of Nicholas Hayward, Notary Publick, of London, certifying that the Name of Stephen De Lancey, was inserted in certain Letters Patent of Denization, granted by King James the Second, under the Broad Seal of England, dated the 20th Day of March, in the second Year of the said King's Reign, wherein the said Stephen De Lancey (tho' born beyond Sea) is made his Majesty's leige Subject of the Kingdom of England, and as such may purchase, buy, sell, enjoy and dispose of any Lands, Tenements or Hereditaments in the said Kingdom, or any other of his Dominions, as freely, peaceably, and entirely, as any Subject born in the said Kingdom; and that he is to pay Custom and Duties for Goods and Merchandizes only as Natives do, or ought to do, and to enjoy all Liberties, Privileges and Franchises, as a free Subject of the said Kingdom, without any Disturbance, Impediment or Molestation.

"A Letter of Denization under the Seal of this Province, and under the Hand of Col. Thomas Dongan, (then Governor of this Colony) dated the 7th Day of July, 1686.

"A Certificate under the Hand of Nicholas Bayard, Esq., then Mayor of the City of New York, and under the Seal of the said City, dated the 7th Day of September, 1687, that the said Mr. De Lancey had taken the Oath of Allegiance, as was directed by an Act of General Assembly of this Province, dated the first Day of November, 1683; and in Pursuance to a Proclamation of the then Governor and Council, made the 14th day of June, 1687.

"Mr. De Lancey afterwards sent to this House, the following Certificates of his having attended the Service of the General Assembly in the Years and for the Days here under mentioned, viz: Anno. 1702, 45 Days; Anno. 1703, 12 Days; Anno. 1704, 36 Days; Anno. 1705, 59 Days, and in the same Year 25 Days more; Anno. 1706, 28 Days, and in the same Year 35 Days more; Anno. 1708, 74 Days, and in the same Year 13 Days more; Anno. 1710, 72 Days; Anno. 1711, 34 Days, and in the same Year 75 Days more; Anno. 1712, 59 Days; Anno. 1713, 57 Days; Anno. 1714, 131 Days, and in the same Year 31 Days more.

"A Message from the Council, by Mr. Bobin,* That they desired this House to appoint a Committee, to join a Committee of that Board, for examining the Accounts of Col. Provoost, late Tonnage Officer, deceased; to meet at the House of Mr. Daniel Bonticow, in this City, at four in the Afternoon, Thursday next.

He also informed the House, That his Excellency had ordered him to acquaint this House, that Mr. De Lancey attending to be qualified, and being desired by his Excellency, to acquaint him how he became naturalized an English Subject, he said he was denizened in England; which his Excellency is doubtful whether it be a legal Qualification to sit as a Representative, and therefore intends to consult the Chief Justice, whether his Letters of Denization, are a sufficient Qualification before he proceed to tender him the Oaths; and then withdrew.

Die Martis, 9 ho. A. M. Sept. 21, 1725.

A Message from his Excellency by Mr. Bobin.

Gentlemen, I am ordered by his Excellency, to lay the Chief Justice's Opinion, concerning Mr. De Lancey's Qualification before the House, that the House may be fully enabled to form a Judgment, whether he is duly qualified to sit as a Member.

I am likewise ordered by his Excellency, to lay before the House, an Extract of a Letter from Mr. Le Heup to his Excellency, bearing date the 13th of July last.

And a Letter from the Commissioners of Indian Affairs in Albany, of the 2d of September, Instant.

The House taking into Consideration, the Message of his Excellency by Mr. Bobin, on the 13th Instant, relating to the Qualification of Mr. Stephen De Lancey, returned a Representative for the City and County of New York, in the Room of Col. David Provoost, deceased, as also the Papers, Testimonials and Certificates, produced by Mr. De Lancey on the same Day ; and likewise the Opinion of the Chief Justice, relating to that Matter sent this Day by his Excellency ; they also considered the two Acts of Assembly, relating to the Elections of Representatives ; the Clause in his Excellency's Letters Patent, relating to the calling of Assemblies, and examined several Persons, in relation to the Certificates of Col. Nicholas Bayard, in the year 1687, grounded as well on the Act for naturalizing Foreigners in 1683, as on a Proclamation in 1687 of the then Governor and Council (in whom the Legislation was then vested) and finding that some of the Members of this House, as well as many other Persons throughout this Colony, had no other right of Naturalization, than by Virtue thereof; the House after mature Deliberation on the whole Matter, came to the following Resolutions, viz:

Resolved, Nemine Contradicente, That the said Mr. De Lancey, is duly returned and qualified, to sit and serve in this House, as a Member thereof.

Resolved, Nemine Contradicente, That some Members of this House do wait on his Excellency with the said Mr. De Lancey, to desire that he will be pleased to administer or cause to be administred unto him, the Oaths and Declaration appointed by Law, to be taken and administred, to the End he may sit and serve in this House accordingly.

Ordered, That Capt. Jansen and Alderman Kip do go with the said Mr. De Lancey to his Excellency, and desire him, that he will be pleased to administer, or cause to be administered unto him, the Oaths and Declaration appointed by Law to be taken and administred.

Then the House adjourned to 3 of the Clock in the afternoon.

Die Martis, 3 ho. P. M. Sept. 21, 1725.

* * *

Capt. Jansen reported to this House, that (according to Order) he and Alderman Kip had waited on his Excellency with Mr. De Lancey, and saw him take the Oaths, and make the Declaration according to Law.

Ordered, That Mr. De Lancey do take his place as a Member of this House accordingly.*

* Had this attempt of Governor Burnet to unseat Mr. de Lancey succeeded, none but native born British subjects could have held office in New York.

Mr. de Lancey, who had previously served in the Assembly of the Province as a member for New York City, from 1702 to 1716, continued therein from this time up to 1737, making, with his previous term, as appears by the Journal of the Assembly, a total service, as such representative, of twenty-six years. His case settled the question for the whole Colonial period. Had he not been a political opponent of Governor Burnet the latter's action would not probably have been taken.

Opinion of Chief-Justice Morris referred to in the foregoing proceedings.

This Opinion was not published at its date, but appears for the first time as a note to the text of the first volume of the Journal as reprinted in 1765, (it is not in the original Journal of 1724–5) under an asterisk, thus, " * The following is the Chief Justice's Opinion above referred to, and is taken from the original Draught in his own Hand Writing, delivered to William Smith jun. Esq., in the year 1755, by his Son Lewis Morris, Esq., lately deceased, and is in the the words following, viz:"

September 19, 1725.

May it please your Excellency:

In Obedience to your Excellency's Commands of the 13th and 14th of this Instant September, I have considered the papers shewn to you by Mr. De Lancey, and of your Excellency's Questions; which are

First, Whether by any or all those Papers, considered with or without the Act in the year 1683, Mr. Stephen De Lancey, a Person of foreign Birth, is legally qualified to sit and act, as a Member of the General Assembly, in the Province of New York; in making and enacting Laws, for the Government of the said Province; And,

Secondly, If Mr. De Lancey be a Denison, whether any Person, barely a Denison, and not naturalized by Act of Parliament in England, or Act of Assembly in this Province; can legally sit and act as a Member of the Legislature?

The first of these Papers is a Certificate, made by one Hayward, a Publick Notary; certifying that he saw Letters Patents of Denization, granted by King James the Second, under the Great Seal of England, dated the 20th Day of March, in the second Year of his Reign; wherein among other Things, was inserted the Name of Stephen De Lancey, who though born beyond the Sea, is made his Majesty's liege Subject, &c., and refers to the said Letters Patent, where (as is said) these Things may more fully and at large appear.

Letters of Denisation may be of divers Kinds, absolute, limited, conditional, temporary, for life or Years; but which of these it is, does not appear by this Certificate; if Temporary, for Years, or conditional, its Validity may be long since expired, for that Patent might have contained, all that it is there said to contain, and much more, and yet might have been under Conditions and Limitations of Time; all that appears by the Certificate is, that a Patent of Denisation did issue, and that one Stephen De Lancey, is there named among others; but no Judgment can be formed from that Certificate, what Operation in Law that Patent of Denisation could (if still in Force) have. 7 C. b. Cal. Case. C. Lit. 129 a. 2 Dan. ab. Title, Alien, Denisen, 322, 323.

In Pages Case 5th co. 52 b. 53 a. The great Question was, whether the Defendant, should plead the Exemplification of the Enrollment, of the Letters Patent of Denisation, by force of the 3 Ed. 6 c. 4, or of the 13 El. ch. 6, and it was objected, that neither Exemplifications nor the Constat of any Letters Patent, were pleadable at the common Law, and that the Case of Denisation was out of the Words of both these Statutes; and it was resolved by the Court, 1st, That it was, that neither an Exemplification nor a Constat, was pleadable, and to be shewn to the Court at common Law, because they were but the Tenor of an Enrollment, and the Tenor of a Record is not by the Law pleadable. 2d, It was resolved, that the 13 of El. ch. 6, did extend to Letters Patent of Denisation, and all Patents whatsoever, without any Restraint; if this be Law, as I take it to be, let the Patent of Mr. De Lancey, be what it will, if those Laws do not extend to these Parts, it will be necessary for him to produce the original Patent; or if they do an Exemplification or Constat of the Enrollment, under the Great Seal of Britain, if he proposes any Advantages to himself, legally to be obtained by it, all other Proof being insufficient.

The second Paper is a Patent of Denisation, granted to Mr. De Lancey, on the 7th of July, 1686, by Col. Dongan, under the Seal of this Province. It seems very strange that he should take a Patent of Denisation from Col. Dongan, which at most, could extend no further than the Bounds of this Province, if he had one under the Great Seal of England, which extended over all the King's Dominions. I have perused Col. Dongan's Commission from King James, and do not find, any such Power or Authority given to him, without which, in my humble Opinion, it could not be granted; and of this Opinion, were the whole Plantation Board, in a Case of Letters of Denisation, granted by Col. Fletcher, to one Arnold Naudin, a Frenchman, wherein they say, that they do not find, that either Col. Fletcher, or any other the Governors of his Majesty's Plantations in America, had, or have any Manner of Power or Authority conferred on them, by their respective Commissions, to endenise Foreigners, and give their Opinion, that the Denisations granted by Col. Fletcher, are not only void in themselves, as not granted on any Authority whatsoever, but of most pernicious Consequence, and directly contrary to the Intention of the Laws of England, which relate to the Plantation Trade; this is farther confirmed, by a Report of Sir John Trevor and Sir John Hawles, then Attorney and Solicitor General, read at the Council Board in England, the 18th of January, 1699, wherein they seem to term the Acts of Naturalization in the Plantations, Denisations, and mention two Acts of Naturalization, passed in Maryland, and take Notice of the Letters of Denisation, granted to Naudin, and give their Opinion, that the Governors of the Plantations, ought not to grant Letters of Denisation, unless they were expressly authorized so to do by their Commissions; and accordingly there was an Order made by the King in Council, on the 18th of January, 1699; that Letters of Denisation be not granted by any the Governors of his Majesty's Plantations, otherwise than according to the Opinion of Mr. Attorney and Solicitor General, set forth in their Report; by that Report, they seem to comprise under the Term Denization, not only Patents of Denization granted by the Governors, but also Acts of Naturalization, passed by the General Assemblies in the Plantations, which seem to be forbidden to be passed, without a Restriction and Regard had to the Acts of Navigation, and other Statute, of England, no Law being to be passed in any of the Plantations, repugnant to the Laws of England; but be that as it will, with respect to Letters of Denisation, I take the Law to be positive and clear, that the granting of them, is a Prerogative solely and inseparably annexed to the Person of the King, and cannot be delegated to any other Person whatsoever. See 7 Co. 25 b. Calvin's Case, 2 Rolls Rep. 93. Palmer's Rep. 13, 14; and the Books say, the Kings of England have been sparing in granting them, ne inde admitantur inimici tanquam in equo Trojano; one Enemy in the Heart of a Common Wealth, being of more dangerous Consequence, than Thousands without. Pal. 14; and as I take it, both this and all other Letters of Denisetion, granted by Governors of Plantations (especially not having express Powers for the granting them) are in themselves void.

The third Paper, is a Certificate of Nicholas Bayard, Esq., then Mayor of New York, dated the 7th of September, 1687; certifying that Stephen De Lancey, had been an Inhabitant one Year and three Months, and had taken the Oath of Allegiance, as directed in an Act of General Assembly, made in the Year 1683, entitled, An Act, for naturalizing all those of foreign Nations, then inhabiting within this Province and professing Christianity, and in pursuance of a Proclamation of the Governor and Council, of the 14th of June then past, and that he had caused the said Stephen De Lancey to be enrolled.

I have not seen the Proclamation, so can say nothing to it; the Title of the Act is larger than what is mentioned in the Certificate, being entitled, An Act, for naturalizing all those of foreign Nations, at present inhabiting within this Colony, and professing Christianity, and for Encouragement of others to come and settle in the same; and is, I suppose, the Act of Assembly referred to, which has two enacting Clauses; the one, That all Foreigners of what Nation soever, professing Christianity, that then were actual Inhabitants within this Province, and had taken or subscribed, or that should take or subscribe the Oath of Allegiance, were thereby naturalized.

The other, that all Foreigners of what Nation soever, professing Christianity, that at any Time after the said Year 1683, should come into this Province, with an intent to become his Majesty's Subjects, and to dwell, settle and inhabit accordingly, and take the Oath of Allegiance to his Majesty, and Fidelity to his Royal Highness the Proprietor, &c. Every such Person may be naturalized by Act of Assembly, and from thence forth, shall in all Respects, be deemed as his Majesty's natural born Subjects, &c.

By the Mayor's Certificate it appears that Mr. De Lancey, arrived here some Time in the Beginning of June 1686, so that he was not an Inhabitant before, or at the Time of making the Act, therefore not within the Perview of the first Clause, which is indeed, very favourable, allowing any Person, that would then subscribe the Oath of Allegiance, to be naturalized. The second Clause, for the Encouragement of such as would come in, and comply with the Terms of it, promises, that they might afterwards be naturalized by an Act of Assembly, which Promise Mr. De Lancey, has not thought fit hitherto, to take the Advantage of, and is not at present naturalized or made a Denison, by Virtue of that Act, referred to in the Mayor's Certificate.

Upon the whole of these Papers, whether considered by themselves, or with the Act of Assembly, made in the year 1683, or any other Act of the Assembly of this Province, that is known to me, they do not confer the Benefit of Naturalization, and should they all be good and valid, for what was intended by them in their utmost Force, they neither can, nor never were meant to confer a greater Benefit than that of Denisation, which doth not legally entitle any Person to a Seat in the Legislature, as will more fully appear in the Answer to the following Question.

As to the Question, whether any person barely a Denison, and not naturalized by Act of Parliament in England, or Act of Assembly in this Province, can legally sit and act as a member of the Legislature; I shall beg Leave to answer this Question, in the Words of my Lord Cook, who in his fourth Part of the Institute of the Laws of England, Page 47, says, An Alien cannot be elected of the Parliament, because he is not the King's liege Subject; and so it is, although he be made a Denison by Letters Patent, &c., for thereby he is made, quasi, seu tanquam Ligeus; but that will not serve, for he must be, ligeus Revera, and not quasi, &c., and we have had such a one chosen, and disallowed by the House of Commons, for such a Person can hold no Place of Judicature.

By a Letter of Denisation from the King, an Alien is lisenced to purchase and enjoy Lands, which he could not legally do without, and that Patent of Denisation, is the King's dispensing with the Forfeiture, which he would otherwise have had of Lands purchased by that Alien; but it doth by no means make him a natural Subject; that can be, and only be by Operation of Law, Pal. 14. Molloy, 413, speaking of Lady Carwell, who was made Dutchess of Portsmouth; says the same was rather Honorary, than a Title consistent with the Laws of England, for though his Majesty is the Fountain of Honour, and may call the meanest of his Subjects to the highest of Dignities, yet it is their civil Qualifications, which make them capable of enjoying the Immunities and Privileges of Peers; but that flows from another Fountain, even the Law of the Realm, which as to Denisons, disables them to take so signal a mark of Sovereignty without Act of Parliament.

An Alien is not less an Alien here, than he is in England; nor Denison more a natural Subject; and as I take it; neither can become one, either here or there, but by Operation of Law; and in my humble Opinion, none but a natural Subject, either born or made so by Law, can legally sit and act as a member of the Legislature here, and the knowingly and designedly admitting others, would be, as I take it, repugnant to the Laws of England, and of more pernicious Consequence to its Interest, at this remote Distance, than any or all the Denisations, so severely remarked upon, by the Ministry of that Time, and give the present when its known unto them, just Umbrage of Suspicion that something more is intended by it, than is consistent with that Duty and Allegiance owing to his Majesty, and Dependance on the British Government, which your Excellency is principally concerned to take Care, shall not be in the least abated; but with Respect to De Lancey, the Person who gave rise to these Questions, I have observed, that in the Commission from King James to Col. Dongan, there was a Power of Legislation granted to the said Governor and Council, and whether the Proclamation of the Governor and Council, referred to in the Mayor's Certificate may not have been an Act of the then Legislature (such as it was) to naturalize the said De Lancey, in particular or joined with others, is to me unknown; he has for many Years sat and acted in the General Assembly, and has been generally deemed qualified so to do, and if any Act of the Legislature of that Time, gave a general or particular Naturalization to De Lancey, or others, though strictly speaking, it might not be legal, yet it having been nigh 40 Years since, if any such can be produced, and your Excellency can be indubitably assured the Proclamation there referred to, was an Act of Naturalization; I think it would be inconvenient, not to admit those concerned to receive the Benefit of it, so far as you legally may. All which is nevertheless most humbly submitted to your Excellency's great Wisdom.*

PETITION OF THE FRENCH CHURCH FOR A CHARTER.

To his Excellency the Honorable Robert Monckton Captain General & Governor in Chief of the Province of New York & the Territories thereon depending in America Vice Admiral of the same & Major General of his Majesty's Forces, &c^a &^a

The Petition of Jean Carll the present Minister Peter Vallade & James Desbrosses the present Elders and Daniel Bonnet & Charles Jandine the present Deacons of the French Protestant Church of the City of New York.

MOST HUMBLY SHEWETH

That a considerable Part of this Province and Particularly of the City of New York, the Counties of West Chester and Richmond and a Tract called the Paltz in Ulster County have been long since settled by many of those unhappy People who flew from the Persecution in France upon the Revocation of the Edict of Nantz in 1685.

* Journal of Votes and Proceedings of General Assembly of Colony of N. Y.; Vol. 1. pp. 518, 519.

That those who established themselves in the City of New York were enabled by an Act of the Legislature of this Colony passed in 1703, to purchase and set apart a Lott of Ground on which in the succeeding Year they erected a decent Edifice for the public Worship of Almighty God according to the usage of the French protestant Churches, and the Residue they devoted to the use of the Cemetery or Church Yard for the Interment of their Dead.

That they have ever since maintained a Succession of Ministers there, who have dispensed the Ordinances of divine Worship in the French Tongue once to a very numerous and flourishing Congregation, now indeed unhappily reduced by various Causes to a less popular Assembly.

That besides the said Church and Lott of Ground they enjoy the Rents of a House and Parcel of Ground in the Township of Breucklin on Nassau Island; charitably given for the better Support of the Gospel amongst them.

That the said Lot of Ground in this City is situated on the North East side of King's Street and is in Breadth in the Front to the said Street Seventy Feet and in the Rear Seventy five Feet and in Length extending from the Front on both sides to Little Queen Street on the Easterly Side one hundred & fifty four Feet and on the Northwesterly Side one hundred and fifty Seven Feet and one Half Foot English Measure and that the said House and Lot or Parcel of Ground in the Township of Breucklin are situated near the Ferry on Nassau Island containing in Breadth Eighty Feet & ten Inches fronting the Road from the City Ferry to Breucklin Church & the same in the Rear, and in Length on both Sides one hundred and twenty five feet all English Measure, and are bounded Southeasterly by Land now or late belonging to the Widow Middagh & Northwesterly by the Land formerly of Hans Bergen.

That your Petitioners who' do most cordially exult in the late Successes of his Majesty's Arms, hope their Congregation will speedily grow numerous by foreign Accessions, and are extremely desirous to secure the little Estate they now enjoy & transmit it to their Posterity for the pious Ends for which it was originally given.

And as the French Protestants in general may boast of the most inviolable Fidelity to all those indulgent States & Powers who' protected them from the merciless Rage of their Popish Persecutors—as your Petitioners in particular are the Descendants of a People who', suffered the greatest Hardships & flew from their native Country to preserve the Purity of the Christian Faith and Worship.

As they flatter themselves that a French protestant Church in this City may invite Foreigners of their Persuasion to come over and settle here increase the number of useful Inhabitants & be a Means to reclaim the Kings popish Subjects in Canada who' will visit these Parts from the Errors, Idolatry & Superstition of the Church of Rome & thus facilitate their hearty Submission to the British Government firmly confiding therefore in your Excellency's Generosity to all Protestants who are good Subjects & being persuaded that the zeal for the Public Interest which has so often induced you to expose your Life in the most hazardous Enterprizes will engage your Excellency's approbation of any Measure that may conduce to the common utility & the maintenance of the protestant Religion, Your Petitioners do therefore most humbly Pray for a Grant & Confirmation of the Premises & that they & their Successors may be made capable to hold & enjoy the same by his Majesty's Royal Charter creating them a Body Politic in Deed & in name by the name & style of the Minister, Elders & Deacons of the protestant French Church of the City of New York and that they & their Successors may thereby be enabled to acquire & hold a further Estate & to injoy such other Powers & Privileges as may be necessary for the orderly Government of their Church & the pious Purposes aforesaid specified in a certain Draft herewith presented or such other Immunities & Powers as to your Excellency in your great Wisdom may seem meet

And your Petitioners as in Duty bound shall pray &

People, who flew from the Persecutions in France upon the Revocation of the Edict of Nantz in 1685. That those who established themselves in the City of New York were enabled by an Act of the Legislature of our said Colony passed in 1703 to purchase and sett apart a Lott of Ground, on which in the succeeding year they erected a decent Edifice for the public Worship of Almighty God according to the Usage of the French protestant Churches and the Residue they devoted to the Use of a Cemetery or Church Yard for the Interment of their Dead. That they have ever since maintained a Succession of Ministers there who have dispensed the Ordinances of divine Worship in the French Tongue once to a very numerous and flourishing Congregation, now indeed unhappily reduced by various Causes to a less popular Assembly. That besides the said Church and Lott of Ground they injoy the Rents of a House and Parcel of Ground in the Township of Breucklin on Nassau Island charitably given for the better support of the Gospel amongst them. That the said Lott of Ground in this City is situated on the North East Side of King's Street and is in Breadth in the Front to the said Street Seventy Feet and in the Rear Seventy Five Feet and in Length extending from the Front on both Sides to Little Queen's Street on the Easterly Side one hundred & fifty four Feet and on the North Westerly Side one hundred and fifty seven Feet and one half Foot English Measure. And that the said House and Lott or Parcel of Ground in the Township of Breucklin are situated near the Ferry on Nassau Island containing in Breadth Eighty Feet and Ten Inches fronting the Road from the Ferry to Breucklin Church and the same in the Rear, and in Length on both Sides one hundred and twenty five Feet all English Measure and are bounded South Easterly by Land now or late belonging to the Widow Midagh and Northwesterly by the Land formerly of Hans Bergen. That the said Petitioners who do most cordially exult in the late Successes of his Majesty's Arms, hope their Congregation will speedily grow numerous by foreign Accessions and are extremely desirous to secure the little Estate they now injoy and transmit it to their Posterity for the pious Ends, for which it was originally given. That as the French Protestants in general may boast of the most inviolable Fidelity to all those indulgent States and Powers, who protected them from the merciless Rage of their popish Persecutors—That as they the Petitioners in particular are the Descendants of a People who suffered the greatest Hardships and flew from their native Country to preserve the Purity of the Christian Faith and Worship, That as they flatter themselves, that a French protestant Church in the said City may invite Foreigners of their Persuasion to come over & settle here, increase the Number of useful Inhabitants and be a means to reclaim our Popish Subjects in Canada, who may visit these Parts from the Errors, Idolatry & Superstitions of the Church of Rome and thus facilitate their Hearty Submission to our Government The said Petitioners did therefore thereby humbly pray for a Grant and Confirmation of the Premises and that they and their Successors might be made capable to hold and injoy the same by our Royal Charter creating them a Body Politic and Corporate in Deed and in Name by the Name of the Protestant French Church of the City of New York and that they and their Successors might thereby be enabled to acquire & hold a further Estate and to injoy such other Powers and Privileges as may be necessary for the orderly Government of their Church and the pious Purposes aforesaid or such other Immunities & Powers as to our said Governour might seem meet As by the said Petition Refference being thereunto had may more fully appear Now therefore know Ye that we considering the said petition and being willing to encourage other Protestants of the same Denomination to come and settle within this Colony for the better Peopling the same & the Increase of its Strength and for the more effectual Cultivation thereof And being above All desirous to promote Virtue, true Religion & the Service of Almighty God Have thought fit to favor the pious Purpose of our said loving Subjects & to secure them & their Successors joining with them of the same Religious Persuasion in the full Exercise & Injoyment of all their civil and religious Rights & to preserve to them & their Successors the Liberty of worshiping God according to their Consciences & the Usages of the protestant reformed French Churches in Geneva in Europe And therefore that they may be the more effectually able to hold and injoy the Premisses we have thought fit & are graciously pleased to ordain and declare, that the Church or Edifice so as aforesaid built & the Cemetery thereunto belonging shall be the Church & Cemetery of the Minister, Elders & Deacons of the Protestant French Church of the City of New York and the same is hereby declared to be forever separated & dedicated to the Service of God & to be applied therein only to the Use of the Members of the said Church & Congregation & others joining with them And that there shall be a Minister to have the Care of the Souls of the Members thereof & a perpetual Succession of Ministers there. And we do by the Presents constitute our trusty & loving Subject Jean Carle to be the present Minister of the said Church & Congregation for the Dispensation of divine Ordinances amongst them. And we are further at the humble Request of the said Petitioners graciously pleased to create & make them a Body Corporate & Politic with the Powers & Privileges herein after mentioned. Draft of the Charter petitioned for by the Ministers, Elders & Deacons of the protestant french Church of the City of New-York.

REPORT OF THE COUNCIL OF N. Y. TO GOVERNOR SIR HENRY MOORE, ON THE PETITIONS OF DISSENTERS FOR CHARTERS.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY,

In obedience to your Excellency's Order in Council of the 4th ultimo, referring to us a Letter of the 29th July last, from the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations; and requiring our Advice and Information on the Petition therein inclosed, lately presented to his Majesty, by the "Present Ministers of the Presbyterian Church in the City of New York, praying to be incorporated by a Charter under the Seal of the Province of New York, for the Purposes set forth in the said Petition." The Committee have duely considered the same, and beg leave to represent to your Excellency:

That on the 8th February 1759, a Petition was preferred to Lieutenant Governor De Lancey by the "Minister, Elders and Deacons of the Lutheran Church of the City of New York" praying to be incorporated; and afterwards on the 14th March following, reported by the Committee to whom it was referred, and a Charter advised to be granted to the Petitioners—That on the 30th March 1759, a like Petition was presented to Mr De Lancey by the "Minister Elders Deacons and Trustees of the Presbyterian Church of the City of New York" and referred to a Committee—That on the 9th February 1763, an Application of the same Nature was made by the "Minister, Elders and Deacons of the reformed Protestant Dutch Church of the Township of Orange" and referred to a Committee—That on the 16th March 1763, a Petition of the "Minister, Elders, and Deacons of the French Protestant Church, of the City of New York," praying to be incorporated, was read in Council; and likewise referred to a Committee—And that on the 9th September 1763, the Lutherans by a second Petition, prayed a Warrant might Issue to the Attorney General, to prepare a Draft of the Charter ordered on their former Petition; both which Petitions, the Council advised Mr Colden to transmit to the Right Honourable the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations—That Mr Colden, whose Reasons will appear by his Letters on this Subject, did transmit the said two Petitions; and received their Lordships Answer, by their Letter of the 15th July 1764, wherein is the following Paragraph. "We have attentively considered the Petition of the Minister, Elders and Deacons of the Lutheran Church, praying for a Charter of Incorporation; and though we shall be at all Times desirous of concurring in any Measure, that may contribute to the Satisfaction of every pious Community, the principles of which are not adverse to the Religious Constitution of these Kingdoms: Yet it does not appear to us from any thing set forth in their Petition, that such an Incorporation is at present Necessary or Expedient."

Except the Charters granted to the Church of England, all the Instances of such Incorporations within this Province, (four only in Number) are confined to the Dutch, whose Claims to this Distinction, are, the Committee apprehend, grounded on one of the Articles of Capitulation, on the Surrender of the Colony in the year 1664, by which it is declared "that the Dutch here, shall enjoy the Liberty of their Consciences in Divine Worship, and Church Discipline."

In the Petition now under Consideration, it is asserted as an Inducement to the Royal Grant; "That his Majssty's Subjects of the Province of New York, Dutch and English of the Presbyterian Perswasion, are a great majority of the whole Number of its Inhabitants": This Suggestion, though it should be allowed in respect to Numbers cannot be admitted, as to the Connection it supposes between the People of those two Denominations; The Dutch were originally part of the Church of Holland, and conform themselves to the Doctrine Worship and Discipline approved by the National Synod at Dordrecht; Whereas the Prayer of the Petitioners, is to be incorporated by the "Name and Stile of the Ministers, Elders, Deacons and Trustees of the Presbyterian Church of the City of New York, according to the Westminster Confession of Faith, Cathecisms, and Directory, agreeable to the present established Church of Scotland."—In regard to the other Allegations in the Petition, the Committee discover no essential or material Difference in the Circumstances of the Petitioners, and the other Protestant Congregations, not of the Communion of the Church of England, whereon to ground any Preference But it is asserted by the Petitioners, That "the old English Statutes of Uniformity, do not extend to America;" Whether these Statutes, or that of the 5th Anne Cap: 5, which is made an essential part of the Act of Union; do or do not extend to the Plantations; is a Question of which the Committee do not conceive themselves competent Judges; and which appears necessary to be determined on the highest authority, previous to any final Resolution on the Petition; lest such Incorporations might be considered as repugnant to the provisions of those Statutes.

All which is humbly submitted
By Order of the Committee
JOS: READE Chairman.

The King's Order in Council Dismissing the Petition of the Presbyterian Church.

[MS. Executive Counc. Min. XXVI.]

[Seal] At the Court of St James's
The twenty sixth day of August 1767.

Present
The Kings Most Excellent Majesty

Arch-Bishop of Canterbury	Viscount Falmouth
Lord President	Viscount Barrington
Duke of Grafton	Lord Le Despencer
Earle of Shelburne	Mr. Secretary Conway

Viscount Townsend

Whereas there was this Day read at the Board a Report from the Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Council for Plantation affairs, dated the 24th of this Instant, in the Words following vizt

"Your Majesty having been pleased, by your Order "in Council of the 28th May 1766, to direct the Lords "Commissioners for Trade and Plantations, to Consider "and report their Opinion to this Committee, upon a "petition of the present Ministers, Elders, Deacons and "Trustees of the Presbyterian Church of New York, "humbly praying, for the reasons therein contained, "that your Majesty would be graciously pleased to "create them a Body Politick and Corporate, by the "Name and Stile of the Ministers, Elders, Deacons and "Trustees of the Presbyterian Church of the City of "New York, according to the Westminister Confession "of Faith, Catechisms and Directory, agreeably to the "present Church of Scotland, and that they and their "Successors may be thereby enabled, under the Great "Seal of the Province, to hold and enjoy the said Church "and Grounds belonging to the same, and to acquire

" and hold a further Estate and enjoy such other Powers
" and Privileges as may be necessary for the Encourage" ment of Religious Worship; and that Your Majesty
" would be graciously pleased to grant them such other
" Aid, Protection and Contenance, as to Your Royal
" Wisdom should seem meet—And the said Lords Com" missioners having, in obedience to Your Majesty's
" said Order of Reference, reported to this Committee,
" that it appearing, as well upon the face of the said
" Petition itself, as from other papers in possession of " that Board, that many Proceedings had been had " before the Council of New York, touching an applica" tion of the Presbyterian Church there, for a Charter
" of Incorporation, it was thought advisable to transmit
" a Copy of the said Petition to the Governor there, with " Directions to communicate the same to the Council for " their Advice and Information thereupon, and to report
" in the fullest manner, the present State and condition
" of this Protestant Establishment, and also all the pro" ceedings upon a Petition to the same Effect presented " to them during the Administration of Lieutenant Gov" ernor Colden, and the Reasons why such application
" did not succeed at that time. That in Return to this
" Reference to the Governor of New York he had lately
" transmitted to the said Lords Commissioners a report " made to him thereupon by a Committee of Your " Majesty's Council there, wherein is set forth not only " a true Account of the Proceedings and Precedents to
" to which the Petition to Your Majesty refers, but a " doubt is likewise stated of great weight and Impor" tance in this Question Viz' Whether Your Majesty
" consistent with the Obligation you are under by Your " Coronation Oath, founded on the Act of the 5th of " Queene Anne Cap 5, Intituled 'An Act for securing
" the Church of England as by Law established,' can " create such an establishment in favour of the Presby" terian Church as is now requested? Which Question

"the said Lord Commissioners conceive to be of too "great Importance for them to decide upon, but upon "the fullest Consideration of what is stated in the "Report of the Council of New York, they are of "Opinion, that Independent of the objection arising out "of this Question, it is not expedient upon Principles "of General Policy to comply with the Prayer of this "Petition, or to give the Presbyterian Church of New "York, any other Privileges and Immunities than it is "entitled to by the Laws of Toleration—The Lords of "the Committee having maturely considered the Whole "of this Matter, do agree in Opinion with the said Lords "Commissioners, and therefore humbly Report to your "Majesty that the said Petition ought to be dismissed."

His Majesty taking the said Report into Consideration, was pleased with the Advice of his Privy Council to approve thereof, and to Order, as it is hereby Ordered, that the said Petition of the Ministers, Elders, Deacons and Trustees of the Presbyterian Church of New York, be dismissed this Board—whereof the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, or Commander in Chief of his Majesty's Province of New York, for the time being, and all others whom it may concern, are to take Notice, and govern themselves accordingly.

INDEX.

This index comprises only the names found in the records here published. Every name, with the exception of some possible oversights, is indexed, first, when it occurs for the first time; secondly, when an important event, such as a birth, marriage, death or abjuration, is recorded; thirdly, when the reference throws any light upon the orthography of the name or the relationship of the person; and, fourthly, frequently when the name occurs for the last time.

Of the abbreviations used, a. stands for abjures; b. for baptized; d. for dies or dead; f. for father; m. for mother; mar. for marries; o. for officiates; s. for sponsor, and w. for witness.

Notice that married women are referred to, except in a few cases, under their maiden names; that the orthography of the Christian names has been modernized; and that no attempt has been made to indicate the relationship of every person named.

A closer comparison of the names has suggested the following changes:

For Boysllaud, p. 2, last line, read Boybellaud;
For Hek, p. 21, line 23, read Heck;
For Carretié, p. 24, line 19, read Carrelié;
For P., p. 46, line 6, read S.;
For Bauard, p. 83, line 5, read Rauard;
For Vallema, p. 89, line 27, read Valleua;
For Gernereau, p. 95, line 11, read Geruereau;
For Danall, p. 109, line 20, read Davall;
For James, p. 111, last line, read Jannes;
For Bené, p. 115, line 16, read René;
For Gervereau, p. 123, lines 18 and 21, read Geruereau;
For Roeerts, p. 147, line 16, read Roberts;
For Faveau, p. 156, line 11, read Taveau;
For G., p. 158, last line, read J.;
For Trueman, p. 309, line 2, read Trueman.
